BIG 5 TO MEET TODAY ON WORD THAT HYLAN HAS CHOSEN TO FIGHT

OLVANY TAKES HYLAN ISSUE

M'COOEY UNDER PRESSURE

Hylan's Friends Threaten to Ruin His County Ticket if He Compromises for Harmony.

Word came late yesterday that the "Big Five" Democratic borough leaders had been summoned unexpectedly and hurriedly to meet today. It was understood when the first meeting of the leaders adjourned on Tuesday that they would not meet again until next week.

The purpose of today's session was not disclosed. With regard to the place of meeting as much secrecy was being observed yesterday as on Tuesday. That something of paramount interest and importance had prompted the sudden call to the borough chiefs was the general view in Democratic circles, and some major proposal or move that will prove consequential at the gathering today is looked for by the politicians of Mayor Hylan's own party.

Before there had been any warning that the leaders would meet again so soon, friends of Mayor Hylan had made it reasonably clear that the Mayor was determined to enter the Democratic primaries and make a fight for renomination. One person in Mayor Hylan's confidence made the significant admission that if any attempt were made to "rob the Mayor of a primary victory or count him out," the Mayor would not take his defeat placidly, but would run for a third term as an independent.

It was this which the Democratic leaders who are opposed to the renomination of Mayor Hylan had hoped to avert, by practically challenging his supporters to fight for him at the primaries, all concerned abiding by the result. Under the circumstances, it was pointed out, Manhattan and the Bronx could come out for a candidate meeting with the approval of their organizations, and the other three boroughs enter Mayor Hylan in the race without the party regularity of any leader on either side of the conflict being impaired.

The outcome of the primary fight itself would determine the question of regularity.

Both Sides for Five-Cent Fare.

Judge George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall, declared yesterday when questioned on the subject that Tammany would boldly take the five-cent fare issue away from Mayor Hylan should he enter the Democratic primaries. In effect, Mr. Olvany said that Tammany was on record as in favor of the five cent fare long before Mayor Hylan was first thought of in connection with the Mayoralty fight years ago. Moreover, he stated, Tammany's representatives in the Legislature were responsible for the present law limiting the rate of fare to 5 cents.

The statement came in reply to a question asked the Tammany chieftain as his "at home" at Tammany Hall was drawing to a close last night.

"Suppose Mayor Hylan should enter the primaries in opposition to a candidate entered by the Democratic organizations in Manhattan and the Bronx, what stand would you take on the five cent fare which the Mayor undoubtedly would make his principal issue?" Mr. Olvany was asked.

"It isn't the Mayor's issue at all," Mr. Olvany replied. "There cannot possibly be any misunderstanding with regard to Tammany's stand on the five cent fare, because this is a matter of public record. We are for the five cent fare and always have been. No man will be designated by this organization for Mayor, for any place on the Board of Estimate or for a seat in the Legislature or in the Aldermanic Board who is not firmly committed to the five cent fare. You cannot make that too strong. And what I have said about the five cent fare goes with regard to home rule, too."

It was recalled by Mr. Olvany that as early as during the Hughes régime at Albany Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner, who is now considered as a possible candidate for the Mayoralty nomination against Mayor Hylan, sponsored a measure, as a member of the Legislature, limiting the fare from any part of the city to Coney Island to five cents.

Mr. Olvany also said that the present five cent fare legislation is due to the fight made for it, often against heavy odds in a Republican Legislature, by the representatives of Tammany Hall in the lawmaking body. Senator James J. Walker, as leader of the Democratic minority, he recalled, had been instrumental in inserting a clause limiting the rate of fare on city operated transportation lines to five cents when such a provision was found missing in the measure creating the Board of Transportation, which had been prepared by Mayor Hylan's Corporation Counsel and which was sent to Senator Walker for introduction, bearing the stamp of Mayor Hylan's approval.

Unless something is done to avert it when the five borough chiefs meet today, a bitter primary fight, extending to every borough in the city, appears to be inevitable. Rumors of war and warlike talk pervaded the Democratic borough headquarters all day yesterday and everywhere preparations were in

Japanese Cabinet Resigns After Clash of Two Parties

TOKIO, July 30 (AP).—An extraordinary meeting of the Japanese Cabinet today developed a serious situation between the Kenseikai and Seiyukai party members over the question of tax adjustment.

The differences led to a demand from Premier Kato for the resignations of three Seiyukai party members in the Cabinet, the Ministers of Justice, Commerce and Industry, and Agriculture and Forestry.

Two Ministers present from whom resignations were demanded left the meeting. A third member was absent because of illness.

The Cabinet later resigned.

SINNOTT PROFITS IN HYLAN TUNNEL

Kerrigan Asserts $10,190 Was Paid for Surety Bonds Before Project Was Stopped.

MORE ACTIVITIES REVEALED

Deputy Controller Charles F. Kerrigan made public last night an additional chapter of Controller Craig's investigation into alleged relations between the City Hall and Sinnott & Canty, insurance and bonding firm. The instalment dealt with the bonding of the proposed $60,000,000 Staten Island tunnel, work upon which was halted by a legislative act signed by Governor Smith.

In his statement Mr. Kerrigan charged that if Mayor Hylan had been successful in his announcement to "build the tunnel anyway," despite the act stopping it, the members of Sinnott & Canty, one of whom is a brother of John F. Sinnott, the Mayor's secretary and son-in-law, would have collected $135,000 in premiums.

As it was, according to the Deputy Controller's statement, James Paul Sinnott and his partner, Thomas F. Canty of South Norwalk, Conn., received $10,190 as premiums on the bonds of contractors for the sinking of the shafts at the Brooklyn and at the Staten Island ends of the projected tube.

Neither Mr. Kerrigan nor Mr. Craig had anything to add yesterday to their replies to the Sinnott & Canty libel suits for $11,250,000 against officials and newspapers of this city. Max D. Steuer, who began the suits was reported as still fishing somewhere.

Mr. Kerrigan's New Chapter.

Mr. Kerrigan's statement yesterday follows:

Department of Finance,
City of New York.
July 30, 1925.

New light was thrown upon Mayor Hylan's attempt to disregard the act signed by Governor Alfred E. Smith which stopped the construction of the proposed $60,000,000 Staten Island Tunnel, by the disclosures yesterday in the investigation conducted by Controller Charles L. Craig's staff that Sinnott & Canty were deriving a comfortable part of their income from the tunnel project.

This agency, headed by J. Paul Sinnott, brother of Mayor Hylan's son-in-law, Secretary John F. Sinnott, whose relations with the Mayor's office in City Hall are under investigation, received $10,190 in premiums for the work carried on in connection with sinking the shafts at the Brooklyn end and the Island end of the proposed tunnel. They also received premiums on all other bonds filed with the city in connection with the tunnel project.

On the basis usually employed in figuring their commissions, the firm of Sinnott & Canty, if successful in writing the business on a total of $60,000,000 expected to be spent in connection with the tunnel, and if Mayor Hylan had been successful in carrying out his plan to "build the tunnel anyway," would have collected approximately $135,000 from this project alone.

The contract for constructing the shaft at the Shore Road end of the tunnel in Brooklyn, let in December, 1922, and the contract for the South Street shaft in Staten Island, let in June, 1923, were awarded to Patrick McGovern, Inc., one of the largest contracting firms in the country. The price for the Brooklyn shaft was $472,508 and that of the Staten Island shaft

20,000 AT CAPITAL VIEW BRYAN'S BODY AS IT LIES IN STATE

KELLOGG ACTS FOR NATION

LITTLE MILITARY DISPLAY

Soldiers Afoot Will Escort Hearse From Cemetery Gate—Bugler Will Sound "Taps."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The body of William Jennings Bryan was brought to Washington this morning from the Mountains of Tennessee, where he fought his last great fight for Fundamentalism, and was taken to the historic New York Avenue Presbyterian Church to lie in state until tomorrow's funeral and burial at Arlington.

The heavy bronze coffin was taken into the church just before 11 o'clock and the doors of the edifice were opened to the waiting throng at 12:10 o'clock. Before they were closed tonight it is estimated that nearly 20,000 persons had moved slowly past the bier of the "Great Commoner" over which at all hours two veterans of the Spanish-American war stood guard.

There was no great crowd around the Church, but at all times there was a fairly steady stream of persons filing into the Church, two abreast, with from 2,000 to 3,000 an hour entering. This continued until ten o'clock tonight, when the doors were closed.

The body will again lie in state from 9 o'clock tomorrow morning until noon.

Secretary Kellogg will attend the funeral tomorrow as the official representative of the State Department and of President Coolidge as an evidence of the Government's respect for a former member of the Cabinet.

Flags on Government buildings will be at half-staff for the funeral tomorrow. Secretary Kellogg today ordered the State Department, over which Mr. Bryan once presided, closed at noon tomorrow, but the other departments will remain open as usual.

Two Floral Offerings Placed by the Bier.

Of the many floral offerings contributed by friends, only two were placed near the bier today. One was a large wreath sent by Secretary Kellogg and the other a small wreath of pink hearts of roses sent by Mr. Bryan's only great-granddaughter, Ruth Meeker of Cape May, N. J. The card with it bears only one word, "Grandfather." The flowers were brought here from Baltimore by Mrs. R. C. Meeker of Baltimore, grandmother of the girl.

Despite the strain of the ordeal through which she is passing, Mrs. Bryan, who is an invalid, appeared to be bearing up bravely as she pushed through the concourse of Union Station on her roller chair. A police detail escorted the funeral party into the Presidential suite at the station, where Mrs. Bryan rested a few moments before entering a cab for the trip across Washington to her hotel.

The flag-draped coffin was not removed from the funeral car until after Mrs. Bryan had left the station. It was then placed in a motor hearse by a guard of honor of Spanish-American War veterans and taken to undertaking parlors on Tenth Street. It took almost an hour for the journey along Massachusetts Avenue, due to the crush of the morning hour motor traffic. Later the body was taken to the church.

With the exception of the selection of the active and honorary pallbearers, the plans for the funeral, which will be simple, were completed after friends conferred this morning with Mrs. Bryan and ascertained her wishes.

At the request of Mrs. Bryan, who interpreted this to be the wish of her husband, there will not be a military funeral. The body will be taken to Arlington tomorrow afternoon in a hearse, and not on a military caisson.

Army to Pay Its Tribute at Grave.

At the south gate of Arlington Cemetery, however, the army in which Colonel Bryan served in the war with Spain will unobtrusively pay its only tribute. There three batteries of the Sixteenth Field Artillery—A, B and C—

Santa Barbara Is Shaken by New Tremor; Shocks Felt From Honolulu to Kansas

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 30 (AP).—Santa Barbara and vicinity experienced a sharp earthquake shock at 1:50 this morning, followed by a lighter one a few hours later. There was no damage and most persons slept through the shocks.

VENTURA, Cal., July 30 (AP).—Two slight earth tremors were felt here early today. The first was noted at 1:30 A. M. and the second between 4:30 and 5 A. M. No damage was done.

HONOLULU, July 30 (AP).—A slight earthquake shock was reported in several districts of Honolulu about 9:20 o'clock last night. There was no damage.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 30 (AP).—Earth tremors severe enough to rattle dishes and shake windows and doors were felt at Clovis, N. M., at 5:18 this morning. Tremors also were felt at several other places.

DENVER, July 30 (AP).—A heavy earthquake shock lasting three minutes was recorded on the seismograph at Regis College here early today. Its centre was estimated to be about 300 miles south of Denver.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 30 (AP).—Earth tremors of moderate intensity were felt in Kansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas today, but no property damage has been reported. The quakes occurred between 6 and 6:15 A. M. Reports from over Kansas stated that the shocks were felt in a number of cities.

Cities in Northwestern Oklahoma also reported an earth disturbance.

Amarillo and surrounding towns in the Panhandle of Texas reported tremors lasting thirty seconds. Buildings were swayed noticeably. No damage was reported.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP).—Sharp earthquake shocks were registered on the Georgetown University seismograph today, beginning at 7:15 A. M., Eastern Standard Time, and lasting until about 8 o'clock. The centre of the disturbance was placed as about 1,700 miles from Washington.

BEEBE AND ARCTURUS HOME WITH MARVELS

SARGASSO LEGEND A MYTH

All dressed up in flags, trailing a long home-coming streamer from its mast, the great ocean-going scientific laboratory Arcturus arrived in New York harbor yesterday with its hold full of rare marine specimens, alive and dead, including a fish with a thousand lights, a fish that walks with eight hands and a fish that has vastly less privacy than a goldfish. This latter is a deep-sea fish which has a transparent pane over its stomach, a huge bay window which permits the spectator to see everything that it has eaten and its whole internal mechanism in operation.

The Arcturus docked at the foot of West Seventy-ninth Street, where a large party was in waiting to welcome William Beebe, the leader of the expedition, and the thirteen specialists who accompanied him to study the strange fish, of which about fifty new species were taken by the expedition.

The Arcturus completed its expedition 100 miles out by fishing during the last week at the foot of the cliff over which the Hudson River once thundered in a greater waterfall than any now existing on earth. This was about two million years ago, before the glaciers and other great forces had gerrymandered New York State to its present proportions.

Old Riverbed Still Distinct.

"The old riverbed is plainly marked on the ocean bottom," said Dr. Beebe. "The cliff over which it fell now exists and shows a fall of 930 feet, greater than any river waterfall on earth. We dredged about the foot of the cliff within 100 miles of the City Hall and found a rich deep-sea life."

Several brightly lighted fish were hauled up to the surface, indicating that a white light district exists at the mouth of the Hudson. Fish that are thought to belong to thitherto undiscovered species were dredged from the bottom of the extinct waterfall. Asked what was the most remarkable thing they had caught in the whole trip, Dr. Beebe said:

"The last. I mean there were so many surprising things that the last one to be found always struck us as the most remarkable."

Led to declare himself more particularly, Dr. Beebe said he thought the fish with its stomach in a showcase open to public inspection was about as extraordinary as any. Besides leading a life many times as frank as an open book, this curious fish has an enormous mouth, distensible jaws, an elastic stomach and the faculty of swallowing and digesting specimens several times its own size, so that something interesting is going on behind its show window all the time.

Fish Which Carry Torches.

Other deep-sea fish had port and starboard lights, though colored in violation of the regulations; head and tail lights, torches at the end of long fingers, built-in lanterns under the eyes and rows of lights.

"One specimen emitted light from practically every pore," said Dr. Beebe. "I say it carried 500 lights. You could not count them. It might have been 5,000. It was covered with tiny pinpoints of light."

One of the lighted deep-sea fish is being subjected to particular study because it is a very close relative of a surface fish which uses the sun to see by. Among the chief objects of the expedition was the study of the evolutionary changes by which surface fish adapted themselves for life at deeper levels where sunlight was absent. The development of its own lighting system by a species which once used natural light was regarded as important. All the deep-sea fish are believed to be descendants of surface fish, and many remote relationships can be traced between them, but this case of lighted and unlighted cousins is one that furnishes very direct indication of adaptation to meet the needs of new environment.

Dr. Beebe is now studying fishes

BOY KILLED BY AUTO RACING FROM POLICE

CAUGHT IN SUBWAY KIOSK

Two Men in Stolen Car Hit Truck, Continue Flight, Abandon Car and Escape.

Jerome Mangan, 7 years old, of 276 Mulberry Street, had just walked down the stairs of his home near Houston Street at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he was struck and instantly killed by a stolen car which jumped upon the sidewalk to avoid a truck and then speeded on, followed by police cars and mounted policemen, shooting and blowing their whistles.

Two youths and a young woman were in the fugitive car which zigzagged at a speed up to 55 miles an hour through heavy traffic in the effort to shake off pursuit. The woman jumped when the chase was half over and was caught. The two men, gaining a considerable lead by their murderous recklessness, finally abandoned their car at Astor Place and Lafayette Street and escaped.

The chase started at Canal and Mulberry Streets. James Styne and Walter Eason of the Automobile Squad, whose business is picking out people who do not seem to belong in the cars in which they are riding, noticed the two young men and the young woman who were in a new Chrysler roadster. Looking at them hard, Eason thought he noticed the gleam of a revolver in the hand of one of the men. "Drive over to the curb," he shouted, coming alongside.

Escape a Surprise to Police.

Taken by surprise the driver of the suspected car started to obey. The policemen were thrown off their guard by the ready acquiescence of the driver and were unprepared when the car suddenly darted forward on Canal Street and cut a left corner into the Bowery, the police car in close pursuit.

The driver of the fugitive car shot north, made a quick turn into Broome, darted west to Lafayette Street and nearly ran into Mounted Policemen Arthur Hensler and William Meyer who accidentally happened to be there. They joined the police car and galloped after the runaway driver who went north. At Spring Street, although the speed of the car was unslackened, the young woman leaned out, staggered and then ran limping to the Spring Street subway kiosk. Hensler and Meyer dismounted, ran into the station and arrested her.

In the meantime the fugitive car turned east in Kenmare Street, the driver blowing his horn and dodging through traffic. Turning into Mulberry Street the car spurted past the Traffic Court dodged to the sidewalk to avoid a truck, killed the boy and kept on with increased speed.

Leaving the sidewalk for the street, the fugitive car sideswiped a motortruck belonging to Ullman Brothers of 295 Mulberry Street, crumpled a fender, pivoted and careened for a moment, then righted itself and continued in its wild race.

Clear Row for Chase.

After further quick turns, the car struck into Lafayette Street again and started north, with its siren screaming. Shots were flying high behind it, the police pursuers fearing further killings of the innocent. Other cars had joined the pursuit. One of the pursuers was Policeman Charles O'Connor of Inspector General McKinney's staff, who entered the race in a two-ton truck when he saw the runaway speed past the police garage at Mulberry and Spring Streets.

Looking south down the wide thoroughfare, traffic policemen in Lafayette Street saw the speeding group of cars, heard the horns and whistles, conjectured that it was an emergency official party of some kind, held up the cross-street traffic and gave a clear way for both the fugitive and the pursuers.

This probably prevented smash-ups and further fatalities, but it gave the advantage to the two men in the fast car. At Astor Place they were far in the lead. They slowed up, abandoned the car, ran for the subway station and boarded a train which had pulled out before the police arrived.

In the stalled car were found two

SMITH WILL PROPOSE STATE CRIME BOARD TO NEXT LEGISLATURE

NEED TO REVISE LAWS SEEN

Body Would Have Power to Call Highest Officials for Inquiry Into Causes of Violence.

DAVISON TO HELP MEASURE

Says Crusade Launched in Gary's Office Seeks to Place Blame for Failure in Public Safety.

Governor Smith's plan to decrease crime in this State, as outlined Wednesday at a meeting of prominent business men and crime-enforcement officials called to form a National Crime Commission, was disclosed yesterday. He proposed the creation, by legislative action, of a State Crime Commission, with full power to subpoena even a Supreme Court Justice, if necessary, and to conduct a thorough inquiry to determine who or what agency is responsible for the admittedly terrifying crime conditions existing today.

Besides putting its finger upon weak spots in the punitive system, the commission would be empowered to recommend new laws and amendments to the Criminal Code, which members of the judiciary have characterized as antiquated and inadequate.

The Governor suggested that such a State commission should consist of two representative Senators, two equally representative members of the Assembly, and five men not connected with the Legislature or with any punitive agency, to be named by him. The work of such a commission could begin as soon as its personnel is complete, and its recommendations could be made to the next Legislature.

F. Trubee Davison, a State Senator from Long Island, has promised his active cooperation in getting such a bill through. He said yesterday he would gladly do anything he could to carry out the Governor's suggestion, but that the Legislature would have the final say in the matter.

"I shall be glad to serve on the National Crime Commission and to cooperate with the State's activities along similar lines," said Mr. Davison. "I consider this anti-crime movement timely; in fact, imperative. Richard Washburn Child has been asked to confer with us and give us the benefit of his comprehensive study of crime conditions, and has consented to do so. We appreciate this offer, and also the spirit shown by Judge Elbert H. Gary in calling Wednesday's meeting."

Suggests That Roosevelt Lead.

Another important disclosure yesterday was the statement by several persons who attended the meeting in Judge Gary's offices at 71 Broadway, that Franklin D. Roosevelt had been suggested by several persons there for the Chairmanship of the National Crime Commission. Seen in his offices at 55 Liberty Street yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Anything that will bring before our country the imperative need of being frank with ourselves regarding a matter that has become a national peril ought to get the support and sympathy of every right minded citizen. I shall be very glad to take an active part in the movement."

Several who attended the Wednesday meeting pointed out yesterday that Governor Smith's plan and the proposed National Crime Commission are two separate matters, yet the two commissions will work along similar lines. The Governor's proposal was that of the Chief Executive of a State, and therefore he confined himself to the presentation of remedial measures applicable chiefly to that State. But it was explained that if New York could set an example in decreasing crime, it would be one of the best possible examples for other States, and the National Commission would disseminate the information that might be gathered by the New York State Commission. Mr. Davison, who, it seems, will have the first move in the State anti-crime program, will be in the city tomorrow. He said he would confer

RIGA, July 30.—A serious Russo-Polish incident has occurred near Yampol.

The Soviet Government has sent a sharp note to Warsaw on the subject.

BERLIN, July 30.—A bitter conflict between Germany and Poland is resulting today and tomorrow in ruthless eviction from their homes and expulsion into another land of 50,000 Germans and Poles.

Driven like cattle across the frontiers and penned up in rude, filthy barracks in border towns, these wretched victims of the Governments' mutual animosities—men, women and children—are enduring hardships supposedly unknown to European civilization except in time of war and reminiscent of the brutal oppression exercised on subject peoples of Asia by the Tartars and Turks.

Governments Blame Each Other.

Each Government blames the other for this outrageous state of affairs. Warsaw declares that its decision to expel from its territory the Germans who in the 1920 plebiscite voted to retain their German citizenship was taken months ago after The Hague Court of Arbitration had confirmed its justice. The Germans, according to the Polish authorities, had plenty of time to move back to their own country, but were prevented from doing so by the advice of their consular agents, who told them there was no hurry and that they probably never would have to go at all.

Consequently the warning was unheeded and in these last hours before Aug. 1, the date fixed for completion of the expulsion order, 15,000 Germans, many with wives and children, are compelled to make a hurried departure—sometimes, it is conceded, under Polish police pressure.

To the Polish allegation Berlin replies by admitting Poland's legal right to apply the terms of the Vienna protocol by which the situation is governed diplomatically, while voicing horror and indignation that such drastic and heartrending action actually should be taken. Germany in effect says she could not believe Poland would go to such lengths to enforce her demands, but that since the expulsions of Germans are actually under way the Poles on German soil who voted for Poland must be treated likewise, to the number of 12,000 families.

Long Trains of Deportees.

Thus from Posen and Upper Silesian towns long trains full of gloomy men and weeping women are rolling westward toward the German frontier, while other trains similarly loaded are moving eastward across Germany from the Ruhr, where the bulk of the expelled Poles were resident.

The home-coming Germans are to be lodged in the former prison camp at Scheidemuhl, near the border. Here they will be fully as comfortable as the Russian prisoners of war were seven years ago. The ousted Poles, the last trainload of whom left Essen tonight, will be housed in the tumbledown barracks and school houses at Posen until jobs and homes can be found for them. The trains are paid for by respective Governments, but the involuntary travelers are expected to provide their own food.

Many Germans now en route to their own country were born in Poland and had lived there all their lives. They were comfortably settled, owning small houses and farms, which they had to sell at a sacrifice in the haste of their departure.

The Poles in the Ruhr are mostly miners. They will arrive in Poland to find the coal mines and steel works in Upper Silesia undergoing an industrial crisis and unemployment increasing by leaps and bounds. The choice open to them will be to become miserably paid agricultural laborers or starve.

LONDON, Friday, July 31 (2, A. M.).—After a day of futile conferences, which seemed to dispel all possibility that Great Britain might escape a strike threatening to be the worst industrial catastrophe of her history, the first glimmer of hope came shortly before 1 o'clock this morning. Then the Government issued an official statement which indicated that the warring mine owners and miners might at least agree so far as to avert the start of the strike at the hour set—midnight tonight. The official statement reads:

"Following upon a meeting of the Cabinet this evening at which full consideration was given to the whole of the circumstances surrounding the threatened dispute, the Prime Minister had further conversations with representatives of the miners and owners.

"The miners' representatives explained to the Prime Minister it was their desire to cooperate in the inquiry proposed by the Prime Minister with a view to a full investigation into methods of improving the productive efficiency of the industry for the purpose of increasing its competitive power in world markets. They intimated they felt it was not fair to require a reduction of wages with the present cost of living before any attempt had been made by means of an inquiry to secure a contribution toward meeting the difficult situation with which the industry is confronted.

"The Prime Minister announced that in the circumstances the Government was prepared to render assistance to the industry until Spring, by which time the inquiry would be completed.

"The Prime Minister requested the coal owners to suspend their notices for a fortnight in order that the necessary discussions could proceed as to the way in which temporary assistance could be afforded."

Notices May Be Withdrawn.

The following statement was issued at 12:45 A. M. by A. J. Cook, Secretary of the Miners Federation:

"With reference to the statement issued by the Prime Minister, the miners' officials on behalf of the Executive Committee state that no settlement is yet arrived at and that a further meeting with the Prime Minister has been arranged for today, Friday, at noon, immediately after the Prime Minister has met the coal owners. The miners will receive instructions from their federation officials on behalf of the Executive Committee immediately after the meeting today."

The impression prevailed when the above statement was issued that the mine owners would agree today to withdraw the notices posted at the pitheads informing the miners that new conditions would become effective on Aug. 1. It was these notices which precipitated the decision of the miners' executives to call the strike for midnight tonight, since they declared the conditions were absolutely unacceptable to the miners. Even if the notices are withdrawn, however, it will be merely a makeshift, since at the end of the fortnight asked by the Government the situation may again reach a deadlock like that existing throughout the last twenty-four hours. However, it will give a breathing spell and remove the nightmare of a coal strike tonight which all Britain has been dreading. Everything hinges now on result of conferences today. If no agreement is reached, midnight tonight may confront England with a situation of which the seriousness cannot be exaggerated.

Baldwin Labors With Both Sides.

Hour by hour yesterday England seemed moving steadily toward one of the worst industrial catastrophes in her history. Hour by hour, the deadlock between the warring coal owners and miners stiffened until it had reached a state approaching hopelessness. Throughout the day Prime Minister Baldwin tried to argue owners and miners into a reasonable frame of mind but his conferences with both sides yielded no results.

Though he labored so manfully that again, like Wednesday, he was forced to content himself with a hurried midday snack instead of a leisurely lunch, his efforts at the end of the day seemed to have been in vain. Both sides remained adamant. And all England shuddered as the ominous thought crossed every one's mind, "unless something is done the strike will start tomorrow at midnight."

What makes the situation doubly serious is that the great transport unions may go out in a sympathy strike with the miners if the latter quit work tomorrow night. In question are the National Union of Railwaymen, the Transport Workers and Railway Clerks Association. It takes little effort of the imagination to LONDON, July 30.—England, which has been laughing for a month at the United States over its "Monkeyville trial," awoke today to the fact that she has a "Monkeyville" of her own.

It is the Town of Bootle, where, in the future, it will be as perilous as in Dayton for any schoolmaster to breathe the word evolution.

Councilor Warburton it was who called the attention of the Bootle Town Council to the fact that in a local school a teacher had suggested that the story of Adam and Eve was mythical and allegorical rather than a literal account of the actual happenings in the cradle days of the world.

A special investigating committee was appointed which recommended that religious observances in the secondary schools be confined in the future to hymns, prayers and Scripture readings and the teachers instructed to train the scholars to habits of reverence for God and religion.

The Council adopted the resolutions unanimously.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Loren H. Wittner, the Treasury clerk who sought to cut off the salaries of school officials who permitted evolution to be taught, withdrew his suit today in Equity Court. The case was to have been heard tomorrow before Justice Frederick L. Siddons.

A new suit will be filed in the near future and the plaintiff will be a municipal taxpayer instead of a Federal taxpayer, as is Wittner.

Wilda Bennett's Auto Kills Girl in Crash; Driver a Party in $100,000 Alienation Suit

The red roadster of Wilda Bennett, musical comedy star, hit a motorcycle and side car in which an engaged young couple were riding through the Bronx last night on their way home from an outing. The girl was thrown to the pavement and died soon afterward. Miss Bennett was riding in the automobile, and the driver was Charles C. Frey, a horseman, whose wife sued the actress last Spring for $100,000 for alienation of his affections.

The girl who lost her life was Miss Anna Beach, 19 years old, of 127 Fifty-ninth Street, Woodside, L. I. She was a salesgirl and with Charles Bisiganani of 48 South Prince Street, Flushing, her fiancé, had been on a visit to Stamford, Conn.

The couple were coming south on Van Nest Avenue and as they approached East 180th Street the Bennett car turned toward the avenue. There were no witnesses to the accident save the victims, but from what the police learned there was some miscalculation of signals, and the roadster hit the motorcycle a hard blow.

The young man tried to keep the motorcycle under control, but it swerved and the girl was thrown out on the pavement, striking her head. The Bennett car, in which, besides Miss Bennett and Frey, Albert Barringer, an advertising man of Asbury Park, was riding, came to a sudden halt. The occupants, however, were only shaken.

A policeman commandeered a passing automobile and took Miss Beach to Fordham Hospital, where she died in a few minutes. Bisiganani followed in a taxicab. He was only cut and bruised, but the death of the girl affected him deeply.

Miss Bennett, Frey and Barringer drove to the hospital also and then were taken to the Westchester Police Station, where Frey was locked up on a technical charge of homicide. He was later released on bail. Bisiganani declared that Frey had no driver's license.

realize what England will be up against if these powerful organizations throw in their lot with the miners.

Foreseeing a possible crisis of the gravest sort the Government already is taking measures to meet the emergency in case all peace efforts fail.

One of the principal points in dispute is insistence of the miners on a national minimum wage not lower than the present minimum. The owners meet this by obdurate insistence that the coal industry is unable to pay such a minimum wage throughout Great Britain. They offer instead district minimum wages to meet special local conditions.

All Points of Difference Remain.

The miners also refuse to accept lower pay or longer hours. The owners insist they must accept either one or the other. There are also other points of divergence on none of which agreement was reached today. In fact, so tense had the situation become this evening that the Secretary of the Mine Owners' Association declared only a miracle could avert a strike.

Incidentally the report by the Court of Inquiry appointed to study causes of the dispute, which was expected to facilitate agreement between the disputants, has only served to aggravate the differences. Mr. Lee, Secretary of the Mining Association, who conferred with the Prime Minister as one of the representatives of the mine owners, declared part of the report most provocative and calculated to keep the parties apart instead of bringing them together. Representatives of the miners were no less emphatic in their statements. Mr. Cook, Secretary of the Miners' Association, declared this evening hope of a settlement was further off than ever.

Despite the request of the Miners' Federation urging the strikers to permit safety men to continue at the mines, the situation in the Amanford district of South Wales, where the anthracite miners are striking, is more serious tonight. Attempts are being made to reach a settlement, especially in view of the fact that the demand for anthracite is greater than it ever has been, but a majority of the miners seem to favor radical measures. Large reinforcements of police have arrived, resulting in an immediate assembly of strikers.

Believe Crisis Is Averted.

LONDON, July 31 (AP).—The Government's decision to institute an inquiry into the coal industry and give financial assistance pending the report of the inquiry committee is generally regarded as ending the crisis.

Neither the mine owners nor the miners have made a definite statement since the official announcement was issued, but there seem to be good reasons for believing that the mine owners will agree to suspend their notices regarding decrease in wages and lengthening of hours and that the miners will accept the situation.

This viewpoint is endorsed by most of the morning newspapers today.

Late yesterday afternoon Premier Baldwin summoned a special Cabinet Council to discuss the labor situation, and it was said he would make a statement to Parliament on the questions at issue. At 10 o'clock, however, it was announced on his behalf in the Lower Chamber of Parliament that the Prime Minister was not in a position to make a statement as he was meeting with the mine owners and the colliers again tonight.

Apparently the Cabinet Council resulted in a revision of the Government's views concerning a subsidy, for when still later the Premier went to the Labor Ministry to consult with the disputants, who had been specially summoned thither, he was accompanied by Winston Spencer Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, who had not previously been intimately concerned in the negotiations, but were brought in to assist the Premier in his efforts at mediation.

It was then announced on good authority that Mr. Baldwin had summoned the parties again to offer a new basis for negotiations, namely, that the owners should withdraw their notices regarding working hours and lower wages and that the Government would offer a temporary subsidy and a royal commission of inquiry with a wider scope than the Sankey inquiry of 1919. The Sankey Commission made a number of recommendations which would have given the miners a greater voice in the management of the mines, but not nationalization of mines, and it has been a constant grievance of the miners that its recommendations never were fully put into effect.

The trade union group in Parliament, which comprises ninety members, met last night and resolved, in the event of a failure to settle the mining dispute this week, to hold up all business in the House of Commons and thereby force the Government to effect a settlement.

The Spectator, which is a supporter of the Government, commenting on the situation, declares it is the Government's duty to put into effect the findings of the recent court of inquiry. It adds that it is obvious after the Court's report there can be no lockout, and that if the mine owners refuse to withdraw their notices the Government must take control of the coal industry, as was done during the war.

Safety Men Are Forced to Quit.

AMANFORD, Carmarthenshire, Wales, July 30 (AP).—Armed with bludgeons, eight bands of striking miners, each about 400 strong, visited the collieries in the anthracite district between midnight and 6 o'clock this morning, intimidating the officials and ordering the safety men to withdraw from the pits, despite the advice of the Miners' Federation that they remain at their posts. The safety men went out and at midafternoon had not returned.

There are 20,000 miners on strike in the district, and the police have been powerless to prevent disturbances. Yesterday the disturbances took the form of a general discharge of explosives and the firing of guns, but no casualties have been reported.

FRENCH BAN REICH COAL.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, July 30.—The German newspapers fired a high explosive broadside at France today for her alleged violation of the interim commercial agreement with Germany.

The French Government, it is charged, has put an embargo on the import of coal and lignite from the Reich, despite the assurance given to the German trade delegation by M. Chaumet, the French Minister of Commerce, that no such measure would be taken pending resumption of the negotiations for a commercial treaty in September.

At Wilhemstrasse, however, the journalistic diatribes are described as "somewhat exaggerated." The Luther Cabinet, it was stated, had ont taken action in the matter but diplomatic inquiries were under way. It was added that while economic reprisals might be taken by Germany the political relations between the two countries would be unaffected in so far as progress toward consummation of the security compact was concerned.

BERLIN AIDS MINE OWNERS.

Grants a Three Months' Credit of 15,000,000 Marks.

BERLIN, July 30 (AP).—The newspapers report the gold discount bank has granted to the Ruhr mining industry a three months' credit of 15,000,000 marks because of the present crisis, in which enormous stocks of coal are on hand without a market.

The mine owners declare that the situation is leading to ruin. They have resorted to wholesale dismissals of miners in an effort to economize and many pits are closed down.

DENY PLAN TO AID BRITISH COAL STRIKE

LEWIS BACK FOR PARLEYS

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 30.—American miners have taken no action for a sympathetic strike with the British mine workers, Philip Murray, International Vice President, and Thomas Kennedy, International Secretary-Treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, declared today.

The union officials, discussing a report which ascribed to Frank Hodges, Secretary of the International Miners' Federation, a statement that the American miners had promised "solidarity" with their British brethren in the event of a strike on Aug. 1, said they were unable to explain the remarks of Mr. Hodges. The latter is reported to have declared that the American miners would take any action desired by the International Federation of Miners.

John L. Lewis, International President of the Miners' Union, arrived at the Hotel Ambassador tonight. He said he was too tired to talk and went right to bed. His presence is expected to speed up the wage negotiations. It has been said, however, that he will not personally participate in the parleys unless Samuel D. Warriner and William J. Richards, veteran negotiators for the operators, resume their old places at the conference table.

Operators Refuse Some Demands.

At a three-hour conference of the anthracite operators' and miners' joint subcommittee today, the operators refused to grant several of the minor demands of the workers on the ground that they alone would add $1 a ton to the cost of coal in consumers' bins, aside from any further increase which would be necessitated by the granting of the major demand for a wage increase of 10 per cent. for contract miners and $1 a day for day men.

The employers took the position that to change the basis of payment from the mine-car to the top of 2,240 pounds would mean an increase of 54 per cent. in the cost of loading coal into cars. In most mines the miners are now paid on a car and yardage basis and in some cases on the basis of a "miner's ton" of 2,800 to 3,100 pounds.

Explaining the demand for payment on the basis of a ton of 2,240 pounds instead of the mine-car or "miner's ton" basis, Mr. Murray said that the higher figure were fixed at a time when there was no market for pea coal and the still smaller sizes. However, he said, as the operators are now selling all the coal that is produced, the workers desire to be paid on a basis that will take that fact into consideration.

It was asserted by Mr. Murray that owing to the necessity for "topping," or filling up, the mine cars higher than the sides of the vehicles much coal is lost between the loading places and the breakers. The miners could prove, he said, that in some mines the operators loaded between 300 and 900 cars every two weeks with coal that had slipped off the original load. The miners, he declared, were not paid for this coal.

Won't Increase Costs.

On the various demands discussed today the operators held to the position they assumed at the beginning of the conferences on July 9. They informed the miners that if they could prove that the changes sought by them would not increase the cost of producing coal there would be no difficulty in arranging a contract.

"Every demand asked for by the miners would increase wages, and this would naturally increase operating costs," said Major W. W. Inglis, spokesman for the operators. "The so-called minor demands would add $1 to the cost of producing every ton of coal, yet in addition to these demands the miners seek to have us grant a 10 per cent. increase of contract miners and $1 a day for day men.

"We can agree to no proposal that would add to production costs, because we know of no way to meet additional costs without increasing prices to the public. We cannot sell our product as it is. Substitutes are being used more and more, and their use would be further increased if higher prices were sought for coal from the consumer."

In only twenty-five of 300 collieries is coal paid for by weight rather than by car or yardage, Major Inglis said. He saw no reason for asking all the collieries to adopt the practice of the minority. Spilling some of the "topping" from overloaded cars into gangways was due to careless loading, he said. He denied that the miners had no voice in saying how much they were docked for loading too much refuse in mine cars. Provision was made for appeal in such cases, he declared.

The conference will continue tomorrow.

CRIMINAL CHARGES IN CARNEGIE BANK CASE

Pennsylvania Will Prosecute for Collapse of Important Trust Company.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 30.—Criminal charges against men who will be blamed for the collapse of the Carnegie Trust Company, in Carnegie, Pa., will be made on Monday, it was learned today. They probably will be filed by the State Banking Department, but prosecution will be in the hands of the Attorney General.

Attorney General Woodruff, who held conferences here on Tuesday with investigators, consulted the Governor yesterday. The impression prevails in Harrisburg that Governor Pinchot has already given the order as to when the suits will be started.

R. B. Blackburn, President of the First National Bank of Oakmont, and J. P. McGinty, trust officer and Secretary of the Pittsburgh Trust Company, began today the work of appraising the assets of the bank.

Secrecy necessitated by the State banking laws in the investigation of the closed trust company may be discarded in two weeks. At that time the report of the bank appraisers, appointed yesterday, will be made, and liquidation will be started. After liquidation is under way the law requiring secrecy in a bank investigation is not in force.

The law which has prevented the State Banking Department from making known its discoveries in the investigation has to do with "banks." At the present time, although the trust company is closed and is in the hands of the Banking Department, it is legally a "bank." After liquidation commences, however, it will no longer be considered a "bank."

Pleas for Money Found in Dead Letters Pour In on the Post Office Department

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Since the publication recently of the story about a man in Tomahawk, Wis., asking the Post Office Department to give him part of $60,000 or $70,000 found in dead letters other applications have been pouring in.

Not all the dispatches sent from Washington carried the information that the Tomahawk man's request would go unheeded because if the real owners of the money are not found the cash must go into the Federal Treasury. As a result, Superintendent C. F. Staley of the Dead Letter Office is swamped with letters from other persons in all parts of the country asking for a slice of the dead letter money, if it is not all gone."

While the letters from women predominate many are signed by men.

A fourteen-year-old girl of Muncie, Ind., writing that she is a member of a large family with a widowed mother and little means of support, says that "most any portion would be gratefully appreciated and put to good use in the way of education."

A man at Bordentown, N. J., would like to share "the thousands of dollars found in dead letters." He wants only to "square his debts," which, he confides, "are not much."

A woman in Kokomo, Ind., does not want a gift, but would like to borrow $5,000, so her inventor-husband can put several small articles on the market.

Another woman at St. Joseph, Mo., asks for enough to buy a home, "if there is a surplus yet."

Another letter from Des Moines, Iowa, signed by two women, both widows and missionaries, asks for "so much a month" to carry on the work of bringing life and light to others.

A crippled husband and a widow with thirteen children ask for the "widow's mite," while an Indiana woman nurse says she always gives one-tenth to the Lord, and suggests she could accomplish more if she had some of the dead letter money.

A "hard-working man with a large family" at Paris, Texas, would be satisfied with a few hundred dollars. In the same handwriting a woman in Paris also would like to have a few hundred.

A Cleveland widow wants ever so little to redeem her sewing machine from the clutches of her landlord so she can work and be saved from the "city."

YOUTH DENIES SHOT THAT SLEW BROTHER

SAYS HE VISITED HIS HOME

But Refuses to Admit He Was in Love With Victim's Wife, Who Collapses.

Special to The New York Times.

BRIDGETON, N. J., July 30.—Clear-eyed and ruddy and utterly unconcerned, Howard Moore, 19 years old, who gained ten pounds during the six months he waited in jail for trial for first degree murder, denied on the witness stand here today the murder of his brother, Thomas Moore. Thomas was killed by a shot which came through a window of his mother's home last January and the State charges that Howard, because of his love for his brother's wife, killed him.

Footprints outside the window, which the State contended today fitted shoes owned by Howard, and the story of three youths of what they witnessed when they trailed the boy to his brother's home, were blows to the defense. Howard took them calmly and then, stepping sprucely to the witness stand, made his denial to the jury of five men and seven women. The case will probably go to the jury tomorrow afternoon.

Twenty-two witnesses had been called by Prosecutor Tuso when he closed his case today. Thomas Breedon and Richard Haines, policemen of Millville, N. J., where the crime was committed, testified to the shoeprints. They said that when they told Howard about the clue he had denied ownership of the shoes. Prints of automobile tires found outside the house, the policemen said, also fitted the tires on young Moore's car.

They also testified to the condition of weapons, including three shotguns, found in the Moore home. The defendant denied that any of the guns had been used since the deer season of 1924. Haines, however, said that the left barrel of a double-barrel shotgun showed signs of having been discharged. The State emphasized this testimony by contending that Howard was left-handed.

The three youths who testified were Leslie Brown, 18 years old; James Rochat and Clifford King, both 19 years old. They said that as a "lark" they had followed Howard Moore one night about eighteen months ago. Thomas Moore, his brother, was absent from Millville, and his wife, Hilda, now about 19 years old, was alone in the house. They said they had seen a lamp moved and that young Moore had remained in the house three hours.

Young Moore on the stand denied that he had been in love with his brother's wife. He admitted that he had visited the home often, but said that he had called to see his brother's children, his "best friends."

On the stand yesterday Mrs. Hilda Moore, the widow, collapsed after vehemently denying that she and her brother-in-law had been in love with each other. After Howard's testimony, his attorney, Francis A. Stanger, sought to introduce a letter which he called a confession. In the missive, said the lawyer, was the admission by another man of the killing of Thomas Moore. Prosecutor Tuso objected, saying that he had received the letter himself and that it was the work of a "crank." Supreme Court Justice Campbell ruled against admitting it.

Samuel B. Sharp, shotgun salesman, testifying for the defense, said that the wound which caused Moore's death had been inflicted by a shotgun of a calibre different from those of the three weapons found.

Summations will begin tomorrow morning.

M'MILLAN TO RADIO VOICES FROM ARCTIC

NOW CAUGHT IN ICE PACK

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A radio message today from the MacMillan Arctic expedition announced that the first official test of broadcasting the voice and music from inside the Arctic Circle will take place on Saturday.

At 10 o'clock Saturday evening Commander MacMillan will give a talk. An orchestra made up of members of the "Peary's" crew will play, an Eskimo will sing one of the weird, native chants and a vocal trio and chorus made up of the ship's crew will sing.

This test will be heard only by the thousand or more amateur radio operators equipped to receive on low wave lengths. The wave band to be used will be forty meters.

If the test is successful, it is probable that broadcasting stations will arrange to "step up" the programs of the "Bowdoin" and the "Peary" to their customary wave bands and thus broadcast talks and music from the Far North so that the laymen "listeners-in" of the country will hear them.

Radio amateurs have been requested to write to the headquarters of the National Geographic Society at Washington whether they are able to hear this program.

A dispatch to the National Geographic Society from the "Bowdoin," the flagship of the MacMillan expedition, dated July 29, said:

"We are wedged in the Melville Bay ice pack. It was fine running until midnight. Then a thick fog necessitated a stop. At 3 o'clock this morning there was brilliant light, but a haze hid the land. Our first attempt to break out halfed after about a mile.

"After noon until 1 o'clock we wove a tortuous cruise through light land ice, but were again stopped by fog which left us beside a huge pan at the spot where a polar bear with fifteen-inch pads had recently slid off to the water.

"Kennett Rawson shot a fine specimen of ivory gull which, with the little auks that have whirred about us in swarms, are the only exclusively Arctic birds so far encountered.

"Crews from both ships staged a spirited snow fight for a time this afternoon. A breeze may dispel the fog at any minute and both ships are all set to continue their course to Etah. All well."

Sign London-Tokio Trade Treaty.

BIG FIVE MEET TODAY HYLAN TOMAKEFIGHT

progress for a struggle which the whole country will watch with interest if it materializes, because of the vital bearing it would have on the political future of Governor Smith and his chances of becoming the Democratic nominee for President in 1928.

Hylan in Fight to Stay.

Mayor Hylan made it known in so many words yesterday to a friend that he was in the fight to stay, at the same time accusing Tammany of ingratitude for wanting to turn him down for renomination.

The talk occured yesterday as the Mayor was going to luncheon with Water Supply Commissioner James P. Sinnott of Brooklyn, father of Mayor Hylan's Secretary and son-in-law, John F. Sinnott. A Brooklyn advertising man of prominence who is very friendly with the Mayor ran across the two on the street and made inquiry of the Mayor regarding the progress of his boom for a third term. Speaking bitterly, the Mayor said:

"Tammany Hall is the most ungrateful organization I ever knew of. Just think, I have given them everything and now they are going to turn me down. But I'll fight and I'll be there at the finish."

John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Brooklyn, on whom the Mayor chiefly relies in his fight for renomination, is already on record as anxious to avoid a primary fight. And yet there was evidence yesterday that the war spirit was abroad in the Brooklyn Democratic organization, as it is in Tammany. The Democratic leaders in that borough have become convinced, as one of them put it, that "Governor Smith and Tammany leader Olvany are spoiling for a fight," and trying to force a bitter struggle in the primaries.

It was learned yesterday that the compromising mood ascribed to Mr. McCooey, in the face of threats from Tammany, has displeased many of his district leaders, and that tremendous pressure is being brought to bear on him not only from the latter but—and even more strongly—from Mayor Hylan and his friends.

The Mayor and his friends have threatened dire things against McCooey's prospective county ticket, even going to the length of declaring that if the Brooklyn leader should enter upon any compromise detrimental to Mayor Hylan, they might join hands with the Republicans in the general campaign to defeat his candidates for county offices.

To Mr. McCooey, control of the administration of Kings County, including the office of Sheriff, County Clerk, Register, District Attorney, Surrogate's Court and County Court, and all of which have patronage is of much greater concern than who is Mayor of New York City. Hearst, who is expected to stand by Mayor Hylan to the end, according to the best advice in the possession of the Brooklyn Democrats, controls from 75,000 to 100,000 votes in Brooklyn, which McCooey needs to win, in a borough which until he became leader never could be depended upon to roll up Democratic majorities.

In a Critical Position.

Under the circumstances McCooey, who has been regarded as "sitting very pretty," is feeling uncomfortable, and his friends say now he is most bitter against those whom he regards as chiefly responsible for the present situation. He is hardly in a position to quit Hylan and make a winning fight in his county election.

Unless something is done to temper the bitterness of McCooey, he probably will go into the primaries in support of Hylan, although he is not in any formal way pledged to his third-term candidacy, and always has stated that the appearance of a stronger candidate in the field would mean a shift in his allegiance to the newcomer. So far, the stronger man has not been entered into the race. None of the candidates mentioned as acceptable to Tammany Hall will do, according to the Brooklyn leader.

"I am still waiting for the appearance of Samson," was his comment yesterday.

Borough President Connolly took occasion yesterday to deny that personal feeling against Governor Smith, as reported, was responsible for the stand he had taken in opposition to the Governor and in support of Mayor Hylan.

"There is absolutely no enmity on my part toward Governor Smith," he said. "The Governor is a fine Democratic Governor, a credit to his party and its pride. Nothing but the finest friendship exists between Governor Smith and myself or has ever existed. He has always had the support of the Queens organization and of its voters to such an extent that he has frequently taken occasion to express his special appreciation of it."

Former County Clerk William F. Schneider, who prior to the last Mayoralty campaign in this city has been identified in municipal elections with groups of Democrats opposed to Tammany Hall, sent a letter yesterday to Tammany leader Olvany in which he declared it his conviction that Mayor Hylan was the strongest man the Democrats could name.

A delegation from the Bronx called on Mayor Hylan at the City Hall and told him the sentiment in that borough strongly favored his renomination and re-election.

POLITICAL HEADS ON YACHT

Borough President John J. Lynch of Richmond, Democratic Leader David S. Rendt of that borough, Tax Commissioner Joseph P. McKay of Richmond and Thomas Smith of Brooklyn, Secretary of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, were among twenty-five political notables entertained yesterday by the New York Harbor Dry Dock Company aboard the company's yacht Orca.

It is understood that the forthcoming Mayoralty campaign in New York was discussed, but the nature of the conversation was not disclosed, although it is known that the Staten Island Democrats are supporting the renomination of Mayor Hylan.

MAYOR 'PROCLAIMS' HIS TRACTION VIEWS

Warning That Corporations Are Preparing to Gobble the City Put in Proclamation.

WITH A REQUEST TO PRINT

'Let the People Know of the Contemplated Raid on Their Government, He Says—His Warning.

Mayor Hylan put into the form of a "Proclamation to the People of the City of New York" yesterday his oft-iterated warning that the traction companies are making plans to "seize the Government of the city" and his well-known view that failure to re-elect him will bring about an increase in car fares.

The proclamation was sent to the newspapers last night with a request from the Mayor to display it prominently.

"No newspaper publisher who is desirous of safeguarding the people of this city," the Mayor's letter added, "will refuse to print it, nor will he edit it or garble it in any way. I rely on your public spirit to print this proclamation in full."

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor.

A Proclamation.

To the People of the City of New York:

The traction corporations have plans afoot to seize control of the Government of the City of New York.

For months Wall Street has been humming with rumors that Hylan is going and increased fares are coming. On the basis of these rumors stock market manipulators have cleaned up $54,000,000 on I. R. T. and B. M. T. securities since the first of the year. Some $200,000,000 more will be taken out of the pockets of the investing public in the same way within the next few months if the scheme is not defeated.

Less than a week ago the Wall Street Financial Bureau in its market letter plainly revealed the traction determination to put its own Mayor in the City Hall. That letter stated that Tammany would soon make known its choice for Mayor and that it would not be Hylan. It concluded: "Have some I. R. T. and B. M. T. when the news comes out."

This "tip" is based upon cold calculation. It means that with a traction Mayor in the City Hall the traction program will thus develop:

First, there will be an early increase in carfares. That will net the I. R. T. and the B. M. T. $60,000,000 a year more, or $240,000,000 during the next four years, and since the increase will continue indefinitely countless millions of dollars will continue to roll into the private traction coffers.

Next, the city's independent subway system, now under construction, an investment of over $500,000,000 of the people's money, will be swept into the traction bag for private exploitation and profit.

The dilapidated traction properties will be saddled upon the people for $650,000,000, about $450,000,000 of which will be "velvet" for the corporations. The bus franchises, with a potential value of $150,000,000 will pass to the traction companies.

Over $1,000,000,000 of profit will be raked in. There will be no improvement in the transit service which you receive. Wooden cars will continue to rattle and the usual crowding and jamming, indecency and danger will persist.

Your local public officials have thus far prevented the traction corporations from fleecing the public. We have fought attempted increases on the Long Island Railroad as well as on the I. R. T. and B. M. T. The other day the Public Service Commission granted a 40 per cent. increase in commutation rates to the New Haven Railroad, which affects many cities and villages of Westchester. Apparently there was no one in or out of the commission to protect the interests of the traveling public. Had there been no one there, Estimate is to thwart similar schemes to raise fares on the transit lines in this city, you would have long since been paying eight cents and probably ten cents on the I. R. T. and B. M. T.

I want the people to know these facts. I appeal to the newspaper publishers to protect the people who buy their papers and the business men who advertise in them. Regardless of the past attitude of any newspaper the opportunity is now presented for rendering an urgent needed public service. Let the people know of this contemplated raid upon their government, its property and their purses.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of New York to be affixed this thirtieth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five.

CAPTIVE HELD AS A SLAYER.

Caught as House Prowler, He Is Accused of a Shooting July 4.

When John Kelly of 1,218 First Avenue, Manhattan, was arraigned in the Bridge Plaza Police Court, in Brooklyn, yesterday on a charge of burglary, detectives informed Magistrate James V. Short that the prisoner was charged by the police with having shot and killed James Regan, on July 4, in Forty-eighth Street, between First and Second Avenues. The Magistrate held Kelly without bail for an examination on Tuesday.

Kelly was seen with two other men by Mrs. Marcelle Barbaro of 621 Metropolitan Avenue, prowling about her apartment at 4 o'clock in the morning. She screamed and the intruders fled to the roof. Detectives heard her cries and captured Kelly hiding behind a chimney.

PARIS, July 30.—Basing his decision on the conclusions of Prosecutor General Scherdlin drawn up two days ago, Judge Paul André, First President of the Paris Court of Appeals, today nonsuited Leon Daudet in his charges of murder and of complicity in the murder of his son, Philippe, in November, 1923, and charged the expenses to the plaintiff. According to French law, the case can not be appealed because none of the alleged guilty parties was brought to trial. If M. Daudet presents an appeal to the higher court, it will be considered unreceivable.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 30.—Henry Ford has approached the Turkish Ministry of Commerce with a view of erecting a factory at Constantinople, according to The Anatolian News Agency. In the event the scheme is carried out all the material possible will be secured in Turkey, and the factory will serve a centre embracing Greece, Rumania Caucasus, Persia and Afghanistan.

ONLY 5,000 KLANSMEN TO MARCH ON AUG. 8

Official Says Washington Fete Will Be Local—150,000 Were Expected at First.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The Ku Klux Klan demonstration here on Aug. 8 will be wholly a local affair, with fewer than 5,000 members in attendance, it is officially announced today by L. A. Mueller, who is in charge.

Apparently the parade will be made up of Klansmen from Maryland and Virginia. Here are about 200 in the Washington Klan, but many Washington residents belong in Maryland or Virginia.

Acting Chief of Police Evans said that when the parade permit was first requested it was estimated that 100,000 Klansmen would participate, and that when permission was asked for the exclusive use of Pennsylvania Avenue the estimate was raised to 150,000. If the number is to be fewer than 40,000, he said, this latter request could not be granted. Klan officials have been informed that if th parade continues after dark the marchers will not be permitted to bear lighted torches. The parade will start at 3 P. M.

FASCISTI AND REDS FIGHT IN LONDON

LONDON, July 30.—A fierce battle between Fascists and Reds, the second in two days, occurred tonight. Nearly 2,000 persons eventually became involved in the fight, which turned the whole Marble Arch and neighborhood into a wild turmoil of omnibuses stopped, private cars wrecked and scores of people more or less seriously injured.

The trouble began at the close of a Fascist demonstration in Hyde Park when demonstrators joined issue with a Communist gathering a few yards away. In a few moments several thousand people, shouting madly, surrounded the belligerents, rather uncertain what was going on, but highly delighted at the prospects of a free fight. The melée only ceased when the police commandeered motor buses and, standing on the footboards escorted the Fascists back to headquarters after the most serious row of its kind which has taken place in London.

The Fascists were guarding their headquarters today with loaded revolvers and drawn swords following the hand-to-hand fight between British Fascists and Communists in the famous open forum of Hyde Park last night, during which twenty were injured and a Red flag torn to shreds. After the police had restored a certain amount of order and the wounded were treated it was found the score was a tie, each side having about an equal number of casualties. Mounted and foot police had to escort the hot-headed Nationalists from the park to the Fascist headquarters, so tense was feeling, while thousands of men and some women followed in a threatening manner.

All night a guard was kept at the Fascist "fortress" and leaders said it would be maintained so long as Communist threats continued.

All started with a modest parade of twenty-five Fascists and there would not have been any trouble had not they passed a Red meeting which was going on in the big open space in Hyde Park set apart as a place where any one can stand on a soap box and air his views. A red-hot Communist speech was being made, and this was too much for the Fascists, who waited for the finish then rushed the meeting, seized the Red flag and tore it to pieces. A free-for-all followed.

The British Fascists of London who have been quietly organizing said they had pledged to tear down every Red flag hoisted in London. The Evening News sees danger of London's black shirts interfering with free speech.

"All kinds of cranks as well as good people go there to say what they have to say," the paper adds. "Cranks form, indeed, one of London's most popular free entertainments. If you do not wish to hear the bray of Communists you may walk away and listen to the more musical and equally profound bleating of the sheep in the park. If a Communist chooses to put in at the Marble Arch talking balderdash he is probably healthier than he would have been. It is intolerable that armed political bands should break the peace."

LEADER OF FORGERS GETS EIGHT YEARS

WON'T REVEAL STOLEN GEMS

Judge Talley Then Orders Him Tried on Other Charges—Prisoner Has 25-Year Crime Record.

Thomas (Scotch) McCarthy, forger and check raiser, whose criminal record covers twenty-five years, called in court the "leader of the underworld intelligentsia," was sentenced yesterday by Judge Alfred J. Talley in General Sessions to eight years in Sing Sing, and then ordered locked in the Tombs to await trial on each of four other indictments, the amounts involved in which aggregate $43,510.

Judge Talley offered to dismiss the four remaining indictments if McCarthy would tell what he had done with $1,400 in jewels he obtained from Abel Brothers at 16 Maiden Lane on a forged check May 19, 1924. McCarthy, suave, composed and well groomed, declared he did not get the jewels and knew nothing of their whereabouts. He said he pleaded guilty on the charge on which he was sentenced merely because his attorney, William J. Fallon, and Assistant District Attorney Hugo Wintner, both told him his sentence would not exceed five years. He protested he was an innocent victim of police vengeance and persecution.

McCarthy was sentenced this time for forgery in the second degree. On June 25 he handed a paying teller in the East River National Bank a check for $1,400 which purported to have been drawn by Joseph Newell & Co. of Westerly, R. I., on the Industrial Trust Company of that city and made payable to Charles W. Hauser. On the back of the check was written "Charles W. Hauser, Times Square Building." Beneath this endorsement were the initials of a Vice President of the bank. The check was cashed.

Half an hour later McCarthy presented to another teller in the same bank a check for $1,800. This teller referred it to the bank official whose initials were written on its back, and he declared it a forgery. Meanwhile McCarthy, suspicious, had disappeared.

McCarthy was arrested soon afterward in a restaurant almost opposite the bank.

Probation Officer Edwin J. Cooley told Judge Talley that McCarthy was a graduate of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Parochial School, and the only member of his family who has ever been in trouble. Said Mr. Cooley:

"The defendant is possessed of a distinguished personality. His brilliant, forceful and persuasive discourse inspired confidence. He lies to the point and expertly. The banking business considers him a dangerous criminal who uses his wits to fleece them annually of many thousands of dollars. He is the despair of his three brothers who regret that he will not join them in the legitimate operation of their gambling house. His associates are confidence men, bootleggers, bond thieves and forgers."

The other indictments charge that on May 29, 1924, he obtained $2,700 in Liberty and railroad bonds from Harris, Forbes & Co., brokers, on a forged check; that on April 26, 1924, he got $3,250 in Liberty Bonds from H. L. Horton & Co., brokers, on forged checks, and that he was aided in some of his criminal operations by Lawrence Harrison of 342 West Fifty-sixth Street and Willard D. McCracken of 612 North Thirteenth Street, Philadelphia. Both have pleaded guilty and received prison sentences.

BELGIUM GIVES VIEWS ON SECURITY COMPACT

Raises Three Questions in a Communication to Britain and France.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, July 30.—Foreign Minister Vandervelde has communicated a note to the British Foreign Secretary, Mr. Chamberlain, to the French Foreign Office, developing the Belgian Government's viewpoint on the security compact from a particularly well-informed source in the following statement regarding the Belgian viewpoint in the matter has been obtained:

"The German reply gives rise to three questions:

"1. What does Dr. Stresemann really claim as essentials to be inserted in or omitted from the compact?

"2. Are his claims aimed at giving satisfaction to German public opinion and therefore included in the ballast which he is prepared to throw overboard in the course of subsequent negotiations?

"3. What indirect advantages does Dr. Stresemann hope for Germany from the conclusion of the compact?

"The German reference to the revision of treaties and modification of the conditions of occupation of the Rhineland undoubtedly suggest that Germany expects to reap indirect advantages.

"The German declarations undoubtedly call for the greatest reserve on our part, but we cannot prohibit forever all endeavors to apply to Germany the procedure of revision foreseen by Article 19 of the Covenant of the League of Nations.

"It is natural that in the contingency of revision—remote and problematical though it be—should be presented to German opinion as one of the advantages of entering the League.

"The unexpected limitation which the German Government would appear to bring to questions for arbitration from which it wishes to exclude political disputes is disquieting. On the other hand the German reply is on firm ground when it insists upon the necessity of laying down impartial procedure for determining who is the aggressor as well well as on the prohibition of the intervention of guarantors until a decision has been taken on the point.

"It is probable in this matter that we shall have to return to certain rules of the Geneva protocol."

Daily Style Hint For Well-Dressed New Yorkers

NEW YORK, July 31—Often, a soft summer collar seems to have a malevolent grudge against the wearer. It takes every position but the one he wants it to assume. It acts as though it were bedeviled. It curls; it spreads; it twists; it slumps; it collapses. The solution is as simple as winking at a pretty girl, which, of course, a gentleman never does. Get a thin gold safety pin and attach it under the scarf knot to hold that up and to keep the points of your soft collar together. Thus you will tame the wildest collar. Exclusive, but not expensive.

Two, in Custody, Confess Holding Up Drake Hotel, but Deny Charge of Murdering Clerk.

One of Two Dead Gunmen Is Connected With Past Robberies —Loot Is Not Recovered.

POLICE GET BRAVERY AWARD

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Breaking all records for quick action here, a Grand Jury today voted true bills charging murder against three members of the daring band of five who yesterday invaded the Drake Hotel in an effort to obtain a $10,000 payroll.

Chief Justice Hopkins received the jurors who returned the true bills before him just prior to the noon adjournment of his court.

The men named are Jack Wilson, alias Jack Woods, Joseph Holmes and William Mullneschuck. They are charged with the murder of Frank Blair Rodkey, assistant cashier of the Drake Hotel, who was shot during the robbery.

Holmes and Wilson, arraigned before Chief Justice Hopkins, said they were willing to plead guilty to a charge of holding up the hotel, but they would not plead guilty to the charge of murder contained in the indictment.

The Grand Jury, almost ready to adjourn after completing its services for July, was held in session by State's Attorney Crowe. The doors of the room were closed just forty-five minutes while the evidence was presented.

"It's an iron-bound hanging case," declared Assistant State's Attorney William McSwiggen, who has been assigned to the trial. The State took an unprecedented step in the prosecution of the bandits when they brought Dr. William O. Krohn, prominent alienist, into court, thus anticipating an insanity defense. Dr. Krohn, it was announced, will examine the defendants.

Search for Hidden Loot.

Wilson (or Woods) and Holmes are in custody. Confessions obtained from them have established their participation in the robbery, and witnesses in abundance are ready to strengthen this evidence. Squads were dispatched to search for loot cached, according to Wilson's admission.

At 1,04 West Taylor Street, Matthew Cozzi, proprietor of a restaurant, was seized and brought to the detective bureau. There Wilson identified him as the one to whom he had entrusted his share of the loot.

Wilson said he had been given a receipt for the amount of $675. This, he said, he left in Cozzi's safe. Later the robber retracted his identification, saying he was not sure whether the man before him or his brother was the one to whom he gave the money.

Frank Cozzi, brother of Matthew, and Michael Raymond, a waiter, were later taken before Wilson to clear up the quibbling about who had given him a receipt for the money the prisoner declared he had deposited at the Cozzi restaurant.

"The criminal situation in the United States is the most important internal problem confronting the nation," Judge Hopkins declared, in receiving the true bill from the jurors. "It is almost armed insurrection, and has reached the stage where the old time vigilantes might well be considered. It is almost as bad as in those old days we read about in San Francisco during the gold rush."

He suggested that the county might well consider declaring a moratorium on all civil court business until the criminal docket is cleared up.

Two Men Plead Not Guilty.

Holmes and Wilson both pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Chief Justice Jacob Hopkins of the Criminal Court this afternoon. Indictment Clerk Robert Jones then asked the prisoners whether they had an attorney. When they replied they had not he asked whether they wished the court to appoint one.

"Yes," said Wilson.

Jack Wilson, alias Jack Woods, was captured early today at the Jefferson Park Hospital, where he was being treated for a bullet wound in his left thumb. He confessed his part in the sensational crime. He has been a deep sea sailor; he served in the Canadian Army during the war. He was working as a bus boy at the Edgewater Beach Hotel until yesterday.

Joseph Holmes, alias Hill, was captured soon after the hold-up. He confessed fully. Holmes, too, was a rover. During the war he was in the Remount Service of the Quartermaster's Corps of the American Army.

Third Service Man Sought.

William L. Mullneschuck, the fugitive for whom every available policeman in Chicago is looking, is described as a roving ex-sailor, last seen at 4,920 Winthrop Avenue, a half hour after the robbery. He is said to be 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 158 pounds, and has brown hair. He was Wilson's pal.

That Eric Nelson, one of the bandits killed yesterday was a criminal of experience was shown late today when Mrs. Sarah Trieber, 854 Ainslie Street, identified him as one of two men who stole jewelry valued at $4,000 from her last Friday night. Nelson met her and her husband at the entrance of the building in which they live. He choked her and said "I'll kill you if you scream," she said.

Wilson, Holmes and the hunted Mullneschuck must stand trial for the murder of Frank Blair Rodkey, who was shot to death without provocation by one of the desperadoes, supposedly Holmes. As participants in the robbery, each of them is as responsible as if his own finger had pressed the trigger, according to the State's Attorney office.

Police Get $100 Each.

For bravery displayed under fire, the six Lincoln Park policemen who took part in the killing and capture of the bandits will get $100 each and will also receive a permanent increase in salary.

Patrick Hannigan, John Kelly, Clarence Dalof, Arthur Wingren, John Broecker and Charles Keifer are the policemen.

The Mullneschuck apprehension will do more than round up the third man indicted for the murder. It will settle at least a part of the discussion as to what has become of the money which was heaped up in the drawers of the counting room and piled into a black bag. W. H. Vallette, the hotel controller, fixes the sum stolen at $4,146.19. But the missing man and the missing money are still unaccounted for.

Bandit Gives Raid Details.

All the details of the planning and execution of the raid were in the hands of Chief of Detectives Schoemaker and State's Attorney Crowe tonight in the confessions of two of the five robbers, Wilson and Holmes. Wilson's confession went into great detail. He told how in a period of a few month he met the men whose persuasions now have landed him in the shadow of the noose. He said up until three weeks ago he had been employed at the Edgewater Beach Hotel as a busboy.

"It was at the hotel," he said, "that I met Irving Nelson. He was employed there as a waiter."

Met Tex in December.

"I first met Ted Court, alias Tex, at New Orleans on Dec. 10, 1924. I met him again here in Chicago, at State and Congress Streets, four or five weeks ago. Court introduced me to Holmes, known as Jack Hill and Blackie, there on State Street.

"We had our first talk about the robber" on last Sunday. Mullneschuck, Nelson and I met in Mulineschuck's room at 4,920 Winthrop Avenue. Nelson said: 'What's the use of working all the time? You never have anything.' He said 'We might as well go out and get something big and have it over with.'

"Then he said he knew where we could get between $20,000 and $30,000. He said nothing further at that time.

"All five of us, myself, Mullneschuck, Court, Holmes and Nelson, met again on Tuesday. That meeting again was in Mullneschuck's room. Nelson talked again about the robbery to the others. I didn't pay much attention to him at that time.

"We met again about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. We were in Mullneschuck's room for a time. Nelson wanted to know if we were going down and stage this robbery he had talked about.

"I didn't know until 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when we started out, where it was to be. He told me as we were getting into the automobile that we were going to rob the Drake. Nelson drove the Cadillac coach. We left the car parked on Walton Place, half way between the park and Michigan Avenue.

Carried Gun in Bag.

"We went into the Drake from Walton Place. I carried a double-barreled shotgun that Nelson gave me in the car. It was wrapped in paper and then put into a brown paper bag. I unwrapped it as I got on the second floor at the hotel office.

"Mullneschuck, Nelson, Court and Holmes all had revolvers. Nelson covered the cashier in his cage. I stood back twenty feet with the shotgun over my arm. Court stood at the office door.

"Suddenly two shots were fired through the plaster near that door. Court sort of doubled up. He was able to get to the street by himself, though, when the rest of them went. Mullneschuck came out of the hotel carrying a black bag with the money in it. He and Nelson were together.

"We all wore masks. When we got down in the street Court sank on the sidewalk. I tried to catch him as he was sinking and carry him, but on account of my thumb being injured I couldn't do it.

"None of the others tried to help Court. So I had to drop him and get into the automobile. Nelson drove the machine east, around Lake Shore Drive and turned north at the other end of the hotel. We went through Lincoln Park.

"When we got to Centre Street, our car collided with another one. We all got out. Mullneschuck and I walked south for one block. Then we got into a Yellow taxicab. Mullneschuck told the driver to go. We got to Winthrop and Argyle. There we got out of the cab and went to Mullneschuck's room.

"We remained there about fifteen minutes. Mullneschuck carried the satchel with the money. We took grabs out of the satchel. I got about $700. I then made an appointment to see Mullneschuck at 5,206 Winthrop Avenue, where I roomed.

"As I left, Mullneschuck said: 'There is about $1,000 left in that satchel.' We then parted.

"I went to Cozzi's restaurant at 1,137 Taylor Street and gave Cozzi $675 to hold for me and he gave me a receipt. Cozzi called a doctor for me and I was taken to the Jefferson Park Hospital about 7 o'clock. I was there until I was arrested about midnight."

Confession Backs Up Holmes's Story.

This confession in some of its details corroborated that of Holmes, who had made his statement earlier. Holmes told of robbing the hotel employes of their watches and valuables while the others were out at the cage getting the $10,000 with which they escaped. He told how the men started out on their spectacular robbery.

Most of Holmes's confession dealt with the details of how he and the man known as Tex got the other trio, became acquainted with them and agreed to "pull the job" with them. He said the three had talked of "other jobs." He told the State's Attorney that "Nelson talked about five jobs they had pulled." He said he had deserted his wife in New York.

Investigate "Scott" Card.

As a by-product of Wilson's story, a factor which may or may not develop into importance, the police are investigating the history of a postcard, addressed to Mullneschuck, found in Wilson's pocket, for he was wearing one of his pal's suits when caught, and signed "R. Scott." For the card, police believe, may have been sent by Robert Scott, the fugitive brother of Russell T. Scott, condemned to hang for the murder of Joseph Maurer.

Attorney William Scott Stuart, Scott's counsel, showed him the postcard. Scott looked at it for a long time, then he declared that it had been such a long time since he had seen his brother's writing that he would not be able to identify it.

The card, dated May 9, 1923, reads:

"Dear Bill: Your letter just received. As yet your suitcase has not arrived. Had letter from Miller the other day. Yes, he is at home, Detroit, but I have forgotten his address, though possibly you had not ordered your case here. Anyhow, it has not arrived, and let me hear from you when you get to Chicago. As ever, R. Scott."

Police Revive Deadline and Old Gem Squad in Move to Curtail Jewel Robberies

The old Fulton Street deadline for criminals was re-established yesterday. The street below which, some years ago, no man with a prison record might venture without risking almost certain arrest once more marks the boundary of a district in which police surveillance will be especially sharp and in which any one whose appearance or manner arouses the least suspicion on the part of the police will be picked up instantly.

Orders recreating the deadline and at the same time reviving the old Maiden Lane squad of detectives were issued yesterday by Acting Police Commissioner Leach after he had read a petition of the Metropolitan Retail Jewelers' Association, signed by 10,000 members who sought additional protection against the many daylight robberies and hold-ups to which members of the trade have recently been subjected.

Lieutenant John Burke will command the new Maiden Lane Squad. He will have thirty men under him who will patrol the district daily in plain clothes. At night, patrolmen will pay especial attention to the quarters of jewelry firms.

It is not only in the downtown jewelry district, however, that burglaries and hold-ups have occurred and a special order was sent to the police all over the city to watch for suspicious-looking persons in the neighborhood of jewelry establishments and, particularly for automobiles containing doubtful appearing persons.

AMATEUR ROBBER WALKS INTO A TRAP

WEEPS AS HE IS CAUGHT

A 19-year-old boy, evidently an amateur in crime, became unnerved by the sight of blood while attempting to hold up a store yesterday and made possible his own capture by following the suggestion of his victim as to how to escape. The youth was booked at the West Thirtieth Street Station as Benjamin Shapiro of 522 Amboy Street, Brooklyn. The prisoner said he was married and a diamond setter by trade. The attempted hold-up was staged at Harry's men's wear store, a small place just off Broadway at 17 West Twenty-eighth Street.

About 6 P. M. Shapiro entered the store and asked Abraham Perlow, the manager, to show him some shirts. The counter is at the rear. Set in the wall is a small door that leads to a narrow flight of stairs. At the head of the stairs is a balcony where goods are stored and the accounts kept.

Perlow walked behind the counter to get some shirts from a wall case. As he turned his back Shapiro said: "I want what money you have." Then without waiting for a reply he struck Perlow on the head with a heavy army revolver. As Perlow grabbed him, Shapiro made but little resistance. The revolver fell from his hand and he stood gazing at the blood that was running from Perlow's face. "I didn't mean it," he said.

Within a few feet of him was the open door to the street and Perlow did a bit of quick thinking.

"Now we will have the police," Perlow said. "Here, that way out through the rear door," he added as he threw open the door leading to the balcony.

Henry Glatt, a clerk, had been at work in the balcony and when he heard the noise below, he started down the narrow stairs. Half way down he had to press his body against the wall to allow Shapiro to pass. He said that the intruder caught him by the arm and said in a pleading voice, "I did not mean to do it."

As Shapiro started up the stairs Perlow ran to the door and shouted for the police. Broadway was crowded and very soon he was surrounded by a crowd that threatened to block the street. Through this crowd came Policeman Percival Hall. To him the excited Perlow told of the attempt to rob. Behind a pile of merchandise Hall found Shapiro. The latter offered no resistance. When he was brought out he began to cry.

Shapiro said he did not know what had prompted him to attempt the hold-up. He said he had been out of work for a long time. He said he found the revolver at Thirty-second Street and Broadway.

Two well dressed young men, one of whom carried a cane, held up and robbed the United Cigar Store at 1,124 Third Avenue yesterday morning. They worked within a few doors of where Policeman Patrick Murphy was directing traffic at Sixty-sixth Street.

Charles Nassau, the clerk, started to fill an order for a box of cigars given by one of the men and he found himself confronted by a pistol. Nassau was backed into a rear room and the bandits opened the cash register. There was only some small change in it and one of the thugs brought Nassau out from the back room and told him to open the safe. Both were leaning over it when a priest entered.

Nassau waited on the priest, but the latter did not know that all the time the clerk was covered with a pistol held just below the counter. The priest paid for his cigar and left.

It took Nassau three attempts to get the safe open. The thief gathered up about $50 and escorted Nassau into the back room. Then he joined the man who had been watching at the door and they sauntered away. Later the cries of the clerk brought help and the door of the back room was opened.

YOUTHS SEEK THRILL FIRE COUNTRY CLUB

GUESTS RUN FROM ROOMS

Fear for Main Clubhouse—Boys First Deny Guilt, but Then Confess and Are Held Without Bail.

Special to The New York Times.

HARRISON, N. Y., July 30.—Nearly 500 men and women staying at the Westchester Biltmore Country Club here were aroused early this morning by the cries of servants who had discovered fires burning briskly in two new cement and frame dwellings close by the club which were completed only yesterday and were designed to take care of the overflow when quarters in the main clubhouse were exhausted. Men and women ran from their rooms, some carrying their valuables with them in fear that the flames might spread to the main building.

Special policemen and servants employed by the club started to fight the fires pending the arrival of the Harrison firemen and were hard at work when come one discovered that the Gun Club, a short distance away, was burning briskly also. Almost immediately after, fire was seen in two booths used by the private police of the club at separate entrances to the grounds.

With the arrival of the regular firemen the flames were subdued and in each instance it was found that oil had been sprayed over the premises, showing that the fires were the work of incendiaries. Policeman Joseph Haviland, one of the first to discover the fires in the cottages, recalled that he had seen James Devlin and Rudolph Leppert Jr., two young men of the neighborhood, close by the burning buildings. As he thought it over later he wondered how they could have arrived so quickly from homes which are quite a distance away from the club grounds.

Haviland told his suspicions to Chief of Police Andrew Munro, who sent Lieutenant Charles Conners to bring the boys to Police Headquarters. Conners found both lads at home and, according to him, both were considerably under the influence of liquor. In the Leppert garage, in the elder Leppert's automobile, the Lieutenant said he found an empty gin bottle and, smeared on the side of the car, some paint the same color as that with which the house had been painted.

Conners took both lads to the station, where at first they denied all knowledge of the origin of the fires, saying that they had hurried over from their homes to watch the blaze. Later, according to the police, they confessed to Assistant District Attorney Walter Ferris of Port Chester that they had started the fires "just to get a thrill."

The boys were arraigned this evening in the Harrison Town Court before Police Judge C. J. Sullivan and were remanded without bail, for examination tomorrow morning, the police saying that relatives had arranged to have the young men defended by Mayor Fred E. Weeks of White Plains.

Leppert's father is said to be a cartoonist on a magazine published in New York. The young man is 21 years old. Devlin will be 21 next Thursday. He is the son of John Devlin, a chauffeur.

The buildings to which the youths set fire had been erected by F. B. Wells, a builder for the Oakland Beach Realty Company, which is said to be a subsidiary of the Country Club. It was estimated that the flames did about $6,000 worth of damage, which Mr. Wells said, was fully covered by insurance. Leppert and Devlin have been employed by the telephone company in Mount Vernon, where they had good reputations.

FRIENDS OF ENRIGHT PAID FOR HIS VOYAGE

Millionaire Deputies and Others Also Underwrote Police Conference.

TOTAL MORE THAN $50,000

Herman A. Metz Tells How the Fund Was Pledged by 30 or 40 at Lotos Club.

Police Commissioner Enright's so-called "millionaire" special and honorary deputy police commissioners, with others of the Commissioner's friends, underwrote the Third Interntional Police Conference, held in this city last May, and out of the fund thus accumulated are being paid the expenses of the trip that Commissioner Enright recently made to South America to round up South American police officials to attend the conference, according to ex-Controller Herman A. Metz, one of the Honorary Deputies. Mr. Metz explained last night that the fund underwritten was "more than $50,000."

"It was underwritten by a group of between thirty and forty of us who attended a dinner at the Lotos Club last Winter," Mr. Metz explained. "Commissioner Enright was there and outlined his plans for the international police conference at the Waldorf-Astoria.

"We all agreed with his view that it would be a good thing for the city to have that conference, and that it was a conference that ought to be held. Commissioner Enright estimated that the cost of bringing the international police conference to New York City would be about $25,000. Later it was found that it would cost more than twice that amount.

"After he explained his plans for the conference, we underwrote the expense of the conference right then and there. I have not been asked to pay my full share as yet. I have only paid part, but I understand that the underwriters will be asked to pay their full amounts."

Not All "P. D." Holders, He Says.

Mr. Metz explained that George MacDonald was made Chairman of a committee in charge of the fund. He described as "all bunk" a report that the fund amounted to $60,000 and that it was raised solely by holders of "P. D." automobile license plates for Enright's South American trip.

"Commissioner Enright went to South America in the interest of the international police conference," further explained Mr. Metz. "He went down there to make arrangements for South American cities to send delegates to the conference. The expenses of his trip were partly paid out of the fund we raised to underwrite the police conference."

Mr. Metz said that the underwriters of the police conference were not all holders of "P. D." automobile plates, nor were they all honorary members of the Police Department. A number of those who contributed were friends of Enright or friends of the department who never had received any police recognition or favors.

Mr. Metz was asked to name some of the contributors other than honorary or special deputy police commissioners. He said he was unable to recall precisely who was present at the Lotos Club dinner. He did remember that R. A. C. Smith, former Dock Commissioner, and Barron G. Collier and Dr. John A. Harriss, both Special Deputy Police Commissioners, were contributors.

"The fund was larger than Commissioner Enright at first asked because the delegates came in larger number than had been expected. Many were accompanied by their families, in some cases five or six members.

Entertainment Was Costly.

"Their hotel expenses and their entertainment were paid for by the Police Department. The delegates were entertained on a lavish scale, including yachting parties, theatre parties, excursions and dinners for a week and in a few instances longer. There were more than 300 delegates, not including their families.

"For the expenses of the conference the Police Department had an appropriation of only $1,800. It was necessary to raise the larger fund to go ahead with the entertainment planned by Commissioner Enright as chief host. So an opportunity to the honorary and special deputy commissioners and other friends of the police department was offered at the dinner at the Lotos Club."

Mr. Metz said he did not see anything for the Grand Jury to investigate in connection with that fund; that the contributions were for a worthy cause from which the city and the police had reaped much benefit.

PARIS, July 30.—Paul Tarascon, who is planning to fly from Paris to New York without a stop some time soon, today made a "sedret" test flight with a new airplane and new motor designed for the trip. In order to devote all of his attention to the motor and working the plane, M. Tarascon rode as a passenger with his comrade, M. Ravau, piloting from Paris to Strassbourg and return, a distance of 250 miles. The outward trip took 2 hours 5 minutes and the return 3 hours 10 minutes.

FINDS CRIME SUPPRESSED.

Kings County Jury Asks Promotion of Brooklyn Policemen.

The Kings County Grand Jury, in its presentment yesterday to Judge Gilbert H. Baker, said: "We desire to compliment the efficiency of our Police Department and the success of the suppression of crime, and we unanimously agree that the County of Kings can well feel proud of their activities."

In this connection the jury recommended to Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright that he consider the promotion of several poncemen for their work in Brooklyn in maintaining law and order. The policemen mentioned were: George D. Maher, Traffic D; Peter Thornton, Forty-eighth Precinct (A); John J. Wilson, Thirty-ninth Precinct; Herman Schlesser, Forty-fourth Precinct; Joseph Murtha, Industrial Squad; Thomas J. Wall, Sixty-eighth Precinct; Frank L. Frisco, Seventy-second Precinct, and Harry Desmond, Motorcycle Squad 2.

The Grand Jury made special mention of Desmond, who pursued and captured three bandits on the Manhattan Bridge. The presentment was signed by Frank P. Cooper, foreman, and William C. Griffin, Secretary.

BOY SHOT ENTERING STORE.

Severely Wounded by Police Chief Lying in Wait.

Special to The New York Times.

FRANKLIN, N. J., July 30.—Steven Swetz, a 16-year-old boy, was shot and seriously wounded last night while breaking into the five and ten cent store of Isadore Markowitz on High Street. At the Franklin Hospital it was said he probably would recover. His right wrist was shattered and he has wounds in his shoulder and stomach. He was shot by Chief of Police Herbert C. Irons as he broke into the store. Irons was hiding behind a counter, as the store had been robbed several times lately.

After the shooting Irons said that he would not have shot if he had known the robber was a boy, but that in the darkness he was unable to see him clearly.

fully loaded revolvers and a large piece of rubber tubing, such as, police said, is generally used for making blackjacks. The car was of this year's model and bore the New York license number "3Y5988."

The young woman was taken to Police Headquarters and questioned by Deputy Chief Inspector Thomas M. Fay.

After more than three hours the girl, who was hysterical at times, described herself as Marie Labette, 20 years old, of 46 West Seventy-second Street, an artist's model. She said, according to the police, that she was living there with a friend, Dolores Dubois.

At that address it was found that the girl prisoner had lived there under the name of Marie Dufraine. It was said that she came from Scranton. According to her landlady, the girl had been ill in her room with a cold for several days and left at noon yesterday, saying that she would be gone for only a few minutes to get a plate of soup in the hope that it would strengthen her.

Early yesterday afternoon, she said, she met one of the men at Seventy-second Street and Broadway and rode about the city with him in the automobile. The other man was picked up after she had entered the car, she told the police.

The automobile in which the trio were riding was stolen on March 7 from in front of 1,910 Coney Island Avenue, Brooklyn, the police learned. The car is the property of Joseph Souder of 2,111 Avenue R, Brooklyn, the police said. The license plates on the automobile were obtained at the License Bureau Wednesday for another machine, according to the police.

At St. Vincent's Hospital it was said that the boy's death was probably instant. He was taken there in a taxicab by his uncle, John Rienzo, who, with his wife, is living at the Mulberry Street address. The dead boy's father is Edward J. Mangan, a Post Office clerk in the station at Broadway and Houston Street.

then with Mr. Prentiss and perhaps others regarding the time and place of the meeting here next week to further the crusade.

"This movement," said Mr. Prentiss, "is a national uprising of organized business against organized crime to prevent the loss of $10,000,000,000 and 12,000 lives within the next twelve months. These figures are based on the last ten years of criminal performance in the United States and are not exaggerated. That loss may be expected unless effective steps are taken promptly to decrease crime. The movement to form a National Crime Commission is such a step, and it already has awakened the interest and enthusiasm of thousands.

Seek to Place Blame.

"We are going to find out which one of the crime agencies—the police, the prosecuting officials, the judiciary and the parole boards—is at fault. At present my own investigations, made together with Mr. Child, have shown me that there is a sad lack of cooperation among these agencies. There is, apparently, something akin to jealousy, for it is a fact that if a criminal gets away from the law through the dereliction of one of the agencies named, the other three generally laugh heartily about it, and sometimes seem rejoiced, whereas they should experience a very different and less hilarious sensation.

"Even with the criminal laws we have, though changes may be advisable, we could, with strict enforcement all along the line, and with full cooperation among all the punitive agencies, achieve results that would materially benefit the entire country."

Judge Gary said yesterday he was preparing a comprehensive statement of his attitude toward this anti-crime movement for early publication.

Mr. Child, at the Harvard Club, 26 West Forty-fourth Street, furnished some startling results of his crime survey yesterday. During his studies he covered most of the United States and all of its crime centres.

"I made up my mind," said Mr. Child, "to find out just how well crime is organized in this country. I learned it has its own attorneys, surgeons and physicians, operatives, and 'pay-off joint' men, who plan the crimes, assign the criminals to commit them and afterward take care of the criminals who get into the clutches of the law or in other trouble as a result of their operations.

"The difficulty with our system is that we are at first instinctively moved either to tag the police with the whole responsibility, or to give them a wholly clean bill of health. My findings lead me to believe that, while the police may not be wholly blameless, they are far less to blame for existing crime conditions than the average citizen thinks they are. Our police system follows the antiquated idea of the watchman with the lantern and rattling keys.

Secret Service Needed.

"The policeman seldom prevents a crime. He generally arrives after the crime has been committed, and detectives do the same thing. Judges and other officials now agree that we must add to our police system a far more elaborate one; we must find and put into operation a system of keeping track of our criminal population—our organized criminals—and, by means of highly paid operatives who will work under cover and will not be known to the criminal element, discover just what the criminals plan to do before they put their plans into operation. This will mean a new department of police work and one that will call for men of courage, brains and ingenuity.

"After his arrest the criminal's real chance for freedom begins. If he is a 'boob,' or working alone, he probably will get what is coming to him in punishment. If, however, he is a member of one of the organized crime rings he is well cared for in all circumstances. The State is under a heavy handicap from the outset whenever it goes after a criminal of this sort.

"Our Criminal Code is well known to be antiquated. The New York State Criminal Code dates back to 1841. It is astonishing the number of criminals that are arrested nowadays while they are out on bail. Bail, of course, is easy for them to obtain, but their attorneys and their doctors charge heavily, and frequently the criminal at liberty on bail feels it necessary to 'pull off a job' of some sort to pay his lawyers' and doctors' bills.

"Throughout the courts and the prison system is seen the influence of the idea that the criminal is a sick man. I agree with that idea in a sense, but in treating with criminals I would not relax, or lessen the severity of their punishments. The principle concerned in the punishment of criminals is not that a particular criminal is made to suffer, but that, through his punishment others of his kind are deterred from following in his steps through fear of suffering a similar fate.

Sees a National Sentiment.

"All these factors are now vaguely felt by people all over the country. For that reason you get such expressions as the Iowa Vigilante Committee and the organized Citizens Guard of 10,000 volunteers in Illinois."

The arbitration Society of America, with headquarters at 115 Broadway, issued a statement yesterday that business interests could aid in the anti-crime crusade by relieving the courts of the congestion caused by civil litigation. The remedy suggested is legalized commercial arbitration which in New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Oregon has, according to the statement, "all the finality and enforceability" of court proceedings.

"It is an acknowledged fact," the statement sets forth, "that an important contributory factor in the growth of crime is the feeling among veteran and potential criminals that, even if caught, they will not be brought to account for a long time, and that, meanwhile, witnesses may die and evidence may be lost or may deteriorate. This feeling is due to the notorious fact that court calendars throughout the country are hopelessly crowded with cases awaiting trial."

COL. MORGAN TELLS OF BRYAN 1896 PLAN

ASKED HIM FOR HIS VOTE

Later Had Him Discharged From Campaign Job for Failing to Aid in Convention.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30. — Colonel Franklin Pierce Morgan, for many years a Washington newspaper correspondent and active in Democratic politics, amplified today the story told in a Washington dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES on Tuesday of how William J. Bryan informed him before the Democratic National Convention of 1896, at which Mr. Bryan was nominated for President for the first time, that he was then preparing to capture the Presidential prize.

Colonel Morgan's narrative indicates that the nomination was not entirely the spontaneous outcome of his sensational "Cross of Gold" speech, but was a development of a carefully prepared plan. According to Colonel Morgan, Mr. Bryan went to Chicago with the purpose of capturing the nomination and his most famous speech was a prearranged part in his plan of campaign.

"The point of the story is," said Colonel Morgan today, "that Bryan's disclosure to me before the Chicago convention that he was after the Democratic nomination was not made to me because I was an old friend but for the reason that I was a delegate to the Chicago convention from the District of Columbia. I attended the Republican National Convention at St. Louis in 1896, which nominated McKinley for President, held shortly before the Democratic Convention at Chicago, as a newspaper correspondent, but I attended the Chicago convention as a delegate and Bryan wanted my vote.

"At the St. Louis Republican convention I sat in the press section. Bryan, who was there as a writer for The Omaha World-Herald, sat next to me. We had known each other intimately when he was in Congress, and were on extremely friendly terms. One day during the St. Louis convention he said to me: 'Frankie'—he always called me Frankie—'I see you are to be a delegate to the Chicago convention. I want you to vote for me there.'

"'Vote for you for what, Billy?' I asked him.

"'For the Presidential nomination,' he answered.

"I thought he was jesting and took his remark as a joke. But I found out that he was in deadly earnest. He affiliated with Washington newspaper correspondents at the old Southern Hotel during the convention period, and after the day's work was done he and I would sit on the steps of the court house and talk politics. Every time we met he would bring up the fact that I was to be a delegate to the Democratic convention at Chicago and he kept insisting that he intended to be a candidate for the Presidential nomination and would appreciate it if I voted for him. William Nicholas, a Washington correspondent, usually sat with us on the court house steps and heard Bryan try to persuade me that I ought to vote for him. I did not make an promises. As a matter of fact, I thought the suggestion that he had any chance whatever to be chosen as the Presidential candidate of the Democratic party was about the most foolish thing I had ever heard. I refused to take it seriously. But Bryan was in deadly earnest and kept reminding me that he wanted me to cast my vote as delegate for him.

Chicago Editor Sensed Nomination.

"When I went to Chicago to attend the Democratic convention I called on Richard Linthicum, then Sunday editor of The Chicago Herald.

"'Tell me something about this man Bryan,' said Linthicum to me.

"'Why are you interested in him?' I asked.

"'I'm going to print a big picture of him on the front page of my Sunday section,' said Linthicum, 'for I think he's going to be the Presidential nominee of the Democratic Party.'

"'Dick,' I said, 'the two biggest fools in Chicago today are you and Bryan.'

"I voted as a delegate to seat Bryan's contesting delegation from Nebraska, but I was not for his nomination for President. When David B. Hill made his great gold speech in the Chicago convention I was with a group on the convention floor consisting of Senator James K. Jones of Arkansas, who became Chairman of the Democratic National Committee that year and managed Bryan's Presidential campaign; Senator George Vest of Missouri and Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, then a Congressman and afterward Senator. Hill's speech made a profound sensation and worried the free silver people. Jones turned to Vest and said:

"'George, we've got to get somebody to answer Hill. That young fellow Bryan from Nebraska is the man to do it. He showed while he was in Congress that he was an orator of real ability.'

Leaders Feared Bryan Stampede.

"They knew Bryan or knew of him and were afraid his gift of eloquence on an emotional convention, as it was, might do just the thing it did do—stampede the convention for Bryan. They were long-headed fellows. But Bryan did get his chance to answer Hill and made the 'Cross of Gold' speech, which stampeded the convention and brought him the Presidential nomination.

"When Bryan was nominated at the Chicago convention, Nicholas, who had heard Bryan on the court house steps at St. Louis trying to persuade me to cast my vote for him, wrote a story for his paper. The Chicago Evening Post, telling how the incidents which brought about Bryan's nomination had been worked out in advance and that when Bryan came to Chicago for the convention he intended to be a candidate for the Presidential nomination.

"When Bryan chose Senator Jones for his campaign manager Jones appointed James D. Richardson, the Tennessee Congressman, who compiled 'The Messages and Papers of the Presidents,' as the publicity director of the Washington headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. Richardson appointed me as his assistant. After I had this position for about two weeks Chairman Jones, who had been at the National Committee's New York headquarters, walked into Richardson's office and told him to discharge me.

"Richardson told O'Brien Moore, Washington correspondent of The St. Louis Republican, a Democratic paper, that the order to dismiss me came from Bryan and that the reason was that I had not voted for Bryan's nomination at Chicago. Moore gave the story to E. G. Dunnell, the Washington correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES, and Dunnell, who was a close friend of mine, saw me about it. He printed the story in THE TIMES, a column, I think, saying that I had been dismissed on Bryan's orders.

"Bryan and I always remained on good terms. I ran across him in a hotel on the day he came to Washington to be Secretary of State in President Wilson's Cabinet and he threw his arm around my neck. There was never any hard feeling between us over my dismissal."

Richard Linthicum, mentioned by Colonel Morgan as sensing Bryan's nomination at Chicago, was publicity director of the Democratic National Committee in last year's Presidential convention.

and the Third Cavalry band, from Fort Myer, will meet the funeral procession and escort it to the Dewey Section where the burial is to be. These soldiers will be afoot.

Non-commissioned officers of the regular army will act as body bearers at the cemetery. In compliance with the wish of Mrs. Bryan, no volley will be fired but "Taps" will be sounded at the grave.

The funeral services at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church will begin at 3 o'clock. It is expected that they will last about 50 minutes, and that the funeral procession will start at 4 o'clock so that the service at the cemetery cannot well begin before 5 o'clock.

The funeral procession will proceed to Arlington by the Southern Route. It will move south on Thirteenth Street to Pennsylvania Avenue, B Street, Seventeenth Street, where it will enter Potomac Park, continuing through the park to the Highway Bridge, and then follow the Military Road to the cemetery.

Arrangements for the Funeral.

At 2:45 o'clock the quartet of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, comprising Helen C. Howison, soprano; Mabel Fiehr, contralto; George A. Myers, tenor, and Ambrose Durkin, basso, accompanied by William R. Hamill, the organist, will sing two stanzas each of "Lead Kindly Light" and "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

At 3 o'clock the family will enter the church and then the minister, the Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, will take up the order of service, beginning with the ritual for the dead, followed by the twenty-third Psalm.

At the close of this Psalm the congregation will remain standing for the prayer of invocation to be followed by the Lord's Prayer, repeated in unison by the congregation. Dr. Sizoo will then read from the Ninetieth Psalm.

The Scriptural reading by the minister will be from the Fifteenth chapter of Corintians, fiftieth to fifty-eighth verses and from the Fourteenth chapter of the Gospel of St. John.

The pastoral prayer will be followed by the singing of three stanzas of the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers."

Then Dr. Sizoo will deliver his sermon and pronounce the benediction. The organist will play Chopin's "Death March" as a postlude, the congregation remaining seated until the funeral party and guests have left the church.

The services at the National Cemetery at Arlington will be brief, the minister standing by the coffin and repeating the burial ritual of the Church, concluding with the benediction. An army bugler will sound "Taps."

Pallbearers Are Named.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP).—The official list of active and honorary pallbearers at the funeral tomorrow of William Jennings Bryan was announced tonight as follows:

Active pallbearers:

Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy; Senator Fletcher of Florida; Colonel P. H. Callahan, Louisville, Ky.; Charles A. Lord, Lincoln, Neb.; N. F. Dunlap, Jacksonville, Ill., and State Senator Charles E. Hull of Illinois.

Honorary pallbearers:

VIRGINIANS BOW TO TRAIN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—William Jennings Bryan's body, brought last night and early this morning through Virginia on the last portion of its journey to the capital, was met at every station throughout the night by crowds like those in Tennessee, who stood with bared heads until the car which bore the flower-covered coffin was out of sight.

At Johnson City, the last stop in Tennessee; at Bristol, the first stop in Virginia; Roanoke and Lynchburg, from nightfall until nearly 3 o'clock this morning, thousands of men and women came to pay with their presence their last tribute to the Commoner.

So great was the crowd at Lynchburg at 2:15 o'clock this morning and so genuine appeared its sorrow over the death of Mr. Bryan that Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, a daughter of the dead leader, ordered the doors of the funeral car opened so the crowd might pass through. Several hundred persons thus were enabled to get a last glimpse of Mr. Bryan's face, but the train remained only ten minutes and hundreds of others were disappointed.

Mrs. Bryan was touched by the great crowds which came to the stations at Johnson City and Bristol, both cities of less than 20,000 persons. Thousands came at each place and at Johnson City several hundred men and women, gathered near the funeral car and at the window of Mrs. Bryan's stateroom, sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," her husband's favorite hymn. The same thing had occurred at Jefferson City, Tenn., and Mrs. Bryan, moved by the tribute, said to her relatives and friends in the car that "it was very sweet."

And, as in Tennessee, during the daylight hours of the journey men and women stood throughout the night at stations where the train did not stop.

As the train came into the yards at Washington just before 8 o'clock, hundreds of railroad employes uncovered their heads.

SEES NEED OF EVOLUTION.

But Rotarian Speaker Says Bryan Rightly Opposed Materialism.

Business men of America should not countenance such events as the Scopes trial, according to Charles H. Bromley, a machinery manufacturer of Fort Wayne, Ind., who addressed the New York Rotary Club yesterday at a luncheon intheMcAlpin. "Evolution From a Business Man's Viewpoint" was his topic.

"Business men should look with apprehension upon the thought stirred up at Dayton, Tenn.," Mr. Bromley declared. "Good thought, of course, is essential to good business. But we can see by the unjust conclusion of the Dayton trial that we are facing a circumscribing of education, freedom of thought and science.

"Consequently, American business must raise its voice against thought that is against the best interests of business and denies the theory of evolution. For evolution is no longer a theory. Science could not be studied without it. Business is dependent upon science."

Speaking of William Jennings Bryan, Mr. Bromley said: "The great Commoner saw a tendency in civilization to be governed too much by material things and give too little thought to what is spiritual, and he was right.

"Uneducated youth has lots of time, and lots of money to spend it in, and so there is a lack of interest in the spiritual. Some people are ill-advisedly trying to remedy the situation by legislation."

The audience of about 700 applauded when he commended the Georgia Legislature for voting down an anti-evolution bill.

TO WRITE BRYAN MEMOIRS.

Widow Will Take Up Work the Commoner Had Begun to Outline.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 30 (AP).—The Chattanooga News today says that the memoirs of William Jennings Bryan will be written by his widow.

"At the time of his death Mr. Bryan had started on the framework of his recollections," the newspaper says. "He had intended to devote to the writing of this chronicle the rest of the Summer and Fall and, in fact, all the time up to his leaving for the Holy Land in February, 1926.

"He had dictated in the rought to his secretary, Walter E. Thompson, the first drafts of six or seven chapters. The headings included the great Commoner's childhood and youth, the Chicago Convention of 1896, the Baltimore Convention of 1912, his work with peace treaties while he was Secretary of State, and one or two other incidents.

"When the widow passed through Chattanooga on Wednesday she told friends that she intended to give her attention to these memoirs as soon as conditions permitted. She said she would be aided in the writing by her daughter, Mrs. Ruth Owen, and the latter's husband, Major Reginald Owen.

"Mrs. Bryan for many years assisted her husband in his literary endeavors. She is the author of the biography of Mr. Bryan which introduces the collected volume of his speeches. She is also the author of the account of the Baltimore Democratic Convention of 1912."

Dr. V. L. Kellogg Praises Work of League Intellectual Co-operation Committee.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 30.—Dr. Vernon Kellogg, of the National Research Council, who for ten days has been sitting with the League of Nations Commission on Intellectual Cooperation, this morning declared to the commission that he was gratified with the manner in which the International Institute for Intellectual Cooperation at Paris had been organized.

Americans, till the present time, he said, had not taken a great interest in the commission's work because it seemed neither definite nor tangible. That was all changed now, he added, with the formation of the institute and there was no question that intellectual Americans would assist in the work of the commission in every possible way.

"The new institute with its various sections and services—which was made possible by the interest and generosity of France but is entirely controlled by the International Commission of the League of Nations—enables the Committee to begin work on tangible and specific projects for promoting cooperative relations among universities, research institutes, libraries, art museums, etc., of the various nations," he said.

"Such matters as the exchange of university professors and advanced students, the development of unified Bibliographical works, the lending of rare books and manuscripts to special investigators and the collection and distribution of needed information concerning the opportunities offered for scholarly work in various countries can be all energetically carried on."

He said he was much impressed by the truly international work and friendly spirit shown by all members of the commission, among whom is Professor Einstein, representing Germany. The fact that a German has been unanimously elected by the commission to a position in the new Institute at Paris, he said, is an indication of the really universal spirit which is behind the new organization.

The new Institute, Dr. Kellogg said, would be able to universalize the excellent efforts in which America is now leading.

SINGER OVER-DECLARES HER APPAREL BY $4,000

Customs Men Value Purchases at $11,000 Instead of $15,000 —Praise Her Frankness.

Miss Rosabelle de Long, coloratura soprano of Los Angeles, over-declared by approximately $4,000 her foreign-bought wearing apparel which she brought into this country last Monday, according to United States appraisers who concluded yesterday their investigation of her case. They cited Miss de Long's case as "one of the rarest on record" and commended the opera singer unstintedly for her frankness of declaration.

Miss de Long arrived here from Italy aboard the Lloyd Sabaudo liner Conte Verde. She brought many gowns she had purchased in Naples, where she was studying for two years. She declared every article and set a total value of $15,000 on her foreign purchases. United States appraisers found that the actual value of the garments was only $11,000 and said that Miss de Long would not be assessed more than $6,000 duty. She will pay the assessed duty and reclaim her goods on Monday or Tuesday.

WATERLESS OUTPOST DEFIES FIERCE FOES

MOST OF MEN WOUNDED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

FEZ, July 29 (Delayed).—Ain Bou Aissa, in the Ouezzan sector, is still held this morning. A most violent Riffian attack has been driven against this tiny post for two weeks. The news of its resistance was brought by aviators mounting guard above the post, for it is otherwise cut off from the world.

In the daytime today and yesterday a suffocating sirocco has been making it too hot even for the Riffians to fight. But cooling nights are now coming on. At night the fight begins again—and then there is no airplane overhead. Will Ain Bou Aissa still be holding out tomorrow morning?

It is holding out now without water. Though the name "Ain Bou Aissa" means "the Spring of the Father of Aala," that spring is in the hands of the rebels. Without water—wounded men with fever and the few able-bodied men remaining have been wilted by two days of the sirocco. A heat wave in New York compared to a sirocco in Morocco is as a ripple on a pond compared to a tidal wave. The wind comes from that enormous blast furnace called the Sahara. It fills the air with fine sand, baking the heavens gray, darkening the sun, smarting eyes and shriveling lips. Here in Fez, in a shady room, as I write in pajamas the sweat rolls down my back and face.

Two days of this sirocco, imprisoned at Ain Bou Aissa on a rocky mountain top where there is no shade and death stalking all around, while 1,000 feet below shimmers the River Oued Aoudir!

Without water—and the post still holds with the prospect of another sirocco tomorrow. For the Arabs say when it begins it is due to last five days.

The post holds, though most of its defenses are knocked to pieces. Two Riff cannon have been hammering against its walls for seventy-nine days. Firing at long range goes on today. Tonight it will be a battle of man to man—a closer, personal, bitter battle with rifles, grenades, bayonets and knives—as it is every night.

Ain Bou Aissa is the only one of the original French advance posts left between Tertoual and Tafrant. The garrison of its nearest neighbor on the east—at Beni Berkoul—blew themselves up a month ago rather than surrender. If Bou Aissa falls it will be of no military importance, for there are troops massed behind on a new line. If it holds out it will be a title for legends.

Whether it falls or holds out, it is already another striking example of the remarkable morale which the French inspire among their native soldiery.

Elsewhere the baleful breath of the sirocco has calmed the entire front, both French and Riffians being silent save for a few rebel raids among tribes in the eastern sector to punish them for remaining loyal. The big Riffian concentrations north of Ouezzan, Fez-el Bali and Taounat have not yet begun to move. The first two are now engaged in fortifying the regions. Abd-el-Krim's lack of movement is thought be some to indicate that he is preparing to fight on the defensive henceforth, while others think these concentrations are ominous as the sword of Damocles.

EXPERTS DISSENT FROM RIFF WAR VIEW

Ordnance Bureau Makes Reply to Article by The Times Correspondent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Disagreement with the conclusions reached in an article printed in the Magazine Section of THE NEW YORK TIMES of last Sunday that modern warfare as conducted by the French against the Riffians has failed in the conflict with the forces of Abd-el-Krim is voiced in a news bulletin made public today at the office of the Chief of Ordnance, War Department.

In referring to THE NEW YORK TIMES article, entitled "Where the Rifle Defies the '75'," the Ordnance Bureau quotes the statement:

"If modern civilization cannot devise a military organization as cheap, efficient and effective as that of Abd-el-Krim they may—though they gain victories today—sink down tomorrow under their own dead weight."

The news bulletin then adds this comment:

"After all, we must realize that this is but a special case of modern warfare and not be led astray by the emphasis given to the principles of war and factors entering into this particular situation. The difficulty in this case, as in many others, is to retain a sufficiently broad viewpoint and draw general conclusons only after due consideration has been given to all of the principles of war and all of the factors influencing the situation.

"Of prime importance is the political factor. And how much does any one really know at this time of the real political influence at work? As usual, the political agencies work beneath the surface and behind the scenes to such an extent that the world at large must be content with speculation until the real significance of the political factor comes into the open.

"Compare the situation of the French commander with that of General Pershing during his service as commander of the Punitive Expedition in Mexico. Possibly there are points of similarity.

"Consider the personnel of the opposing forces, especially their training. The Riffian soldier is more highly developed to act on his individual initiative, to live and fight in the open by himself and with the arms, ammunition and equipment carried on his person or supplied from an extremely mobile supply system. The French soldier of today cannot be very different from the French soldier of the World War. He is distinctly a team man. His individuality and initiative are limited.

"The factor of morale is always important in any form of military or civil endeavor. On the one hand we have the French soldier away from home, or a colonial engaged in operations against a neighbor, while the Riffian is at home or just across the border, supported by the tradition of centuries. The terrain and climate are strange to a large percentage of the French command, while the Riffian is on a battlefield of his own choosing.

"Entirely aside from the personnel, equipment or training, the opposing forces are basically different in organization. The French force now in the zone of action is organized for employment as a mass, the success of each part of the organization dependent upon the satisfactory functioning of the other components.

"The Riffan force is loosely organized and operates over a widely dispersed front in small bodies, taking full advantage of the terrain and utilizing to the maximum degree the mobility attainable only by small independent forces. Mobility goes hand in hand with surprise and the element of surprise is apparently capitalized by the Riffian commander. Surprise tactics are facilitated by operation in friendly territory.

"Certain weapons which gained prominence during the World War, notably the tank, the airplane and the heavy field gun, while present in the French forces, were never intended for use against an elusive enemy as the Riffian appears to be.

"The tank, primarily intended, developed and used to overcome organized resistance, has no mission in the absence of organized resistance.

"The bombing airplane is an offensive weapon for use against stable targets of large dimensions. The Riffian zone offers no such targets. The airplane armed with machine guns can be, and apparently is being, used against troops in small or large masses and for this purpose is probably the most useful of the strictly modern arms engaged.

"The heavy field gun, necessarily limited in its mobility and requiring good roads for its transportation and supply, is an expensive item or armament under any circumstances, therefore it is used only when actually required to bring heavy concentration of fire on organized psitions or for the destruction of hostile artillery. The lack of organized Riffian positions and Riffian artillery makes the use of the heavy field gun scarcely necessary.

It is a well-known principle of war that only an offensive campaign wins. This does not mean that all offensive campaigns do win. The French today are strictly defensive in their tactics. Whether or not the French take the offensive will depend probably more upon the political factor than any other factor affecting the present situation. If the offensive is taken and the campaign goes forward, is it not reasonable to assume that the French command will utilize the weapons and means best suited to bring about a decisive action? We may expect to see mobility used to overcome mobility and each of the modern weapons utilized in its proper role.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 30.—At a luncheon given today at the Interallied Club to the members of the American flying squadron, Premier Paul Painlevé, expressing French gratitude, said they already had given magnificent proofs of friendship and affection for France.

"The words 'Lafayette squadron' gave us courage to hope in the darkest moment of our deepest anguish," said the Premier. "At the time when freedom called for all free peoples you did not remain deaf, but came to defend the freedom of French soil.

"Today we are fighting for civilization and you come to our side. Your number is yet small but you represent incomparable quality. Your friendly, courageous act will have considerable influence throughout the world. I thank you from the depths of my heart."

The seven Americans will leave Monday, according to present plans, and conducted by seven French airmen will fly to Malaga and Alicante, spending the night at each place and arriving at Rabat Wednesday.

BEIRUT, Syria, July 30.—General Sarrail is planning to end the insurrection of the Atrash clan with one crushing blow and reinforcements of all arms are being concentrated in Jebel Druse.

Meanwhile although there have been no engagements French airplanes are bombing the rebellious villages. Dissensions among the insurgent chiefs are growing and native contingents are placing themselves at the disposal of the autorities. The Sultan of Atrash is still at large.

CATTLE AGAIN INFECTED.

Foot and Mouth Disease Reappears Near Houston, Texas.

HOUSTON, Tex., July 30 (AP).—For the second time within less than a year foot and mouth disease has been found in cattle near Houston, according to announcement today by Dr. E. J. Jarrell, member of the State Livestock Sanitary Commission.

Dr. Jarrell said a definite conclusion had been arrived at today after an inspection of a herd of approximately 100 Brahma cows owned by the Rev. William States Jacob, Houston pastor, and pastured on his ranch seventeen miles south of here at the same spot where the infection last year was found.

Dr. Marion Imes and Dr. W. E. Cotton, both of the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry, Dr. Jarrell said, agreed in the correctness of the diagnosis.

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP).—Every precaution has been taken by the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry to combat the foot and mouth disease near Houston. As soon as the first suspicion was reported six Federal experts were put on the ground and it is believed that ample means are at hand to prevent spread of the disease.

HYLAN AND CRAIG EXCHANGE THE LIE

ANOTHER CALLED FOR AUG. 5

Controller Challenges Mayor to Sue for Libel and Takes Fling at Sinnott Suits.

Seated side by side in a meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday, Mayor John F. Hylan and Controller Charles L. Craig exchanged the lie a dozen times in as many variations of language during a heated colloquy of ten minutes. The Controller challenged the Mayor to sue him for libel and, in obvious reference to the Sinnott suits, declared he stood ready to post $12,000,000 if his statements were false, as the Mayor declared.

Mayor Hylan, in turn, charged that the Controller was "mentally unbalanced and ought to have himself examined by alienists." He branded Mr. Craig as "the most dangerous, the most scheming man I have ever encountered."

The meeting of the Sinking Fund Commission was to have been the last of the Summer, but because of the impossibility of disposing of important business with the Mayor and the Controller locking horns, an adjournment was taken until Aug. 5. The motion to hold another meeting was made by William T. Collins, President of the Board of Aldermen who had insisted upon action on an item on the calendar to authorize the sale at public auction of land at Coney Island, owned by the city and not needed.

Mayor Hylan charged that the Controller had blocked the sale because the board had refused to adopt a plan advanced by him which would result in losses to the city. Controller Craig retorted that the Mayor had been seeking to aid some Coney Island mortgage interests.

"I'm willing to put up $12,000,000 now if my statements are false," declared the Controller, referring to the amount involved in the libel actions brought by Sinnott & Canty. Turning directly toward the Mayor, who had pronounced his assertion an infamous lie, Controller Craig flung out this challenge: "You have the same remedy to seek as has your son-in-law's brother, and I hope you will do so."

Mayor Retorts Hotly.

"That man," retorted the Mayor, his face blanched with anger, as he indicated the Controller, "lies day in and day out, deliberately and maliciously!"

"And you, sir," shot back the Controller, "have been lying so long that you lie good and deep, and you'll lie even deeper after next November!"

"I never saw a man deliberately fabricate more consistently or more maliciously than the Controller," declared Mayor Hylan. "I really think Mr. Craig's mental condition should be looked into. He is absolutely without regard for the truth. He will say one thing today and do something else tomorrow. Nobody knows when he will change his mind on a report and deliberately lie about it."

During another phase of the altercation the Mayor declared: "Nobody can force a man who is mentally unbalanced to do what he doesn't want to do."

The storm began when the Controller asked the Mayor to vote for an item on the calendar providing for the sale of 4.47 acres of land in the town of Carmel, Putnam County. The parcel now is under the jurisdiction of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. The land is to be used as a playground for the chidren of Carmel. Controller Craig has a Summer home there and wants to see the transfer made.

The Controller accused Mayor Hylan of holding up the proposed sale from motives of spite, simply because the Controller owns property there. The Mayor declared he would not vote for the sale until after he had seen the Controller's original report on the proposal. Controller Craig remarked that the Mayor could see the original paper if he would take the trouble to visit the Finance Department in the Municipal Building.

"I see no necessity for anybody going anywhere," remarked Aldermanic President Collins.

"I'm willing to do anything in the world to overcome the opposition of a man whose mental condition is such as is the Controller's," said Mayor Hylan.

The Controller merely smiled under this fling. A more amicable conference followed and at the suggestion of Mr. Collins the meeting was adjourned until next Wednesday morning.

Hylan Appeals to Reporters.

At the conclusion of the meeting the Mayor appealed to the newspapermen present, urging them to "show a fair spirit." Suddenly singling out one of them, the Mayor said:

"You're from The Eagle. Don't you think the Controller is unfair in keeping these original reports from me, and insisting that I go to his office to see them?"

"You volunteered to go over and look at them," the reporter replied.

"You are hedging," the Mayor continued. "As a man, do you think it was fair for Craig to ask me to do that?"

"I do not think the Controller was unfair," the reported answered.

"I am sorry for you," the Mayor commented, shaking his head and turning to go. Then, wagging an admonishing finger at the reporter, he said: "You are impossible; you are unfair."

"I brand you as unfair, too," the reporter retorted. "Any man who makes charges against men, as you have done, without naming them, is, in my opinion, unjust."

"There's no hope for you," said the Mayor.

"There's no hope for you, either," returned the reporter.

100 ARAB RAIDERS KILLED.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BAGDAD, Mesopotamia, July 30.—Six Persians and 100 Arabs were killed in an attack made yesterday by Persian Government troops on the Sheik of Mohammerah's palace at Failyiah. The palace was held by the Arabs, who had attacked the Mohammerah bazaar last Friday, and was taken by the Persians after sharp fighting. Further trouble is improbable.

Sirdar Khazet Khen, Sheik of Mohammerah, who maintained friendly relations with the British, was arrested by the Persian authorities last April while aboard his yacht when it was anchored off Mohammerah.

Sinnott Firm Provided Bonds.

An additional bond of $25,000 was required of the McGovern Company in 1924 to guarantee compliance with certain conditions relating to the removal of buildings and contractors' equipment on Staten Island, and another bond of $5,000 was also required to indemnify the Park Department of Brooklyn against certain uses being made of the Shore Road Park.

Sinnott & Canty provided all of these bonds for the Patrick McGovern Company.

"Besides the above," according to the statement of the representative of the Patrick McGovern Company, "we have placed through Sinnott & Canty a portion of our Workmen's Compensation and public liability insurance for work in and around New York."

"Our business transactions with Sinnott & Canty," it was explained in a written statement from the McGovern Company, "were the result of competitive bidding in the open market."

An explanation of this last statement, which was considered to be absurd, in view of the fact that brokerage commissions are uniform and "rebates" or "cut rates" forbidden, was sought yesterday from the McGovern Company, and the following testimony was obtained from Assistant Secretary Boyce:

"The particular benefit we derive with Sinnott & Canty in that respect is, while the rates are not lower, the attention they gave to our business in handling it before the Rating Board, keeping right after it, that they did very good work for us and very satisfactory and it was the result of that, that we placed some of our bonding business with them."

"That is not a matter of rate?" was asked.

"The rates I believe are more or less uniform," the witness replied.

It may be recalled that Mayor Hylan's insistence on going ahead with the Staten Island tunnel project in defiance of the recent act of the Legislature and the opposition of Governor Smith attracted much attention a few weeks ago. Mayor Hylan announced that he would build the tunnel anyway, but this came to naught when Controller Craig stopped payment on all work and declared that he would not issue any corporate stock or other form of city obligations to carry the project, or any one connected with it, any further along.

The New Prosperity

THE nation is living in a new prosperity. The great boom of 1919-20 was artificial—merely an after-effect of the greatest war in history. The progress of business in 1924-25 is based on solid foundations. Industry has profited from the costly lessons of the post-war period. It moves ahead slowly but surely, carefully avoiding the dangers of too rapid expansion. Today the outlook is for a sound and abiding prosperity.

Our country has great financial resources. Its industries are producing goods on a large scale and about as fast as people can buy them. There are no great stocks of unsold goods. Unemployment is small. Wages are high and the cost of living is moving downward. Abundant crops and favorable prices have restored the farmer's buying power.

The present strong emphasis of economy in public expenditure is bringing fortunate results. Surplus national revenues are evident. Substantial reduction of federal taxes looms as a great stimulant to business. President Coolidge has wisely said that if the government takes less, the people have more. Tax reduction means greater prosperity.

Greater Macy's has planned its business with unshaken faith in the new prosperity

Macy's record-breaking sales reflect better business and increasing public knowledge of time-tested Macy principles and policies. We are deeply conscious of this public trust. We can continue to grow and prosper only as we serve you well.

During the month of August we plan to give unusual opportunities to the discerning customer. Our reasons can be frankly stated:

Department store sales are normally at their lowest ebb in August. Whether sales are high or low, we must retain our buying, selling and delivery organization, pay property taxes and meet other unchanging costs. We are planning to do a larger August business. Our costs will not materially increase. We are going to give you the benefit of these special savings.

For many weeks our buying staff has scoured the markets for specially advantageous purchases which will be priced to secure these increased sales.

These attractive savings are in addition to those economies which are always available on account of Macy's great quantity purchases and long established cash buying and cash selling policies.

DIPLOMATS BLAMED FOR DELAY ON CHINA

'Fatuous or Sinister Diplomacy' Is Held Responsible by an Observer in Shanghai.

CHINESE SUSPECT LONDON

They Also Wonder Why Coolidge Does Not Push Plans for Conferences.

By THOMAS F. MILLARD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, July 30.—Two months after the outbreak of the disorders here fatuous or sinister diplomacy, coupled with Chinese obstinacy, today keeps up the deadlock and prevents progress toward a permanent solution. There has been no change in the situation for several weeks.

The Peking Legations are utterly paralyzed by the quarrel over the Shanghai municipality, considering their authority to be in farce and waiting instructions from their home Governments, which obviously are unable to agree or to adopt a procedure to clarify conditions.

The deadlock logically arises from the deep lying clash in policies of powers with different objectives in Asia, particularly complicated by the efforts of British interests in China, which insist that a cessation of agitations, strikes and boycots must precede any conference to revise the treaties. The Hongkong British Chamber of Commerce's cable to Premier Baldwin, urging him not to confer on broad issues until local agitations cease, evidently means a purpose to place British special interests before the greater international questions.

Chinese Suspicions of Britain.

Washington should consider how long it will permit such tactics to hold up progress as France did for the last three years. It is not possible here to detect exactly which power is the real obstruction at present, but the Chinese firmly believe that Great Britain blocks them, and they resent it accordingly.

The prospect for a judicial inquiry of the Shanghai shootings to clear the atmosphere is waning. The Chinese are turning against the idea and are indifferent to the news from London that the powers are preparing to appoint judges to be sent to Shanghai to conduct a new inquiry.

The inquiry cannot now secure important pacifying results unless the Chinese willingly cooperate and agree to accept the findings. Judge Wang Chen-tung, the leading Chinese Christian member of the Peking Government, denounces the judicial inquiry and accuses Great Britain of advancing the project merely to delay and confuse any conference on the wider issues. Local Chinese commerce bodies now refuse further to confer with the Municipal Council on the questions and progress is not being made, apparently, in any direction.

Strikes Flicker Up and Down.

The strikes here seem to be weakening one day, only to be revitalized the next. The strikers have now intimidated the local Chinese military commander, who recently took a strong position and ordered the closing of strike headquarters in the labor guilds. Now he revokes it under threats and accusations that he is in the pay of foreigners.

The tone of the British press in Shanghai lately has become moderate, receding from its previous attitude in favor of a mailed-fist policy and is preaching conciliation. This is believed to be due to advices from London and the reluctance of that Government to resort to such stern measures as military action, which might precipitate a serious international crisis.

Meanwhile, there is intense interest in the news from America, which is meager, regarding the attitude of Mr. Coolidge, and they are wondering why action is held up.

The return by the United States of the indemnity funds was received here with indifference. It was hardly noticed and there was no important comment.

Such gestures do not affect Chinese psychology in contrast to the greater issues.

The Chinese national directors of the agitation are pausing. They are waiting upon events. Their next moves are undecided.

Public sentiment outwardly is calmer but inwardly is unchanged, resentful and determined.

BRITISH TROOPS TO CANTON.

11 Strikers Killed for Demanding Daily Cash Allowance.

CANTON, July 31 (AP).—Arrival of a British deputation here to present demands on the Chinese Government is expected within two weeks. It was also announced that two British airplane carriers are expected from India and that troops from that country will be sent to reinforce British units in this vicinity.

The general strike of Chinese against foreigners is still effective and no business is apparent, except the movement of a small shipment of raw silk by Japanese firms from storage at Shameen, the foreign settlement.

Reports indicate some dissension between certain Yunnanese and Kwangsi Generals because of alleged cruelty by so-called Red army officers. It is expected that the Yunnanese and Kwangsi forces will be combined in an attempt to oust the Reds and their sympathizers from power.

LONDON, July 30 (AP).—An agency dispatch from Hongkong says that eleven Chinese strikers were killed at Canton by the bodyguard of an official before whose house a mob had gathered demanding a daily cash strike allowance.

The dispatch refers to "an influx of Russians from Vladivostok at Canton," and says two Russian ships have arrived at Whampoa, an outport twenty-seven miles from Canton.

(The character of these Russian ships is not indicated. There are large numbers of "White" Russians in various parts of China, where they fled from the Bolshevist régime in their own country. There are also "Red" Russians in China. The dispatch does not indicate whether the "influx" at Canton is by "Reds" or "Whites.")

HONGKONG, July 30 (AP).—Reuter's dispatches from Amoy say that a Chinese merchant known to be friendly to the British was shot and killed yesterday and that a Chinese secretary of the Municipal Council was wounded.

There is an unconfirmed report that a general strike has been declared for Saturday.

WITH THE NEW SHORTS FOR GOLF

An English Fashion
Sponsored by the Prince of Wales

"SHORTS" have long been an important part of the kits of English Army Officers in India and now no less an authority than the Prince of Wales approves them for warm-weather golf. Those featured at Best's Men's Club Floor are exactly like the English models and it is to be expected that they should make their first Fifth Avenue appearance here, where so many of the successes sponsored by the Prince were introduced.

QUITS JAIL AS WIFE PAYS OTHER WOMAN

MILLIONAIRE WIFE RELENTS

'Had No Sympathy' With Him at First—Money Goes in Trust to Support Woman Who Sued Him.

Five months ago Henry A. Taylor, pleading poverty, was locked up in Ludlow Street Jail when he failed to deposit $20,125 as a trust fund, the income of which was to go to a woman not his wife. Although his wife, Mrs. Margaretta Taylor of 230 West Seventy-sixth Street, owns property valued at $1,000,000 she steadfastly refused to help him. Yesterday she relented and put up the money. Taylor's first act upon his release was to buy a suit of clothes. Then he ordered a lobster supper.

Taylor was committed to jail on an order from Supreme Court Justice Robert F. Wagner on March 18 for contempt. Papers showed that he was sued by Mrs. Genevieve H. Elder in 1922 to compel him to carry out an agreement made in 1905 by which he was to deposit $50,000 in securities to yield her an income at 5 per cent. a year all her life.

Taylor deposited stocks worth $9,000, but failed to turn over the remainder and after a trial before Justice Wasservogel a judgment was signed directing him to perform the agreement within thirty days and to deposit securities worth $20,125. This Taylor failed to do, saying he was penniless.

His wife, refusing to aid him, filed an affidavit in which she said that she had been married to him in 1905 and had between $750,000 and $1,000,000, none of which she got from Taylor. She said that therefore she did "not feel obligated to advance him money to pay the alleged claim of the defendant, especially in a matter of this nature, for which I have no sympathy and will not condone by contributing money or valuables."

Taylor then applied to Justice Ingraham through Attorney Sydney R. Lash to have the commitment vacated on the ground that he was unable to comply and that under its terms "he may be incarcerated for the rest of his natural life." Dr. Walter Cravelle of 114 East Fifty-fourth Street, Taylor's physician, said that "his prolonged incarceration will lower his vitality to such an extent that it will end disastrously." Taylor was said to be suffering from thrombosis.

Mrs. Taylor's sudden reversal of decision caused surprise. Mr. Lash declared last night that her views remained unaltered, but that she had finally decided to acquiesce because she was "sick and tired of the whole business." He said that he had deposited negotiable securities of hers worth $20,150 and bearing interest at 6 per cent. with the Central Union Trust Company, 80 Broadway. They would constitute a part of the trust fund established under Taylor's alleged agreement and the income would go to Mrs. Elder. In her suit she charged she had been supported by Taylor before his marriage. Taylor, a promoter, has an office at 100 Fifth Avenue.

Ten Hurt in Canadian Auto Crash.

LONDON, Ontario, July 30 (AP).—Ten people were injured, nine of whom are in the hospital at St. Thomas, following a head-on collision late last night of two cars on the Fort Stanley Road, near Union. The automobiles, owned by F. W. Howarth, St. Thomas, Ontario, and Charles Wiedaman of London, were travelling in opposite directions. At the top of a long hill north of the village they crashed.

OPPOSES BUS LINE PLAN.

Traction Company to Fight Queens Boulevard Project.

Residents on Queens Boulevard between the Bliss Street station in Long Island City and Jamaica are meeting opposition in their agitation for motor bus service in the person of B. Weller Duncan, manager for the receiver of the Manhattan and Queens Traction Corporation, which operates a trolley line from the Manhattan end of the Queensboro Bridge to Jamaica. The people of Elmhurst, Annandale Park, Forest Hills, Winfield and Kew Gardens declare this service is poor, especially in bad weather.

"We cannot permit a bus line to run parallel to our trolley line without opposition," Mr. Duncan said yesterday. "The new bus line to Jackson Heights has taken away some of our patronage, but we have not opposed that yet. We are cooperating in the widening of Queens Boulevard and we do not think it is right, after we have given service during the lean years, to permit some one else to come in and take the cream."

TWO UNION OFFICERS QUIT

Hyman Calls Action a "Gesture" —Locals to Continue Fight.

The resignation of Israel Feinberg and Meyer Perlstein as managers of the New York Joint Board of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union became known yesterday. Immediately the Joint Committee of Action of Locals 2, 9 and 22, fighting to depose the present officers of the union, arranged for a meeting of shop committees in Cooper Union Monday night to discuss the next step in the fight.

Louis Hyman, Chairman of the committee, said that the resignations were taken as an indication of the "desperate plight" of the union officials. He added that "this gesture" was not sufficient and that the Committee of Action of the three locals would continue to fight the union's officers.

FURIOUS AT A PRANK, CHINESE KILLS A BOY

Then Is Shot and Gravely Wounded by a Policeman as He Tries to Escape.

LAD TRAPPED IN A DOORWAY

Ran as Some One Threw Dirt on Laundryman's Clothes, a Trick Often Played on Him.

Father Reilly of St. James's Pro-Cathedral pushed his way through a crowd of 2,000 persons who ringed the limp form of a boy lying in the doorway of the Prospect Lodging House at 109 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, last night and administered the last rites of the Church to the lad. Men in the crowd bared their heads and many of the onlookers knelt.

Before the priest had finished, reserves of the Poplar Street Police Station were forcing a way through the growing crowd for an ambulance surgeon from Cumberland Street Hospital. Dr. Silverman's examination was brief. The lad, James Courte, 22 years old, of 2 York Street, had died instantly. He had been shot through the head and the heart.

As soon as it became apparent that nothing could be done for young Courte, Patrolman Di Marsico, who had been standing almost in front of the lad's home when he heard pistol shots, drew the surgeon's attention to an unconscious man lying near. The man was Wong Low, a Chinese. He was unconscious and probably dying, having been shot through the back by Di Marsico when he fled with an empty automatic pistol in his hand just as the policeman saw young Courte fall.

Whether mischief at the Chinaman's expense cost Courte his life or whether he died the innocent victim of wrath deserved by others may not be known. Wong Low runs a laundry at 105 Fulton Street in the oldest "village" district of Brooklyn. It has been the habit of boys and half-grown men, so neighbors said, to toss bits of soiling trash through the doorway on to Wong Low's spotless clothes.

It came to be quite a lark to infuriate the Chinese and then run when he dashed out of the store in pursuit. Wong Low never came out armed so far as any one knew, and he usually abandoned the chase after a few imprecations that would have been harmless even had they been understood.

Some one tossed in something last night and soiled Wong Low's clothes once more. The Chinese charged out of the shop, waving an automatic. Courte ran. The Chinaman fired. The boy dodged into the lodging house doorway. Cornered there, he was an easy target. Either of the two bullets that hit him would have killed him.

Wong Low ran around the corner as Di Marsico came, refusing to heed the policeman's shouts to halt. Di Marsico fired only once.

BLAME HIGH RATES FOR POSTAL DEFICIT

Newspaper Publishers Tell Committee of Turning Deliveries Over to Private Agencies.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30. (AP).—The purported excessive cost of delivering newspapers by the United States mails as compared with the cost by private agencies was declared today before the special Congressional joint subcommittee, sitting in hearing on the new postal rates, to be an important factor in the alleged postal deficit.

"Newspapers prefer to use the post-office to private distributing agencies," Elisha Hanson, attorney for the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, told the Congressmen. "But the cost since 1917 has increased so overwhelmingly that publishers have withdrawn their mail deliveries as far as possible."

The average cost of delivering 100 pounds of papers by mail, said James P. Considine, speaking for the local metropolitan dailies as Chairman of the Philadelphia Newspaper Publishers' Association, has been $1.85, whereas similar service has been obtained from baggage, motor truck and trolley lines at 45 cents.

"Philadelphia publishers are no longer seeking circulation beyond the third zone because of the excessive cost," Mr. Considine told the committee. "But if the 1920 rates were restored we should attempt to regain our readers in distant points."

Representative C. William Ramseyer of Iowa, referring to Mr. Hanson's statement that 90 per cent. of the Philadelphia dailies' circulation was within 150 miles of the city, asked: "The Philadelphia publishers do not need postal rates, then?"

"Aren't the rural receivers of mail just as much to be benefited by the postal scale as publishers?" Mr. Hanson replied. He called attention to the great expense of maintaining the rural free delivery, drawing the conclusion that mail had never been intended to travel according ot its cost. "If such were attempted," he said, "not a package would go R. F. D."

Senator Lawrence C. Phipps of Colorado declared certain of the testimony presented was "not flat" comparisons of identical services, as in the case of the mail contrasted with private deliveries," and that it "was not convincing."

LEWIS TO WRITE 'NEW YORK'

Author of "Main Street" Signs With Famous Players.

Sinclair Lewis, author of "Main Street," "Babbitt" and "Arrowsmith," has signed a contract, it was announced yesterday by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, to write for that organization the scenario of "New York," a spectacular film which is to be produced in connection with the celebration of the city's 300th anniversary next Spring.

The arrangement was concluded yesterday over long-distance telephone between Mr. Lewis in New York and Jesse L. Lasky in Los Angeles. Allan Dwan has been assigned as the director. The production will constitute a pictorial history of New York from the time the land on which it began was purchased from the Indians by Peter Minuit up to the present day.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Rollo Peters will be the leading man in "The School Mistress," to be produced here in September by Henry W. Savage and A. H. Woods.

"Caesar and Cleopatra" will close at the Guild Theatre tomorrow night.

"A Night Out" will open in Philadelphia on Sept. 7, instead of in Boston, as previously announced.

A negro musical comedy, starring "Sunshine Sammy," was placed in rehearsal yesterday by Will Morrissey, in association with Abe L. Feinberg.

George Cukor, director of the Lyceum Players of Rochester, New York, will join the staff of the Charles Frohman Company soon as assistant to the general stage director.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Popular Civic Opera League will open its season at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, early in September with "La Gioconda." Mme. Helen Lubarska, a young American dramatic soprano, will sing the leading part.

Erwin Nyiregyhazi, the Hungarian pianist will give a recital at the Beachhurst Club House, Long Island, Sunday evening, in aid of the local Community House fund.

Lights Go Out as They Die.

Some of the fish which live in darkness appeared to be studded with glowing emeralds and sapphires when they were first caught, but the lights always disappeared after the death of the fish, and those from great depths usually died almost immediately of a form of "bends" or caisson sickness, the change from the pressure at the surface, causing compressed or dissolved gases in their interiors to burst out as gas again.

"Their lights often looked like fine jewels," said Professor W. K. Gregory of Columbia University, one of the scientists of the Beebe expedition, whose specialty on this trip was the study of the development by fish of various methods of locomotion. "Their lights apparently serve two uses, one as recognition lights, the other as lures. The type and pattern of lights enables those of one species to find each other, either for mating or for travel in schools. The second use is that the light attracts the small life on which they feed."

One of the surprises in the study of the luminous fish was the discovery that the myctophids use different lights to announce their sex.

"The males carry one light and the female two, or it may be the other way around," said Dr. Gregory. "This was the only case we found where the sexes of the fish were distinguished in this manner."

Some Lighted by Bacteria.

Dr. Lillian Segal, a chemist, went along on the trip for the specific purpose of studying the methods by which the light was produced—whether the fish had its own chemical or physical plant for producing light, or whether the fish entertained colonies of light-giving bacteria in regular cultures. Some fish are known to produce their light by the kindness of micro-organisms like those which cause the phosphorescence of dead mackerel and other fish. Some fish have developed complicated modifications of their own structure in which they rear cultures of luminous bacteria in regular patterns controlled by curtains like eyelids, so that they turn the light of their trained germs on and off at will. The deep sea life, however, was found to produce its own candlepower by direct methods. One proof of this was that the light went out shortly after the fish died. Bacteria would still luminesce.

Dr. Segal said she believed that progress had been made in demonstrating the workings of the fish lights.

"We think we have learned some things about it," she said. "But we are not ready to announce them. There is still a good deal of work to be done on this. We could not use the spectroscope successfully. Our spectroscope was not strong enough to analyze such feeble lights. We have been trying to produce the lights again in the dead fish by subjecting them to concentrations of oxygen, but we haven't been able to stimulate the lights of any of the dead fish as yet."

Exploded Sargasso Legend.

The Arcturus left on Feb. 10 and had traveled more than 12,000 miles, crossing the Equator eighteen times. Dr. Beebe started out to explore the Sargasso Sea, but he discovered that the Sargasso either had seen better days or that it had been vastly overdescribed by the old writers.

"At any rate, we found no plains or meadows of seaweed such as have been described," said Dr. Beebe. "The sargassum weed floated in thin patches, but when we scooped up bunches we found a great deal of interesting life in it. It was not the sea that interested me, but the probability of a rich deep-sea life beneath it. In other words, if there are dense masses of weed and surface life, it is pretty sure that there is a plentiful deep-sea population living on what dies and sinks to the bottom. But we did not find the thick vegetation on the surface."

"Did you find any signs of ships that have been trapped by the seaweed?"

"No, but we saw enough of the Sargasso Sea, after cutting through it three times, to make it certain that there never was any basis for that legend."

After being disappointed in the search for the floating prairies, Dr. Beebe turned west and entered the Pacific in search of the Humboldt Current. This is a sweep of icy water from the Antarctic which has traveled northward up the west coast of South America since the earliest voyagers.

"The Humboldt Current is gone," said Dr. Beebe. "We did not find it. It does not exist any more. A vast change has taken place down there in the last few months and that famous current has become extinct. The vanishing of the Humboldt Current has been attended by sweeping climatic changes, by great rainfalls over arid regions, which may bring great areas under cultivation. What has happened to the current is unknown.

Where Ocean Currents Meet.

"We did find great tidal ripe, which are meeting places of currents of different temperatures. We found these rips abounding in bird and sea life and tortoises. Each current carries along a mass of life which has no power of locomotion of its own, and these drifting things are concentrated along the line where the two tides meet, so that birds and fish of every size come there for food. Every drop of the net here brought up teeming masses of life, from micro-organisms to sharks. We obtained vast quantities of specimens here. It has been impossible to number them or study them."

Death masks of many of the strange fish were made in plaster of paris by Dwight Franklin, as an aid to accuracy when their skins are mounted later. Portrait busts were made of some and life-size casts of others, in order to obtain the exact dimensions of the living fish over which its skin will be stretched later when it is prepared for exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History.

Thousands and thousands were pickled in formaldehyde and brought back in glass jars and tubes. Because the colors and features of life disappear quickly, fish were done in oils and water-colors, as well as in plastic materials. Artists with the expedition sketched against time in order to make permanent records of every color and detail of the fish and other organisms which were trawled, dredged or captured in silk scoops. Thousands of paintings and sketches were made in order to record the points which the camera and the pickling solutions could not preserve. Striped, barred, freckled as they were when alive, done in rainbows, arabesques and Paisley patterns, the fish nearly all faded to feeble imitations of themselves in their glass jars.

The Arcturus brought back the first artificially reared seagoing insects. These are halobates, long-legged insects which walk on the ocean without touching water and spend their lives on that element, although a drop on one's back causes its death of a cold, according to Dr. Beebe.

Their Feet Never Get Wet.

These care-free ocean pedestrians walk on the ocean without touching water, according to the scientist, because they are so light that they are supported by the surface tension of the water. When they stand still their feet are in the centre of small, cuplike depressions, but those feet, it is claimed, never get wet, luckily for the phthisical constitution of the insects. How these insects have fared since the change in the Humboldt Current has caused heavy rainstorms in their localities has not been reported. Whether they can sidestep and dance away from the falling drops is not known, but, according to Dr. Beebe, it has been experimentally shown that to put a drop of water on the back of a captive halobate is invariably fatal.

How they reared their families on the ocean was a puzzle until tiny eggs were found attached to the feathers of gannets and other waterfowl. Several of these feathers were put in tanks on the Arcturus and young halobates hatched.

Among pickled specimens which excited interest yesterday were the amphioxus, the most Bourbon of the fish family. The amphioxus has not changed in 50,000,000 years. It is, according to the theory that cannot be taught in Tennessee, the collateral ancestor of every fish, reptile, mammal, bird and everything that has a spinal column. The amphioxus has the rudiments of a backbone. One branch of the family, according to paleontologists, went ahead and developed the first backboned animal from which all vertebrates have descended, while the amphioxus proper stood pat. This creature, of which men are nephews a few times removed, earns a living by burrowing its tail in the sand and eating such meals as float up and enter its mouth.

About the biggest specimen was a ray, or devilfish, eighteen feet across, which fought three members of the expedition to a standstill for two hours before it was caught and hauled up. One of the interesting live specimens was a fish which rides, eats and lives on the ray. It resembles a shark sucker, having a suction plate on the back of its head by which it can attach itself or release itself from the ray's back. It eats at the second table, consuming fragments of what the ray kills. This parasite fish is living in one of the large aquaria on the Arcturus. Yesterday it was asleep, with its suction plate attached to one of the glass walls of the tank. Among the living specimens are a large variety of the suckers which plaster themselves on sharks, obtaining free transportation and meals and protection from their enemies, which are afraid to pick them off the backs of sharks.

Watched Dramas Under Water.

Some of the brilliant sketches of life below the surface were made with the aid of the diving helmet, an ornate structure of metal and plate glass resembling a Fifth Avenue traffic tower. From this under-water observatory the artists watched battles, romances, feasts and parades below the surface to a depth of forty feet and started to reproduce them in the ship's library a few minutes later while impressions were still vivid.

Some of the fishes represented by portraits, photographs and specimens in jars are enormous eels with black beaks and jowls; dwarf sharks eight inches long with lustrous green eyes, long-nosed macruroids, jet-black fish with huge teeth and bright lights at the end of long, limber stalks; new species of eels transparent as glass; a phantom crustacean, ordinarily invisible, thin as paper and transparent as the eels; fighting squid, giant scarlet shrimps, a strange fish with scales like hair or feathers; tiny crabs studded with glowing jewels and hundreds of other curiosities.

From the lighting systems of the fish Miss Segal has taken large amounts of the substances which are believed to be excited by chemical action to produce light. Whether these fish-lighted chemicals all belong to the same family or vary considerably in composition will be one of the problems worked over at length in chemical laboratories. Years will be consumed in different fields of study on the material brought back by the Arcturus.

The financial backing for the expedition was furnished by Harrison Williams, Henry D. Whiton, Vincent Astor, Marshall Field, Clarence Dillon, George F. Baker Jr. and a number of others. Most of the preserved specimens will go to the American Museum of Natural History and the living ones to the Aquarium and the Bronx Zoo.

The scientist staff which accompanied Dr. Beebe were John Tee-Van, William Merriam, Isabel Cooper, Ruth Rose, Dr. W. K. Gregory, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fish, Lillian Segal, J. Schoedsack, Dwight Franklin, Jay Pearson, Serge Chetyrkin and Dr. D. W. Cady.

"The Unholy Three," the story of the Ventriloquist, the Giant and the Dwarf, is Lon Chaney's greatest role since the "Miracle Man." This Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture is directed by Tod Browning and features in addition to Lon Chaney, Mae Busch and Matt Moore. It is, I believe, the greatest production of the Greater Movie Season.

To A Great Actress
An Open Letter to Louise Dresser

YOU HAVE GIVEN ME ONE of the most refreshing experiences of my whole moving picture career by your work in "The Goose Woman."

YOU HAVE GIVEN ME AN added faith in the possibilities of the screen and its future. You have played one of the most difficult roles ever assigned to a screen star, and you have played it in a manner that will make it one of the classics of moving pictures.

YOU HAVE GIVEN TO THAT woman who owned the goose farm the rich fruits of your experience as an actress. You have shown that even a seared soul can be healed. Every true lover of the histrionic art will feel humble in the presence of that woman of the goose farm.

ALL HONOR TO REX BEACH for a fine story and all honor to Clarence Brown for a masterly piece of directing, but, Miss Dresser, I am not indulging in flattery when I state my belief that no other person could have elevated this picture to such great heights as you have done. I wish you could know how deep a pride I will take in presenting you to the world in "The Goose Woman," under the Universal banner.

Respectfully yours,
Carl Laemmle,
Pres. Universal Pictures Corp.

STATE OF VICTORIA IS HOST TO FLEET

LANG SENDS PEACE MESSAGE

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MELBOURNE, July 30.—The Premier and Parliament of Victoria gave a dinner tonight in honor of Admiral Coontz and officers of the Melbourne detachment of the American fleet.

Frank Clark, leader of the Legislative Council, in seconding the toast, "Our Guests," said it would be interesting to note where two strong peoples, one of them progressing along definite lines of individual enterprise—America—and the other going in more for State enterprise—Australia—would ultimately reach in the scale of national development.

Admiral Coontz in a brief speech reiterated his thanks for the splendid welcome the fleet has received in Melbourne.

While Premier John Allan of Victoria was making his address of welcome some one interrupted for a "hurrah" for Henry Ford. Premier Allan had just remarked that Australia was advancing industrially along lines followed by America when one of the diners caused cheers by his reference to Mr. Ford, whose opening of four automobile plants in Australia has been commended by the Commonwealth.

The dinner, composed of courses characteristically Australian and wines pressed from grapes grown in this country, was less formal than the Federal dinner several nights ago and the welcome was fully as cordial as preceding affairs for the visitors.

The secret wedding of a sailor and a Sydney girl was disclosed today. They met at a dance and he visited her home the next day. On the third day they were engaged and last night they were married. The bride is preparing to rejoin her husband in America. Their names were not disclosed. Several other sailors are engaged. A bandsman on the New Mexico intended to be married Tuesday but at the last minute some obstacle prevented the ceremony.

Admiral and Mrs. Robison and Governor Dechair are visiting Mount Kosciusko, where Winter sports will be enjoyed. The snow there for miles around is a foot deep.

Although two thousand invitations were issued for the dance aboard the Oklahoma at Melbourne, thousands more tried to board the ship. Marines guarded the gangways and sides, but when girls on shore held out their hands like the sirens tempting Ulysses, the sailors disregarded orders and helped them aboard through gunports and up the sides until the officers ordered them to desist. Many invited guests were unable to get aboard on account of the kind-heartedness of the bluejackets.

The Oklahoma will get a full grown kangaroo from the Melbourne zoo as a mascot. The animal will be received in state on the quarterdeck by a full muster of officers and a company of marines. If all the ships' demands for mascots were supplied there would be no kangaroos or wallabies left in the zoo.

Deny Sailors Were Attacked.

The city is stirred and disappointed by reports cabled back from America that press dispatches printed there indicate that American sailors of the fleet have been cheated, robbed and boycotted during their stay in Australia. Inquiries from the United States also have been received here as to the number of bluejackets reported killed in brawls.

In view of the large personnel that has gone ashore from the vessels the number of disturbances have been remarkably few. There have been three or four instances of stabbing and brawling, and some of the men have been separated from their money, but often the fights have been between the sailors themselves, and such monetary losses as they suffered were due either to their ignorance of the local currency or while under the influence of liquor.

Representative James McClintic, who accompanied the fleet, has cabled to the Navy Department denying these reports, while Admiral Coontz has issued a denial that any extraordinary or untoward incidents have occurred.

It is true that soon after the fleet's arrival small dodgers ascribed to the I. W. W. asking a boycotting of the fleet were distributed on the streets, but in view of the fact that this organization is numerically and from the point of view of influence absolutely without prestige, no significance can be attached to its efforts.

A boycott, it is generally conceded, is absolutely out of the question, and the officers and men of the fleet have been received literally like conquerors, and are having the time of their lives.

The flagship Seattle celebrated her nineteenth birthday today.

Message For American Workers.

SYDNEY, July 30 (AP).—K. T. Lang, new Labor Premier of New South Wales, today gave the following message to The Associated Press for the workers of America:

"It is my earnest wish that the mingling of many thousands of American citizens with our people during the United States fleet visit here will lead to a better understanding between the workers of both countries.

"Only by united efforts of workers of the English-speaking family, working by constitutional means, can we make the world better. There can never be any improvement in our conditions until war is relegated as something belonging to a barbaric age. It is only the insistence of workers in our countries that can abolish war.

"We in Australia look hopefully to American workers, from whom many peace proposals emanate. We assure them we are heart and soul in every move they make."

DOUBTS PRESBYTERIANS WILL UNITE JUST YET

Dr. Erdman Says It Will Come, but That Present Relations of Churches Are Harmonious.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30 (AP).—Union of the Presbyterian Church North and South is not in immediate prospect, nor is it a present necessity, in the opinion of the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Erdman, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. Dr. Erdman has just returned from Montreat, N. C., the Summer assembly ground of the Southern Presbyterian Church.

"Dr. Erdman stated that the union of the two churches, which were one until the Civil War, was almost certain to take place at some future time, but that the present relation of the two churches was harmonious and satisfactory in all particulars, and that the time was not ripe or opportune for effecting an organic union of the two bodies.

"The so-called Northern Church, he said, is ready for such action, but there are certain reasons why the so-called Southern Church believes that the existing relation of the two bodies should be maintained for the present.

"Among the reasons Dr. Erdman specified the vanishing fear on the part of the Southern Church that the Northern Church might not steadfastly maintain their common standards, might not understand the negro problem and might not regard the right relation of church and State."

State Printers Reelect Brady.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 30 (AP).—Peter J. Brady of New York was this afternoon re-elected President of the New York State Allied Printing Trades Council at the convention here. All other officers of the council were also re-elected.

LA FOLLETTE'S SON TO RUN FOR SENATE

TWO OTHERS IN THE RACE

Mrs. La Follette Will Devote Her Time to Husband's Biography and to Editing Magazine.

MADISON, Wis., July 30 (AP).—Robert M. La Follette Jr. will seek the seat in the United States Senate made vacant by the death of his father. He announced his candidacy here today and said he would issue a "complete statement" later.

"I am a candiate for United States Senator. In a short time I shall issue a complete statement."

The announcement followed a series of conferences with Wisconson political leaders and came a few days after the Senator's widow announced she would not seek the seat made vacant by her husband.

Governor Blaine will call a special election at a time "most convenient to the largest number of voters."

Mrs. La Follette will devote her time to completing her husband's biography and to editorial work on the magazine which he founded here a number of years ago.

The special election probably will be held in September or October, after the harvest season, so as to permit a large farmer vote.

Besides Robert Jr., two other candidates have declared themselves and a third has expressed willingness to run if assured the support of the Republicans who opposed the late Senator.

Former Governor Francis F. McGovern and Roy P. Wilcox, former State Senator from Eau Claire, already have declared for the race in the Republican primary. John M. Work, Milwaukee, will be the Socialist candidate.

Robert La Follette Jr. has been Chairman of the Wisconsin Republican Central Committee since last Fall.

His brother, Philip, is State's Attorney in Dane County, the position his father occupied more than forty years ago as the first step in his political career.

Robert long has been his father's closest political adviser and he had a large part in the direction of the La Follette Presidential campaign last year. He was constantly at his father's side and was consulted on every move. He as just 30 years old, the Constitutional age limit for United State Senator.

ELK FOR THE SMITH ZOO.

Boy Scouts to Give Interstate Park Catch to Governor.

When Governor Alfred E. Smith appears at the Boy Scout camp at Bear Mountain as the guest of Barron Collier on an inspection trip next Tuesday, he will receive as a present from the Scouts a real live elk to add to his zoo. The elk, which was caught by the boys Wednesday, is intended to replace the two bear cubs which were removed from the executive mansion menagerie in June when their appetites showed signs of insatiety.

The elk has been named "Good Scout II" after Governor Smith, who was himself crowned "Good Scout I" by the boys on a visit to the Bear Mountain Camp two years ago. The elk is five months old and weighs 150 pounds. It is descended from the herd placed in the Interstate Park several years ago.

Yanks Win Third in Row; Giants Triumph, but Robins Lose

VICTORY CLINCHED EARLY

Hugmen Get 4 Runs in First Off Gaston and Hoyt Keeps Firm Grip on Lead.

By HARRY CROSS.

The Yanks went through a complete transformation at the Stadium yesterday and won their third game in succession. They have been trying to do this since rainy April and no less than fourteen times have they won a pair of games, only to fall down on the third straight.

It wasn't until they spruced up and tossed off the St. Louis Browns by a score of 9 to 2 that they felt the sensation of winning a trio of victories without numerous defeats inserted here and there in the collection.

They didn't accomplish this high ambition until their fifteenth attempt. What they will do next is something the baseball public must be patient about. There is no telling what it will be.

Waite Hoyt was the pitcher who did the trick and He did it tossing against the former Yank, Milton Gaston. All the other Yankees behind Hoyt acted as if they had just awakened from a long sleep and they displayed more pep and action in an hour and half than they have shown in any previous week this season. They were on their toes and on the job.

In passing, it might also be mentioned that the Browns were so surprised at the usual actions of the New York players that at times they were actually bewildered and played baseball which might be considered almost as loose as ashes.

Gaston Gets Weird Support.

Poor Milton Gaston received some support in the first inning which was enough to make him discouraged at the laws of the land. Combs, the first Yank up, rolled a harmless grounder to Lamotte at short, and the latter threw it so far past Rice on first that Combs went to second.

Ward walked and Ruth lofted a fly to left centre which hung in the sky like a dirigible at her mooring. Bennett posed under it and, after gazing at the sky several minutes, he could see nothing but the sun. The ball dropped and missed hitting him on the head by half an inch. Lucky Bennett.

That put Ruth on first and filled the bases. Hargrave then added to Gaston's misery by letting one of Milton's curves go through him. Combs scoring on the passed ball, Ward going to third and Ruth to second. Bob Meusel jammed a single to left which sent Ward and Ruth over, Meusel going to second on the throw in.

One more passed ball by Hargrave and Meusel went to third, scoring on a single by Gehrig. Shanks hit into a double play and Schang died at first.

On that four-run lead the Yankees began to play ball. In the second inning Wanninger singled and went along on Hoyt's sacrifice. After Combs flied to Jacobson, Ward's double sent Wanninger home.

Hoyt was so overjoyed at the Yanks scoring runs that for four innings he gave the Browns only one hit, that being a single in the second by Jacobson. It wasn't until the fifth that the Browns got a run. McManus was safe on a bad throw from third by Shanks. Jacobson singled to centre, McManus stopping at third. Hargrave bounced a teasing hopper just out of the reach of both Hoyt and Wanninger, filling the bases. When Robertson hit into a double play McManus scored, but Hoyt knuckled down and made the Brownies behave.

Hoyt Again Checks Browns.

They managed to get another in the next inning. After Bennett whiffed, Lamotte soaked a hot one at Shanks which put the runner at second before Howard got through handling it. Tobin's liner was too hot for Pee Wee Wanninger and Johnny got a throw sent in, a double to left which landed Lamotte at the plate. Once again Hoyt halted an impending rally.

The Yanks gathered another pair of runs in the seventh. After Ward went out at first Ruth banged a single to right and Meusel lifted to Lamotte. Gehrig walked and when Shanks hit a single to centre, Ruth counted and Gehrig did a mad bit of base galloping by racing all the way home and sliding under Hargrave on his chin.

Just to make it sure, the Yanks got two more in the eighth. Pee Wee singled again and Hoyt sent him along with a sacrifice. Combs walked and Ward's second hit scored Wanninger. The Babe walked and jammed the bases again. Meusel's sacrifice fly to Jacobson scored Combs.

The Yankees played such snappy ball in the seventh, eighth and ninth innings that the Browns were completely confused. They could hardly believe it.

GRAY BEATS TIGERS, WINS TENTH GAME

Hurls First Full Contest for Mackmen Since July 3 and Scores 9-0 Victory.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30 (AP).—Connie Mack shuffled his batting order today, with the result that the pace-making Athletics hammered out a 9-to-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Sammy Gray pitched his first full game since July 3, won his tenth game of the season and scored his fourth shutout.

The Athletics drove Whitehill from the box after scoring five runs in the first two innings. Wells, his successor, was also hit hard. Frank Welch hung up an unusual feat by stepping to the plate five times and not being charged with a time at bat. He sacrificed [illegible] and walked on three other occasions.

INDIANS WIN THIRD IN ROW.

Buckeye Helps With Home Run in 7-2 Victory Over Red Sox.

BOSTON, July 30 (AP).—Cleveland made it three straight over the Red Sox today by winning 7 to 2. Buckeye pitched effectively while his mates hammered Zahniser persistently. The first Indian run, coming in the fifth inning, was made on a home run by Buckeye into the right field bleachers. The Cleveland outfield all made good catches, Jamieson excelling.

GOWDY'S BAT SENDS GIANTS TOWARD TOP

His Homer and Sacrifice, Scoring 3 Runs, Beat Cubs, 4-2, and Team Gains on Leaders.

YOUNG ALSO A BIG FACTOR

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The ancient gag to the effect that every cloud has a silver lining still holds good in Chicago. Today's Giants-Cub battle was played under a black, frowning canopy. The place was simply thick with clouds, but all the Giants could see was the lining. To them the sun was gleaming brightly, birds twittered from the tree tops and little children ran laughingly in golden sunshine.

All because the Giants won, 4 to 2, and the Pirates lost, and the McGravians are again treading the straight and narrow path which leads to first place. True, they are still about two games removed from the promised land, but they can still catch a glimpse.

Grover Cleveland Alexander attempted to shut off the view today, but the Giants saw right through him from the first inning on. There was something pathetic about Alex the Great. He walked a man with the bases full, something he probably had never done before in his life. He fumbled an easy bunt and he botched up another play by an error of judgment in throwing. Alex looked like a pitcher who is ready for the easy chair, the leather slippers, the velvet smoking jacket and the reminiscences beginning, "I remember when ——"

Hank Saddens Spectators.

There was another touching figure on the field of battle—poor old Hank Gowdy. He brought tears to the eyes of many spectators. For the last few days there has been a rumor that waivers have been asked on Hank. We can understand this perfectly. Anybody who can hit only one home run and one sacrifice fly in one game, driving in only three of his team's four runs, ought to get out and let youth carry the banner of battle.

Yes, sir, Hank was a pitiful spectacle. So was Ross Young, who made one Annette Kellermann catch, which probably stopped a run and uncorked a wonderful throw which choked off another tally. Give Ross a bicycle and he'll cover all of Chicago down to the Loop.

George Kelly put in the first word for New York when he doubled to left in the second. Then old man Gowdy up and slammed a terrific liner into the left field bleachers. Two runs for the Gothams.

Meanwhile Jack Scott was wandering around looking for trouble and getting it. A single, another single and a walk filled the lanes with one out in the second, but Alex grounded into a double play by way of Frisch, Kelly and Terry. Alex is a dependable batter. You can always depend on him to get out.

Cubs Again Crowd Bases.

The Cubs populated the bases again in the third. With two out Pittenger and Brooks walked and Grigsby singled where Kelly couldn't get it. Heathcote stilled the tumult by rolling an easy one to Long George.

Storm clouds were gathering now. The heavens were as black as a club flush. There was a rumble of thunder that betokened trouble. It was a good day to rob a hotel, although any day will do for that in Chicago. But were the Giants downhearted? They were not. The scoreboard showed Boston doing a noble, patriotic thing by beating Pittsburgh and the Giants to a man agreed that they hadn't seen lovelier weather this year.

In the sixth the aliens helped themselves to two more runs. Young tripled to right, doing the last fifty feet in nothing flat. Sparky Adams blocked off Meusel's low line drive, but Alex walked Terry. Then Kelly hit to the pitcher, who probably could have started a double play through second. However, he had Young fairly off third and, concentrating on that troublesome gentlemen, Grover Cleveland ran over personally with the ball, but he threw too late and Pep scrampled back headfirst to a safe haven.

This filled the bases, and Alex did the unbelievable by walking child Lindstrom, forcing Young over on a walk. Gowdy's fly to left was lengthy enough for the purposes of another run.

Hartnett Gets His Twenty-fourth.

In the same inning, Leo Hartnett, called Gabby for a very good reason, sailed a tremendous swipe clear over the left-field bleachers and into the public thoroughfare. This was his twenty-fourth of the year, but nobody was on base, thank goodness.

Trouble in the eighth. Grigsby opened with a single. Heathcote shot a smack to right. Young missed the ball on an upward jump, then, with his back to the bleachers, threw Grigsby out at third. Some toss. Heathcote made second and scored when, with two gone, Hartnett's fly fell in left near the foul line for a double. Meusel and Frisch lost the ball in the darkness. Meusel saw it first but was too far away.

Miss Ederle Startles Experts With Speed; Rough Water May Delay Channel Attempt

BOULOGNE, France, July 30 (AP).—Two women swimmers apparently are intent upon contesting to the full the right of Neptune to hold from the feminine sex the honor of swimming the English Channel and ascending to the natatorial plane reached by five men.

Gertrude Ederle, the American girl swimmer, daily is at practice in the waters off Boulogne, and is said to be in excellent shape to take to the water early next Monday morning if weather conditions are favorable.

Lillian Harrison, the Argentine mermaid, who thrice unsuccessfully has endeavored to make the swim, proposes to try again in mid-August. As a preliminary to her fourth effort she will participate in the Marathon swim of 20 miles down the River Seine from Gorbell to Paris.

She entered the Marathon on the advice of her trainer, the veteran William Burgess, who was the second man to swim the Channel and who will be among the fourteen starters. Swimming experts believe Miss Harrison' long swim in the fresh water of the Seine will prove a severe handicap to her when she again attempts to negotiate the salt water of the Channel from Cape Griz Nez to Dover.

The distance of the Marathon exceeds the Channel by about three and a half miles, but in the Channel the tides necessitate a much greater distance.

The conditions in the Channel during the last five days would have proved hopeless for aspiring Channel swimmers, and the prophets here are of the opinion that the rough water will not calm sufficiently before mid-August to permit of a successful crossing. Nevertheless Miss Ederle daily is in the water for several hours, using her overhand stroke and six-beat crawl and making time that has opened the eyes of the swimming sharps.

PIRATES SHELLED BY BRAVES' BATS

Lose Final Game of Series by 5-1—Three Triples and Homer by Burrus Help Boston.

PITTSBURGH, July 30 (AP).—After winning the first three games of the series with Boston, the Pirates faltered today and the Braves took the final contest by 5 to 1.

Boston's eleven hits included one double, three triples and a home run, the latter by Burrus. The Pirates' only run was scored on High's error in the fourth. However, High contributed a triple and a single to the Boston cause. The score:

PROVIDENCE BATS REPULSE SKEETERS

Grays Overcome Two-Run Lead in Last Two Innings and Win, 7 to 5.

(By Associated Press.)

Hard hitting in the two final rounds by Providence reduced a two-run lead held by the Skeeters in Jersey City yesterday and gave the Grays a victory in their season's farewell lineup in the home of the Skeeters, 7 to 5.

Jersey City has released unconditionally Pitcher Cliff Best and Infielder Billy McCarron.

The game between the Buffalo and Rochester International League clubs on July 5, which was stopped by the police under Sunday restrictive laws at the end of four and a half innings, will be completed next Monday at Buffalo prior to the regularly scheduled game. John Conway Toole, president of the league, announced the conditions yesterday under which the teams will resume where they left off and play two and a half additional innings to decide the winner.

ST. JEAN WINS CUE MATCH.

Andrew St. Jean of Minneapolis, by capturing the final two blocks yesterday, defeated Arthur Woods of Syracuse in their special pocket billiard match at the Fourteenth Street Academy by a score of 500 to 366. St. Jean won the afternoon block, 127 to 109, getting a high run of 66 to one of 22 for his opponent. In the evening block St. Jean triumphed, 125 to 54, his high run being 63 to 44 for Woods.

Hoppe Wins at Three-Cushions.

Willie Hoppe defeated F. B. Cohen in a three-cushion exhibition match at the Hoppe Billiard Academy last night by a score of 50 to 22, in sixty-two innings, getting a high run of 6. Hoppe will play balkline tonight and tomorrow in preparation for his match with Erich Hagenlacher, which starts Monday.

WHITE SOX BARRAGE STOPS COVELESKIE

Produces 9 Hits and 5 Runs, Beats Senators, 11-1, and Breaks Veteran's String.

WASHINGTON, July 30. (AP).—The White Sox smashed Coveleskie's streak of 13 consecutive victories today by hammering him from the box and winning their third game out of four starts with the Senators by an 11 to 1 score.

In three innings the Sox knicked Coveleskie for nine hits and five runs. Gregg and Marberry fared but little better from the visitors, but Russell held them hitless for two frames.

5 P. M.—Exhibition singles match between William Tilden and William Johnston.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30.—Cranston Holman, 19-year-old senior at Stanford University, established himself among the most promising candidates for the Davis Cup team of the future today. Indeed, the performance of the blond, ruggedly built Californian against James Anderson was so surprising that he might step into the breach this year and give a good account of himself in the international matches.

In the semi-final round of the Invitation Tennis Tournament of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club Holman carried the captain of the Australian Davis Cup team to three sets and in the final chapter twice stood within a point of leading at 5—3. Anderson was forced to call upon all his cunning and resources before he was able to overcome the brilliant attack of his young opponent. Exhausted by the strenuousness of his court covering, Holman yielded, dropping the eighth game and the next two also. The final score was 7—9, 6—1, 6—4.

Tomorrow afternoon, at 2:45, Anderson and Vincent Richards will meet in the final round, and once more the New York youth will have the opportunity to establish a claim to a position on the American team. A victory over Anderson, after his decisive triumph over Gerald Patterson, would strengthen Richards's chances considerably. This afternoon the New York youth gained the final round by defeating R. Norris Williams, 2d, former national champion and runner-up in this tournament to William Johnston in 1921, 1922 and 1923. The score was 7—5, 6—1.

Miss Wills Routs Mrs. Mallory.

Miss Helen Wills, national champion, and Miss Elizabeth Ryan reached the final of the women's tournament and will meet on Saturday afternoon. Miss Wills gained a crushing victory over Mrs. Molla Mallory at 6—1, 6—0, and Miss Ryan put out Miss Mary K. Browne of Santa Monica, who ranks second, at 4—6, 6—2, 6—4.

Not since Miss Wills took the title from Mrs. Mallory in 1923 has she so decisively beaten the New York woman as she did today. Mrs. Mallory fought pluckily and covered court with her usual tenacity, but she could not withstand the withering fire of her younger opponent's tremendous smashes. In the first set Mrs. Mallory won the fifth game on the other's errors, and then Miss Wills went on to take eight successive games. Mrs. Mallory carried the score to deuce in four games in the second set, but she could not put across the winning shot whenever she stood at game point. It took just twenty-six minutes for Miss Wills to win the match.

Williams had one of his rare days this afternoon and Richards was extended to the limit to dispose of him. The Philadelphian had the touch of a master in his racquet and shots of the sheerest brilliancy flowed off his strings with regularity. It took a great player to beat Williams as he played today, with his terrific service, his lightning returns of a rising ball and his marvelous slanting volleys. In overcoming such tennis as this the young Davis Cup star met the acid test, much more of a test than was furnished by Patterson.

This was the first tournament meeting between Williams and Richards in three years. In 1922 the New York youth defeated the other at Providence in the Rhode Island State championship, and a few weeks later, at Newport, Williams defaulted to Richards when he had the New York youth match point, stating that he wanted to devote himself to doubles.

Kinsey Brothers Triumphs.

The final round was also reached in the men's and women's doubles. The Kinsey brothers, national champions, defeated Williams and Watson Washburn in one semi-final at 6—3, 3—6, 6—4, and William Johnston and Clarence Griffin, former champions, put out Richards and Ray Casey in the other at 6—2, 3—6, 6—3.

Last year the same two teams met in the final with Johnston and Griffin winning after a bitter five-set match. They now hold two legs on the doubles cup.

Miss Wills and Miss Browne eliminated Miss Helen Jacobs and Miss Charlotte Hosmer in one of the women's semi-finals at 6—4, 6—3, and Miss Ryan and Miss Eleanor Goss put out Mrs. May Sutton Bundy and Miss Marion Williams at 6—3, 6—1. The final of the men's doubles will be played tomorrow and will be followed by an exhibition singles match between Tilden and Johnston.

The summaries:

Stamford Regatta Tomorrow.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 30.—The thirty-third annual regatta of the Stamford Yacht Club will be sailed on Saturday off Stamford Harbor, in Long Island Sound. The yachts will compete over five courses, ranging from 19½ miles for the forties down to 5¼ miles for decked sailing canoes.

Tilden to Appear Before U. S. Tennis Body Tomorrow Night to Defend His 'Interviews'

Special to The New York Times.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30.—William Tilden, national tennis champion, will appear before the Executive Committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association on Saturday evening to discuss his practice of giving interviews on tournaments in which he plays. The Philadelphian arrived at the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club today and acknowledged that he had received a request to appear and stated he was willing to talk the matter over.

The outcome of the conference is fraught with significance. Next week Tilden and other leading players of the country will engage in Davis Cup trials at Forest Hills. It will be remembered that last year the controversy over the player-writer rule became so serious that the successful defense of the cup was jeopardized. At the request of the Executive Committee all discussion of the issue was stopped, with the understanding that the new interpretation of the amateur rule would not go into effect before the 1925 annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A.

A special committee of seven was appointed by the Executive Committee to consider the new interpretation and to report to the February meeting. Tilden was one of four appointed by the Executive Committee and they selected three others, who were Senator George Wharton Pepper, Devereux Milburn, captain of the United States international polo team, and Grantland Rice.

This committee revised the amateur rule and their report was adopted by the U. S. L. T. A. Under the revised rule players engaged in journalistic work were barred from filing daily newspaper reports of tournaments in which they participated and from using their tennis titles in signing all stories.

Two weeks ago Tilden gave out daily interviews to a Philadelphia syndicate on the play in the national clay court championship, in which he was defending his title. While the new amateur rule contains no reference to "interviews," the question arose whether Tilden did not violate the spirit of the rule. A few weeks previous Tilden stated that he had been released from his syndicate contract.

At Chicago last week the champion defended his right to give out the interviews and declared that he was not violating the rule. It is expected that the meeting Saturday night will last into the early morning hours. The findings will be made public on Monday.

U. S. AND BRITISH ARE TIED AT TENNIS

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30.—International interuniversity lawn tennis opened today on the famous grand stand court at the Casino here, where so many tennis classics have been staged, and at the end of the day's play, when six matches had been completed, the United States and England stood even at three matches each. In the morning the English team, composed of Oxford and Cambridge players, won two matches in singles to one taken by the American representatives, and in the afternoon the situation was reversed, Harvard and Yale players in doubles winning two of the three matches played.

Play was steady and consistent and fine stroking and finesse were seen, but there was little today that could be called brilliant, the kind of tennis that brings a gallery to its feet. However, strange courts and strange surroundings may have had a bit to do with that, particularly during the doubles in the afternoon, when a largely attended lawn fête near by, with calliopes and orchestras playing and barkers shouting their wares, may have upset the usual calm which pervades the championship court. That, however, will be eliminated tomorrow.

So the score stands three to three, and the same result will be possible tomorrow, when three more matches will be played. W. W. Ingraham, the Harvard captain, who had the distinction of opening the tournament, was pushed by H. K. Lester of Cambridge in the first set, but pulled out the match at 7—5, 6—3.

While victory may have been taken as a good augury, the fact remains that England took the next two matches, which gave them the edge on the morning's play. Charles Watson 3d of Yale took his first set from D. J. R. Sumner, but Sumner turned the tables and won at 5—7, 6—1, 6—3. Captain J. J. Lezard of the English team took the measure of A. L. Hopkins of Yale easily at 6—3, 6—3.

America won the first two doubles matches and had the edge for the day at three to two before the English evened up by taking the final match. Ingraham, paired with John Whitbeck, took the measure of Jonklaas and Sumner of Oxford, 6—4, 6—4, and Jones and Watson, the Yale pair, defeated Lester and Carleton, a mixed English team, by the same score.

Captain Lezard of Cambridge, playing with J. H. Van Alen of Cambridge, walked off with a mixed American pair, Hopkins of Yale and Briggs of Harvard, 6—3, 6—1. The visitors played fine tennis, meeting every attack, particularly the speedy drives of the heavy Hopkins, effectively.

The summaries:

SINGLES.

W. W. Ingraham, Harvard, defeated H. K. Lester, Cambridge, 7—5, 6—3.
D. J. R. Sumner, Oxford, defeated Charles Watson 3d, Yale, 5—7, 6—1, 6—2.
J. J. Lezard, Cambridge, defeated A. L. Hopkins, Yale, 6—3, 6—3.

DOUBLES.

Jones and Watson, Yale, defeated Lester and Carleton, Oxford and Cambridge, 6—4, 6—2.
Lezard and Van Alen, Cambridge, defeated Briggs and Hopkins, Harvard and Yale, 6—3, 6—1.

DEMPSEY SETS JULY 4 AS WILLS BOUT DATE

Champion Announces He Will Notify Officially New York Board of Decision.

LOS ANGELES, July 30 (AP).—Jack Dempsey is ready to fight Harry Wills next July 4, and he will so inform the New York Boxing Commission.

Announcement to this effect was made by the champion's press agent, Rob Roy Benton, in amplification of yesterday's announcement that the Wills fight in 1926 was the only bout for which Dempsey definitely was planning.

WEISSMULLER WINS A. A. U. SWIM TITLE

SEATTLE, Wash., July 30 (AP).—With 16 points, the Illinois Athletic Club tonight retained a lead established yesterday in the national championship swimming meet of the Amateur Athletic Union in the Lake Washington Ship Canal.

Walter Laufer, Cincinnati Y. M. C. A., set a world's record in the 220-yard back-stroke race, making the distance in 2 minutes 50 seconds. Paul Wyatt of the Uniontown (Pa.) Swimming Club finished second in the event.

Johnny Weissmuller of the Illinois A. C. won the 880-yard free style, but his time was 16 4-10 seconds slower than the world's record of 10:43 6-10, held by Arne Borg. Harry Glancy, Cincinnati, finished second. Borg was not in the race.

Ranking after the Illinois A. C. team at the end of today's events were Cincinnati Y. M. C. A., 11; Roman Pool, Miami, Fla., 5; Stanford University, 4; Swimming Club, Uniontown, Pa., and the Chicago A. A., 3 each; Olympic Club, San Francisco; Griffen Natatorium, Chicago, and Crystal Pool, Seattle, 1 each.

The summaries:

880-Yard Free Style—Won by John Weissmuller, Illinois A. C.; Harry Glancy, Y. M. C. A., Cincinnati, second; Carl B. Stevenson, Stanford University, third. Time—11:12.

220-Yard Back Stroke—Won by Walter Laufer, Y. M. C. A., Cincinnati; Paul Wyatt, Swimming Club, Uniontown, Pa., second; Conrad Mila, Illinois A. C., Chicago, third. Time—2:50.

GENARO AND LEVINE WILL MEET TONIGHT

Flyweights Scheduled to Box 12 Rounds at Rockaway—Other Bouts.

Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion, will make his first ring appearance of the outdoor season tonight when he faces Hilly Levine, Coney Island boxer, in the main event of twelve rounds at the Rockaway Beach Arena. Although Genaro's title will not be at stake the bout has aroused an unusual amount of interest and is expected to draw a capacity crowd. Considered by many as the logical successor to the late Pancho Villa as the world's champion, Genaro is certain to be watched closely by local ring followers to see whether he has lost any of the ring craft which enabled him to defeat Villa twice before the latter gained the world's title.

Winding up his training yesterday with a light workout, Genaro declared himself fit for the battle tonight, and though it has not been necessary for him to work down to the flyweight limit of 112 pounds, he expects to scale close to that mark when he weighs in this afternoon. Levine, though his chances of winning are not regarded as very bright, nevertheless is expected to give the American champion a hard battle.

Another champion will be seen in action in the metropolitan area tonight when Louis (Kid) Kaplan, the world's featherweight titleholder, faces Billy Kennedy, New Orleans battler, in a twelve-round no-decision bout at the Bayonne Stadium in Bayonne, N. J. The fight will be Kaplan's last before he defends his title against Babe Herman, the California challenger, in Waterbury, Conn., on Aug. 27.

Charley Goodman, East New York bantamweight and conqueror of Carl Tremaine, will appear in the featured bout of twelve rounds against Spencer Gardner, Newport battler, at the Golden City Arena in Canarsie tonight.

Two veteran bantamweights, Jack Sharkey and Harry London, will top the card arranged for tonight at the Ocean View A. A. in Long Branch. They are scheduled to go ten rounds.

RACELAND RESULTS.

DIVODI KNOCKS OUT PLONA

Bay Ridge Boxer Ends Battle in the First Round—Lavin Gets Decision Over Weissburger.

Harry Galfund repeated the performance of knocking out Sergeant Sammy Baker of Mitchel Field when he stopped his man at the Dexter Park Stadium last night. Once before he sent the soldier down for the count, but last night he improved the job, scoring his knockout in one minute and two seconds of the second round after the bell had saved Baker in the first. On the occasion of their other meeting Galfund sent the fighting sergeant into dreamland in seven rounds.

As the round neared its close Galfund decided the bout had gone far enough and sent his right home, dropping Baker to the floor with a thud. The referee reached a count of eight and Baker showed no signs of rising, but the bell came to his rescue.

A minute after the second round got under way Galfund sent his right home once more and Baker once more found himself in a horizontal position and stayed there until he was counted out and carried to his corner.

Only about 4,000 persons saw the fight. Andy Divodi, the impressive looking lightweight from Bay Ridge, knocked out Walt Plona in the first round of the semi-final. Jim Lavin got the decision over Phil Weissburger after two minutes and forty seconds of the second round of the first bout scheduled for six rounds. Weissburger claimed a foul and refused to go on with the contest.

Sid Burt of New York earned a decision over Bernie Hufnagle of Brooklyn in the second six-rounder, the bout going the distance. Ralph Nischo and Lou Presto boxed four rounds to a draw in the opener. Ted Nelson outpointed Nick Puniti in a four-round contest.

LYON AND CAREY IN FINAL.

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP).—Fred S. Lyon, a 15-year-old golfing star of Pontiac, Ill., will meet Emerson Carey of Hutchinson, Kan., in the deciding contest of the Western junior championship tournament at the Big Oaks links tomorrow.

Lyon won his way to the final by defeating Jack Latimer of Chicago 4 and 3 in the semi-finals this afternoon, the two finishing their play in a driving rainstorm. Carey won his semi-final match by defeating John A. Bartlett of Hammond, Ind., 3 and 1.

Lyon's achievement in defeating Donald Carrick of Toronto, Canadian junior champion, in the third round today was a startling upset. Carrick had entered the tournament, which is open to players under 20 years of age, as the outstanding favorite.

In the other third round matches Latimer defeated Edward Cornish Jr., Little Rock, Ark., 2 and 1; Bartlett defeated Joe Palletti, Chicago, 3 and 2; and Carey defeated A. L. Fans, Milwaukee, 4 and 3.

RICORO CIGARS

GAINING AT THE RATE OF OVER 26 MILLION* A YEAR! WHY?

BECAUSE nature has given Ricoro tobacco a combination of qualities possessed by no other tobacco. It is mild, so mild cigarette smokers enjoy it, yet full of zest and character. It pleases, therefore, the widest variety of tastes.

Because the quality of Ricoro is constantly improving. The tobacco now being used is from the "best crop in 15 years"—an unusually rich and fragrant leaf.

Because you can get Ricoros at 2,850 conveniently located stores where they are always kept fresh.

Because, although Ricoros are low priced, (from 2 for 15c, to 15c straight, Little Ricoro cigars 10 for 20c), thousands of men are finding that greater tobacco satisfaction cannot be purchased at any price.

These are the reasons why the sales of Ricoro during the present fiscal year are gaining at the rate of over 71,000 cigars a day! They are the reasons we are confident that you too will enjoy Ricoro. So confident, that we guarantee Ricoro will suit your individual taste or your money back!—it's a wonderful smoke.

Thank you.

Saratoga Meet Opens Today—Sarazen Is Victor

AWAIT BUGLE TODAY AT SARATOGA TRACK

HANDICAP IS THE FEATURE

Mad Play, With Top Weight, Expected to Be Favorite—Flash Stakes Also on Card.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 30.—With splendid fields named overnight in all of the six events on the card, the annual meeting of the Saratoga Association will open tomorrow afternoon, and tonight there is a guarantee that this beautiful little city in the foothills of the Adirondacks will send to the race course a gathering that will tax the resources of the picturesque plant out on Union Avenue.

Saratoga is full of humans and equines. For the first time in years the leading hotels report capacity reservations, while there is not an unoccupied stable at the main race course, the Oklahoma training course or in the many private stables. In the face of this the Cavanagh Special will roll in during the small hours of the morning and not far behind will be the special horse cars bringing the first of the prospective contenders from Empire City.

For the inaugural day interest naturally centres in the Saratoga Handicap for three-year-olds and upward over the course of a mile and a quarter. The Rancocas Stable's Mad Play, winner of the Empire City Handicap, the Queens County, the Brooklyn Handicap, the Floral Park and the Long Beach Handicaps, naturally will be the choice of the turf followers.

Mad Play Ready for Test.

Mad Play, it is said, will be fit and ready for the stiff test against Lee Rosenberg's Sun Pal, the Greentree Stables's Cherry Pie, A. C. Bostwick's Spot Cash, the Salubria Stable's My Own, and William Martin's Valador.

Whether the son of Fair Play and Mad Cap can concede twenty-two pounds to Cherry Pie, holder of the record for a mile, is a question in the minds of many and the Greentree Stable's gelding surely will have a lot of support. My Own has been especially pointed for the Saratoga Handicap and is a most dangerous prospect under 115 pounds. No less can be said of Sun Pal, the Mount Vernon and Yonkers Handicaps winner, in under the feather of 102 pounds.

Vying in interest with the handicap is the historic Flash Stakes, which will have its fifty-first running. Twelve crack two-year-olds are named to go to the post for the dash of five and a half furlongs. Walter J. Salmon holds an extremely strong hand with his three stars, Flight of Time, Powhattan and Sport Royal, and the talent certainly will make the stable the favorite, with Robert L. Gerry's Sarmaticus, J. E. Griffiths' Canter, and Harry Payne Whitney's Fiddlesticks as the real contenders.

Jumpers to Be in Action.

It is likely that there will be a track tomorrow afternoon that is fast for this part of the country, where racing associations have finally concluded that soft tracks are more conducive to real sport than the adamant courses of the Middle West. There has been a surplus of rain here, but Superintendent Clare, who has resurfaced the course since last season, has it in first-class condition.

The jumpers will be in action tomorrow for the first time since the meeting at Aqueduct. The steeplechase course never was in better condition and horses have been schooling here for several weeks. The four fencing stakes of the session all filled well and a bit of added interest will be injected into these contests by the presence of several well regarded jumpers imported by the Laurel Park stud combination. Some of these will race for Lord Airlie and some will sport the silks of William A. Read. Other foreigners of merit will represent Walter J. Salmon, T. H. McCreery, Mrs. G. W. Loft and the Brookmeade Stable. Every box in the clubhouse and grand stand has been engaged for the month, the list of boxholders being announced by the Saratoga Association as follows:

3 RACES IN DAY WON BY BONNIE WATTS

Jacob Weinberg Pacer, Driven by Childs, Scores Triple in Grand Circuit Meeting.

AURORA, Ill., July 30 (AP).—Bonnie Watts, a brown horse by General Watts-Bonnie Hall, owned by Jacob Weinberg of Chicago and driven by Marvin Childs, won three races on today's grand circuit program at Exposition Park. Starting in the 2:17 pacing class he won the first event, a four-furlong dash, in 1:09 2-5; the second at a mile and one-eighth, in 2:27 2-5, and the third, a six-furlong dash, in 1:31 2-5. Mag Abbe, owned and driven by Tommy Murphy of Syracuse, N. Y., was second to the Chicago pacer in the last two races, but did not start in the four-furlong event.

Phil O'Neil, a bay gelding by The Philistine-Vera Marie, owned by James P. Berry of Hartford, Conn., and driven by W. Crozier, won both races in the 2:05 pacing class. In the first race, a six-furlong dash, the sulky of Peter Green, the favorite, became locked with that of Buddy Mack, and C. Valentine, driver of the latter, was thrown but was not injured. Peter Green was drawn after the accident, but Buddy Mack came back and took second money in the one and one-eighth mile race.

Both races in the three-year-old trotting class were won by Gordon Dillon, a bay gelding by Dillon Axworthy-Expressive Lou, owned by William B. Eckert of Reading.

HORSES ARE INJURED AT SARATOGA COURSE

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., July 30.—There have been an unusual number of casualties among the horses in training here for the month of racing which opens tomorrow, Gifford A. Cochran's famous three-year-old Flying Ebony, winner last May of the fifty-first Kentucky Derby, has broken down, and it is doubtful if the black son of The Finn and Princess Mary will be seen under silks again this season.

The Idle Hour Farm Stable's crack three-year-old Broadway Jones, winner of the Latonia Derby, has been placed on the shelf and is not likely to appear in the stakes in which he is engaged. The Parkview Stable yesterday lost its Hopeful Stake candidate through the death of Ben H., two-year-old son of Eternal and Almandine II.

Energy, in the same stable, is also very sick and will be unable to fill his engagements. Dunks Green, Walter J. Salmon's cross-country star, is another casualty.

18 PLAYERS FINED $5 EACH.

Two Virginia Umpires Also Penalized for Sunday Violation.

NORFOLK, Va., July 30 (AP).—Eighteen members of the Portsmouth and the Richmond baseball teams and two umpires of the Virginia League were found guilty of violating the Sunday Labor laws by a jury in the Circuit Court at Portsmouth today. They were fined $5 each. Counsel for the defense announced that an appeal would be taken.

SARAZEN CAPTURES FLEETWING 2D TIME

LUCKY PLAY IS SECOND

Only Scant Half-Length Behind With Worthmore Third—Contentment Wins, 20 to 1.

The letter S stands for Sande, Sarazen and Sure Thing in turf circles, but Sande had to do some fancy and courageous riding to bring Sarazen in first in the Fleetwing Handicap which featured the closing day's program at Empire City yesterday afternoon. At the end of the race of about six furlongs Sande was pushing the chestnut gelding to the limit and had a scant half a length advantage over Lucky Play, which was four lengths in front of Worthmore.

Sarazen was in front at the drop of the barrier. Sande took him back momentarily to let Noah lead and then, after Noah had been subdued, stepped out in front and set a giddy pace and fought off the stretch challenge of Lucky Play, which came out of nowhere to beat down Worthmore and almost overtake Sarazen. A few jumps more and Sarazen might not have earned brackets.

Sarazen, however, did win and showed all sorts of courage in doing it. The High Time-Rush Box gelding stepped the distance in 1:08 2-5, the same time he made in this event when he captured it last year. Sarazen, incidentally, is only the second horse to score two victories in the Fleetwing and the first to score twice in successive years. Magazine won the first running of the event in 1908 and repeated in 1910. Last year when Sarazen triumphed Johnny Mulben had the mount.

Sande Gives Great Ride.

Sande gave a great ride. At the post he was unseated, but landed on his feet. Coming around the dangerous backstretch turn the fleet Noah was a head in front of Sarazen. There was where Sande decided to settle the issue. He let Sarazen out and the gelding shot into the lead. Sarazen, Noah and Worthmore were in a bunch that could be covered with the proverbial blanket. Sande was on the rail, Noah was on the outside and Worthmore just behind. It was a tight hole but Sande never hesitated.

Noah was soon out of it and as the colt dropped out of the contention Lucky Play came up with his gallant bid and Worthmore was coming fast. Sande saved ground and then went to spurring when cane driving down the stretch with not much to spare and the margin growing less as the finish line drew nearer.

The crowd, and it was a sizable one for a getaway day, was much pleased with Sarazen's victory and with Sande's excellent ride. When horse and rider came back to the judges' stand there was prolonged applause and later, when Sande dismounted to weigh out, there was another burst of cheering for the little rider.

Contentment Scores at 20 to 1.

There was little else to cheer over during the running of the remainder of the card, though there is no doubt some got cheer and more material comfort out of the running of the fifth race when Contentment won easily at 20 to 1. This was an event for nonwinners at the meeting and all paid fairly good prices excepting Humorette, which was the even money favorite and finished third. On the whole the talent suffered little.

Cloudbank, Paying 10 to 1, Wins £1,000 Goodwood Cup

GOODWOOD PARK, England, July 30 (AP).—James White's Cloudbank won the Goodwood Cup race for 1,000 pounds sterling run here today. Cloudbank is by Nimbus out of Berengere. The Aga Khan's Caprier was second and Sir Abe Bailey's Son of Spring third. Six ran. Cloudbank won by three-quarters of a length, and half a length separated Caprier and Son of Spring. The betting was Cloudbank 10 to 1 against, Caprier 20 to 1 against and Son of Spring 8 to 1 against.

WORLD MARK SET BY PETER MALTBEY

Makes Trotting Record for Colts Over Half-Mile Track in Orange County Circuit.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 30.—A new world's trotting record for colts on a half-mile track was established in the Orange County circuit racing here this afternoon when Peter Maltbey, Dickerson driving, traveled the distance in 2:13¼ to win the second heat of the two-year-old trot, also taking the event in straight heats.

Dickerson then drove Guy Ozark to a straight heat triumph in the three-year-old trot. Both of the colts are from the Arden Homestead Stables, owned by the Harrimans at Goshen.

Peter Buskirk, driven by Pitman, annexed the 2:12 trot and McGrath piloted his counterpart home first in the 2:15 pace. Both of these victories also were in straight heats.

Six of the seven horses entered in the 2:05 pace, tomorrow's closing day feature, have records of better than 2:05, and will try to lower the track mark, the successful driver to receive an added $500.

10 AMERICAN CREWS QUALIFY IN CANADA

WRIGHT'S PUPILS VICTORS

Coaching Against Dominion for First Time, His Oarsmen Are in Front in Three Events.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., July 30.—Oarsmen from Philadelphia and Buffalo played a prominent part in the start of the forty-third annual Canadian Royal Henley regatta here today. Philadelphia qualified six crews, and Buffalo, four. The Don Rowing Club of Toronto led the Canadians with six and the Argonauts, also of Toronto, got two crews in. Lachine Rowing Club of Montreal and Niagara District (St. Catherine's) each qualified one crew.

Joe Wright's Penn A. C. led the Philadelphia delegation with three, Malta Boat Club came next with two and the Bachelor Barge Club got one.

More than 5,000 persons saw the start of the three-day regatta. The weather was ideal and the course perfect. Hardly a ripple was seen on the water.

Wright, coaching crews against Canada for the first time in his long career, saw his senior double, composed of Sam Moorehead and J. J. McNicholas, win from the Bachelor Barge Club and Undine Barge Club in the second heat by two and a half lengths.

The summaries:

SHADE LEAVES FOR COAST.

Welterweight Contender Will Engage in Bouts at San Francisco.

Dave Shade, recognized as the foremost challenger for the welterweight title, left for San Francisco yesterday to engage in one or possibly two fights before meeting Mickey Walker in the proposed bout for the world's championship. Shade was accompanied by two of his stablemates, Lou Paluso, the Salt Lake City lightweight, and Tommy (Kid) Murphy, junior lightweight of Trenton. Leo P. Flynn, manager of the three fighters, remained behind to attend the State Athletic Commission's meeting next Tuesday, when Walker is scheduled to appear before the board and state definitely when and where he intends defending his title against Shade.

Lewis Outpoints Bienfeld.

Mickey Lewis of West New York decisively outpointed Sammy Bienfeld of New York in the star ten-round bout at West New York last night, the Associated Press says. In the semi-final, Harold Mays of Bayonne knocked out Bert Littlejohn, negro, of Harlem in the ninth round.

Three Golfers Tie for Medal.

UTICA, N. Y., July 30 (AP).—A record field of 190 golfers teed off today in the qualifying round of the seventeenth annual tournament of the Yahnundasis Golf Club. At the conclusion of play three players, Don Hyland of Utica and Union College, R. B. E. McKeon, Oneonta, and R. J. McAuliffe, Buffalo, were tied for medalist honors with scores of 78. Diegel Tops Canadian Field

DIEGEL'S 69 LEADS IN CANADIAN OPEN

BRADY TURNS IN A 72

Frank Sprogell Has Same Score—C. H. Perkins, a Dominion Star, Has a 73.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Canada, July 30.—With a record round of 69, Leo Diegel, professional at the Glen Oaks Club in the metropolitan golf district, served notice today on the field in the Canadian open championship that if he sold his title at all it was going to be at a good stiff price.

The 69 is a rather unusual record, for Andrew Kay, the Lambton Golf and Country Club professional, has equaled it over the same course, but not when the tees were stretched as far back as they were for the first eighteen holes of the 72-hole championship test today. When Kay accomplished the feat the course measured only 6,430 yards, but today, with the tees pushed back to their utmost limits, the layout was a good 6,800 yards long.

As a result of his sensational round, Diegel, who gained the Canadian title last year at Montreal by nosing out Gene Sarazen by one stroke and Willie MacFarlane by two, was tonight basking in the shade of a two-stroke advantage over the field of 150 or more golfers. The margin, while not large, was coming for to lead today's field was to add not only the best of the Dominion players, but also several of the leading pros from the States who are here seeking his title.

Hagen Is Close Behind.

Among the latter were Walter Hagen, the P. G. A. champion, and MacFarlane, the United States open champion, to say nothing of such masters of the pastime as M. J. Brady of Winged Foot, former metropolitan champion; Cyril Walker of Englewood, former American open champion; Joe Kirkwood, Bob Macdonald, Al Waltrous and a number of others of consequence.

The end of the first eighteen holes found Hagen right up in the thick of the fight with a 71, which was also made by Kay, a little Scottish professional, who presides over the practice tees of the Lambton Club. Brady turned a 72, which was tied by Frank Sprogell of Saginaw, Mich. A stroke behind them are C. H. Perkins of Brantford, one of the best of the Dominion players, and a young cyclist, Alf Pilon, from Port Arthur, up in the Thunder Bay region. Pilon, a French Canadian, had the best homecoming card that was turned in today, a 73, two strokes under par for the nine.

Macfarlane, after negotiating the first nine holes in even par, slipped a few cogs here and there on the incoming side and finished with a 75, which placed him in a tie with four others.

Diegel was one of the first of the United States stars to get away. Previous to teeing off, he complained of a muscular trouble in his right shoulder, saying that it hindered his swing, particularly with his wooden clubs. As a matter of fact the only fault to be found with his round was his driving and it was his waywardness off the last tee that cost him his chance for a 68.

Hooks a Shot at End.

Here he hooked his spoon shot against the tent near the scoreboard and had his ball not hit the canvass there is no telling where it might have ended its mad career. As it was, he managed to get a 4, losing only a stroke to par. He began with a birdie at the first hole. He took a 5 at the third hole, overplaying the green with his second and then missing a four-footer. He dropped a five-yard putt in the fifth to compensate for the loss. From there to the ninth he went along with pars.

On the ninth he nearly holed a mashie niblick shot for a 2, laying his ball stone dead for an easy 3, which put him out in 32, two under par.

He was on the tenth green with a drive and an iron for a birdie 4 and almost holed another mashie niblick shot on the eleventh. By pushing his iron shot off the line, he lost a stroke to par at the thirteenth, but ran down another long putt for a birdie 3 on the fourteenth. Then he began wasting shots. He topped his second going to the fifteenth, but got his 5, hooked his second shot to the seventeenth and missed a five-foot putt on the seventeenth.

Kathea Captures George Cup; Nayada Second, Rogue Third

TORONTO, Ont., July 30 (AP).—The George Cup, emblematic of the Class R international yacht racing championship, went to the United States today when the Kathea of Watertown, N. Y., won her third straight race in as many days, leading the Nayada, Canadian cup defender, and Rogue of Rochester, N. Y., to the finish line.

The times for today's race, last of the series and sailed twice around a nine-mile triangular course, follow: Kathea, 2:59:55; Nayada, 3:01:35; Rogue, 3:05:05.

Under the scoring system for the series the Kathea's winning total was nine points. The Rogue, which finished second in the previous two races, also took second place in the final scoring with five points. Nayada, third twice and second today, had four points.

ROCKAWAY WINNER IN WESTBURY POLO

Special to The New York Times.

WESTBURY, L. I., July 30.—The Rockaway Hunting Club polo team defeated the Meadow Brook Foxhunters here today 9 to 8 and won the final of the Meadow Brook division in the Eastern Circuit. Due to the number of teams competing in the Eastern Circuit the play was divided into three sections, with the winner of the Meadow Brook division generally looked forward to as the team which will go to Philadelphia in September to meet the victors in the other divisions, because the combinations engaged at Meadow Brook were considered stronger than the teams playing elsewhere.

The victory today came as a surprise, as J. Watson Webb's Foxhunters were held the hot favorites. The triumph of Rockaway came in a thrilling eighth chukker battle, which saw the winning goal scored from the mallet of W. B. Eaton, and the spectators rushed out on the field to congratulate the Hunting Club riders for their sensational play in upsetting the team led by the famous internationalist.

When Eaton put the ball between the posts after a long pass from Cowden, Webb and Eastman drove furiously at the Rockaway defense in a desperate effort to tie the score. W. T. F. Hazard at back and Cowden at No. 2 were impenetrable and turned away the slashing shots from the Foxhunter mallets. On two occasions, when it looked as if the ball would go through Hazard's hard riding and keen stroking saved the goal.

Five goals in all were scored by the Rockaway Hunting Club team, which together with their handicap of four goals gave them the victory. Eaton in addition to scoring the winning tally clicked off three other goals, the other failing to F. F. Alexandre at No. 1. Alexandre played a sensational game despite his lame hand and refused to give up even when the play became hottest.

The line-up:

ROCKAWAY (9).	FOXHUNTERS (8).
No. 1—F. F. Alexandre.	No. 1—T. Le Boutillier 2d.
No. 2—W. B. Eaton.	No. 2—J. W. Webb.
No. 3—J. C. Cowden.	No. 3—T. C. Eastman.

Referee—R. S. Allisson.

QUITTNER IS LOW AT SHAWNEE WITH 76

Only Four Out of 100 Amateurs in Qualifying Round of Annual Tournament Break 80.

Special to The New York Times.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., July 30.—Only four out of a field of more than a hundred succeeded in breaking 80 in the qualifying round of the annual tournament at the Shawnee Country Club for the Buckwood trophy today. E. F. Quittner of Old York Road surprised the old guard by going out in 40 and back in 36 for a 76, to win the medal.

MISS COLLETT HELD TO ONE-UP VICTORY

IS 2 DOWN AT THE 16TH

Then Maine Girl Takes 17th and Halves 18th at New London—Mrs. Sterrett Other Finalist.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 30.—The greatest thrill of the seventh annual women's invitation golf tournament for the Griswold Trophy came today in the semi-final match in which Miss Glenna Collett defeated Miss Helen Payson of Portland, Me., by one up. Miss Payson has been playing serious golf for less than sixteen months and never before played against such a stellar performer as Miss Collett. She amazed the big gallery by her coolness and consistently fine golf and seemed to get stronger the further along she progressed. At the sixteenth hole Miss Collett was 2 up, but Miss Payson won the seventeenth with a birdie 3 and halved the eighteenth with a par 4.

Mrs. H. D. Sterrett, the Hutchinson (Kan.) star, won the other semi-final, defeating Mrs. J. J. Thomson, Siwanoy, 7 and 5.

Miss Collett won the first hole in brilliant fashion, getting on the green in 2 and sinking a putt for a birdie 3, but halved the second with 5 after getting on in 3. Miss Payson outdrove her opponent to the third hole and then sent a fine brassie to the edge of the green, where she missed a good putt. Miss Collett was on in 3, after dubbing an iron shot and halved the hole with 5.

Effected a Fine Recovery.

On the fourth, which is only 208 yards long, Miss Collett made four poor shots, losing the hole 5 to 4. She took the lead at the next hole, which she won 5 to 6 by a beautiful drive and mashie, which got her almost to the green, while Miss Payson went into a trap on her second, but effected a fine recovery.

Miss Payson evened the match again at the next hole. Miss Collett dubbed an iron into a trap, got out with a niblick, but missed her putt. Miss Payson holing a fine long putt in 3. They were both on in 3 at the seventh hole, Miss Payson reaching the green after a fine shot from the rough. The hole was halved in 5's, each rimming the cup. At the eighth both made fine drives and approaches and both missed two putts, halving the hole in 6.

Miss Collett was one up at the turn, when, after shooting through a tree on her second, she got a good lie on the green in 3. Miss Payson missed two putts and conceded the hole, 4 to 6.

Miss Payson won the tenth, 4 to 6, getting on near the pin in 3 after Miss Collett had been trapped, and the match was even again. The eleventh was halved in par 3 and the twelfth was also a par affair, being halved in 5 after Miss Payson had sank a long putt.

The thirteenth was halved and the fourteenth was Miss Collett's, 4 to 5. Miss Collett increased her lead at the fifteenth, winning the hole 4 to 5. She started by driving into a trap in front of the hole, but recovered onto the green and putted to the edge of the cup. Miss Payson drove across the green into a trap and in getting out went into the rough. She made a splendid recovery, but missed her putt.

Miss Collett in a Trap.

On the sixteenth, with 2 up and 2 to go, Miss Collett sliced into a trap, made a fine recovery onto the green, but missed her putt by inches. Miss Payson made a good drive, reached the edge of the green in 2, her approach landing her close to the pin, where she sank her putt for a par 4, the hole being halved. On the seventeenth each made a fine drive. Miss Collett lay in the rough to the left of the green. Miss Payson got on the green in 2 and holed a long putt, winning the hole, 3 to 4.

It was now up to Miss Payson to win the next hole, and she started right after it with a beautiful, long drive, but Miss Collett drove a little further, going fully 215 yards. Miss Payson was on the green with a mashie pitch, Miss Collett following her with a beautiful approach with a mashie niblick. Both missed putts for birdie 3's and halved with a par 4, Miss Collett thereby winning the match.

The cards:

SURTAXES AND INCOME TAXES.

Under-Secretary of the Treasury WINSTON makes an important statement. It is the opinion of the Treasury that "a maximum normal and surtax combined of 25 per cent." will be sufficient from a revenue point of view. The Treasury fixes 20 per cent. as the highest surtax rate that should be enacted. That is one-half the prevailing rate, which has had such unfortunate results. Senator UNDERWOOD would be content with 13. A few "wild men" want even the present preposterous rate increased. There will be a great shindy about the matter in the Senate, but there seems good reason to hope that the maximum surtax will be reduced considerably, if not to the fullest desirable effect. For the abolition of the Federal inheritance tax, a tax on capital which violates the proper and necessary distinction between State and Federal sources of revenue, there seems to be little ospect. A reduction is probably the best to be looked for.

Mr. WINSTON neatly shows the illogicality and the economic unsoundness of the graduated or "sliding-scale" income tax on corporations glibly proposed by some of the Washington ragers against "wealth." It might be thought improper for the Treasury to give any opinion about the proposed exemption of incomes of less than $5,000 a year; and, in fact, Mr. WINSTON was answering only specific questions asked him. That is a scheme naturally dear to politicians. They see so many "votes in it"—say 6,000,000. Senator GERRY, the millionaire friend of the "poor man," dotes on it. Senator REED, Representative OLDFIELD, and we don't know how many more, exult in it. Almost every day some Washington correspondent, knowing the ways of Congressmen, tells us that Congress will consent to it. As compared with European countries, even before the war, our exemptions are already large. It is admitted that in theory every citizen should contribute to the expense of the Government. If "the limit of subsistence" is higher here than elsewhere and a pack of petty taxes doesn't pay the bother of collecting them, hasn't the United States done quite enough in the direction of exempting the "poor man" from taxation?

Senator COUZENS blandly says that there are 30,000,000 exempts already. What harm to add 6,000,000 more? This was on the basis of 1922. These 6,000,000 with incomes of $5,000 or less were about nine-tenths of all the income-tax payers. Their returns yielded only about $100,000,000, say one-thirtieth of the total return. Too much work for the Income Tax Bureau for too small a result! Arguments of this sort lead inevitably to larger and larger exemptions and the creation of a small and specially disfavored class. The lesser income-tax payers got a fat reduction last year. To set capital flowing into channels from which it is now largely debarred is the prime work of tax reduction. Thus you assure the small business, professional or salaried man his income or a larger one. Reduction in rates, not the creation of a new and monstrous class of exemptions, should be the policy.

Professor SELIGMAN wrote ten years ago:

> An exemption of one or two thousand dollars ought to be adequate. If that, however, prove unsatisfactory, we might at least introduce the English system of abatement in order to permit a gradually diminishing reduction of tax between the limit of absolute exemption and the point of normal charge. If a thousand dollars, for instance, were completely exempt from taxation, progressively diminishing abatement might be made for each successive five hundred or one thousand dollars, until the normal rate might begin with four or five thousand dollars. The exact figures, indeed, are arbitrary, but the principle is clear. Let there be a comparatively low limit of complete exemption, supplemented by a series of abatements reaching to a comparatively high maximum.

PRESIDENTS AND SECRETARIES OF STATE.

The death of a public man may extinguish envy, but it usually lets loose a flood of gossip. This is often accompanied by the solemn disclosures of "inside information." Some episode which has been in doubt or controversy is supposed to be cleared up by post-mortem revelations of confidential talks or letters. The customary thing has happened in the case of Mr. BRYAN, and we have already had several new versions of the season why he resigned from President WILSON'S Cabinet in 1915. At the time he made public his defense of his course, about which there was really very little mystery, except why he should balk at the second Lusitania note after he had signed and sent the first one. But the new explanation now offered is that the President recalled and altered a dispatch of the Secretary of State to the Austrian Government, and that thereupon Mr. BRYAN felt that his personal dignity did not permit him to remain in the Cabinet.

A little comparison of names and dates makes the story highly improbable. But even if it were true that Mr. WILSON took liberties with a dispatch written by Mr. BRYAN, the latter thereby suffered no grievous or unprecedented affront. He must have remembered what LINCOLN, on occasion, used to do to Secretary SEWARD'S diplomatic notes. The critical one which he wrote to England was stricken through in many places by the President's pen, and over against one paragraph LINCOLN wrote, "Leave all this out." The truth is that the President of the United States is entitled to act, in emergencies, as his own Secretary of State. The responsibility for deciding questions of acute importance in the conduct of foreign affairs rests with him and it is his duty, if a difference of opinion arises with his Secretary of State, to enforce his own. Of course, there are considerate ways of doing this and also methods which might seem harsh and even brutal.

It is certain that President WILSON took great pains especially at the beginning to show every deference to Mr. BRYAN. He was making effective use of that gentleman in securing the Federal Reserve and other legislation, and naturally desired to keep him in good temper. Yet the President did not fail to assert his right to control the diplomacy of his Administration. He himself, as was well known at the time, drafted one very important communication to the Japanese Government, which Mr. WILSON referred to without a smile as "the note which Mr. BRYAN graciously allowed me to write."

ANOTHER NAVAL CONFERENCE.

"The menace is that the fleet is wearing out," was the answer of WINSTON CHURCHILL, Chancellor of the Exchequer, in the debate on naval appropriations in the House of Commons to LLOYD GEORGE'S taunting question, "Where is the threat to British security?" The Government had proposed to build seven cruisers in the next two years, and at the end of that period three cruisers every year—in addition, nine destroyers and six submarines annually, beginning in 1926. Some of the cruisers will be of less than 10,000 tons displacement, the maximum allowed by the Washington Naval Treaty. When Mr. CHURCHILL said that the fleet was wearing out he had in mind auxiliaries, and what he meant was that many of the cruisers on the navy list are obsolescent; also that Great Britain was falling behind in destroyers and submarines. When other nations put cruisers in commission that are improvements as to speed and fighting qualities over British ships, the Admiralty declares that most of its cruisers are well enough for service in the Channel and the North Sea, but for ocean operations they are behind the times. Great Britain does not like to see Japan and the United States outbuilding her in any type. Mr. CHURCHILL expressed the professional view, although his present job is that of reducing taxation. The Engineer, a technical authority, said in a recent issue:

> Our present-day fleet, though sufficiently imposing on paper, contains a large proportion of second-rate vessels, deficient in speed, armament and other essential qualities. Particularly is this the case with our cruisers, of which no more than a dozen compare at all favorably with representative ships under foreign flags.
> Great Britain possesses 195 destroyers, counting every ship of that type that can stand up. Half of them were built during the war and saw such hard service that they are included in the obsolescent class. "Actually, therefore," says The Engineer, "we have only about 100 destroyers that are thoroughly efficient." Today the British Navy has nothing so modern as the new French flotilla leaders of 2,360 tons, armed with five 5.1-inch guns and having a speed of 35.5 knots. Twenty-one are under construction or projected. New Japanese designs call for destroyers of 3,000 tons, which will be very fast and carry 5.5-inch guns. "Finally," says this authority, "we have fewer submarines than either the United States or Japan." Great Britain, with an immense overseas trade to guard and colonies all over the world, will not submit to being outspeeded and outgunned by any other sea Power. The Japanese Furutaka class of cruisers has worried the Admiralty. Although their displacement is only 7,100 tons, they mount six 8-inch guns, "so disposed as to permit of a full discharge on either beam and a bow fire of four guns." The Furutakas have a speed of thirty-three knots. As fighting ships they are rated as superior to the American Omahas, which carry 6-inch guns. The same thing can be said of the British E class, a late design.

Mr. CHURCHILL has found himself in the awkward position of approving, as a former Sea Lord, of the Admiralty's determination to replace its obsolescent ships, and as Chancellor of the Exchequer of having to urge economy in the interests of the overburdened taxpayer. Naturally the Opposition has taken advantage of the embarrassment of the Government. It has been a great opportunity, too, for the friends of limitation of armaments. They have made the most of it. "Unless something is done," said Commander KENWORTHY in the running debate, "we are in for a race in cruiser competition." That is a judgment that can hardly be challenged. Nothing can check the rivalry in building but the calling of a second naval conference. But could one be held without the laying down of conditions by this Power or that in a way to make the success of such a conference doubtful?

HOW LONG MUST WE WAIT?

The word from White Court as to the World Court is cheering, not so much in the assurance given by a "Republican Senate leader" that the Senate will adopt the protocol making possible the adhesion of the United States to the Court, as because the President is giving this matter more attention than any other international problem, and is actively seeking support for his policy. He must know that he has the great weight of public opinion behind him in this cause, and that if he vigorously presses it he must ultimately win.

The poll is said to show a narrow majority of the Senate, but even though the President, the House of Representatives, the people generally—not to mention the rest of the nations of the earth with the exception of Russia, Mexico and a few minor nations—are wishing the United States to join the Court; even though Administration after Administration and political platform after political platform have declared in favor of it; even though all has been done that language can do by way of express reservation to prevent the association of the World Court with the League of Nations; even though every consideration of international comity as well as of concern for the peace of mankind urges it, and even though the majority of the Senators are thought to be in sympathy with the proposed adherence, it is feared that the skilled parliamentary tactics of a minority of the Senate may prevent a vote.

It is hoped that Senator PEPPER, who is to be a week-end visitor at Swampscott, will become a White Court convert to the President's plan for seeking entrance to the World Court. The Senator from Pennsylvania has already approved the ideal and has halted only at the way of reaching it. Though his preferred way is, after all, the same way but with another name, the separate action on the part of all the member nations would be required. Ultimately the United States will undoubtedly come into the Court, so largely of its own designing. The President, the people, the rest of the nations may well ask: "Why not now?"

FEROCIOUS CRIME.

Wednesday's meeting called to urge the formation of a National Crime Commission had its purposes at once underscored by the news from Chicago of events happening almost at the same time. Judge GARY, Governor SMITH and others present were told that criminal offenses are now multiplying in this country in a way "terrifying beyond all expression." This characterization is weak for the Chicago outrage. The audacity combined with the ferocity of the bandits who undertook to rob a great hotel in broad daylight furnishes one evidence more of the coming to light of a new criminal mentality, as it may be called. Burglars and robbers used to be prepared to kill their victims only as a last resort. Now they often do not hesitate to commit murder as the very first step in effecting their designs. We have previously had specimens of this brutality and ruthlessness. If the practice should spread, as there is obvious danger that it may, it is no exaggeration to say that we stand in the presence of crime not only novel but terrifying.

Complete protection of society against such desperate men there seems no way of providing. Criminals of this type approach the impulses and actions of insane persons. Against the incalculable work of deranged minds it is manifestly impossible to take fully preventive measures. Their deeds are unforeseeable because they are so incredible. We do not say that the Chicago bandits were irresponsible degenerates. Yet in their callous disregard of the certainty that they could not carry out their criminal plan, that they were bound in the nature of the case to be either killed or captured themselves, and also in their reckless indifference to the taking of human life involved in their project, they placed themselves in the class of individuals against whom the community cannot entirely safeguard itself. In such extreme instances the pressing question is not one of protection but prevention.

It is in the hope of striking at the causes of crime, apparently, that the proposed National Crime Commission would organize its efforts. Some of these might be to get more drastic laws against crimes of peculiar atrocity. There might be another endeavor to render the processes of criminal prosecution more swift and sure. Too great dependence cannot be placed upon the deterrent effect of severe punishment. The Chicago bandits knew, or must have known, if they were sober and in their right mind, that they were going to their own death in the Drake Hotel. The State could only take their lives if caught in the act, and they coolly took their lives in their own hands.

What can be done to head off such ferocious crime? Very little, perhaps, as affects the unfeeling and desperate criminals of this kind. But it may be possible to prevent the breeding of more of their type. Their heredity and environment must be studied with scientific detachment and impartiality. If these awful crimes are a way of penalizing modern society for its own sins, they may have the effect of awakening a new sense of responsibility and of impelling organizations like the National Crime Commission to find out and proclaim the right means of checking crime at its source and of partly preventing where it cannot wholly protect.

IN CENTENNIAL GROVE.

If anything could add to our admiration for "rock-ribbed Essex," it would be the fact that "more than 1,000 Republican leaders" of it went to the "old-time political outing in Centennial Grove" on Wednesday. The correspondent of The Boston Herald counted them; and doubtless a few hundred more are away on their vacations. No wonder the President's smile was "more expansive than any he has worn since he came North." He made no speech, according to his rule; but he listened to the Poet-Governor FULLER at his lyric best; heard him assert that "CALVIN COOLIDGE "had caught the imagination of the "American people to a greater extent "than any man since ABRAHAM "LINCOLN." The record adds that the crowd rose and "cheered this statement, and a modest blush seemed "to steal over the President's face." But what the crowd was most interested in was the Poet's catalogue of famous Essexites. "TONY" LUFKIN, sometime private secretary to Senator LODGE, is Collector of the Port of Boston. His term ended on July 1. The Poet reached "TONY" on the roll-call of the great. He sang the able Representative in Congress, the efficient Collector. Wild cheers from the Thousand; the President himself "gives" "TONY" a hand.

Harmony could be heard all over Massachusetts. The old feud is settled. Let all the good unite to elect Senator BUTLER in 1926, the "Commanding "General of the Republican army "which made our President's victory "possible." So the Poet, who confounded the malignant by declaring that Mr. BUTLER must be elected to show the continuing confidence of Massachusetts in Mr. COOLIDGE. They had spread the story that Mr. FULLER would go into the primaries himself. The Commanding General emitted a "slogan": "To make 1924 effective, we must win in 1926." Well, he must—if he can. He made his old speech on party organization, responsibility, loyalty. He was virtuous against the "slackers." Unfortunately, none of these regrettable persons are among the friends of DAVID I. WALSH. Senator DENEEN bathed the Bay State Republican glories in molasses. Rather comical was his use of a quotation from the works of Mr. COOLIDGE: "The Republican Party "has faith in Massachusetts, and is "renewing its strength through the "leadership and services of her distinguished sons."

Mr. COOLIDGE is not one of those "sons." Mr. BUTLER is. The question in 1926 will be whether Massachusetts has faith in him as a renewer of Republican strength. But why fling stones at the halcyons? What heart will not be touched by the symbolism of electing Mr. LODGE'S grandson an honorary member of the Essex Club, a boon conferred before only on MCKINLEY, ROOSEVELT, TAFT, COOLIDGE?, And BEVERIDGE of Indiana and "DAVE" MULVANE of Kansas and WELLINGTON WELLS of Massachusetts were "among those present."

GOVERNMENT AT BAY.

Except as the English coal crisis is more immediately threatening to the nation, it is identical with our own. Both exist by virtue of a break-down in the powers of government. In his speech in the unemployment debate the Prime Minister admitted this. There could be no opening for his efforts as statesman, Mr. BALDWIN said, unless he first succeeded in his persuasions as apostle of industrial peace. The remedy "must begin at the bottom and work to the top." Lower the price of coal and the price of manufactures may be proportionally lowered, to the benefit of consumers and exporters. Especially the export of coal will be facilitated. In the resulting economic stabilization unemployment will be lessened. A firm foundation will be laid for the wages and hours which the miners now insist upon. No group within the nation can long prosper at the expense of the nation as a whole. Yet the leaders of the miners stand firm for the seven-hour day and the wage scale that have closed so many mines, dangerously increased unemployment and bereft the country of so many markets.

The saying has a double edge, that government "must begin at the bottom and work to the top." When applied to a system under which all elements of the nation are adequately represented it is truth itself. But then the Government has powers equal to its responsibilities. No Prime Minister with a majority of the nation behind him is obliged to step outside his office, acknowledging that he is impotent except as he makes good by persuasion. No President who is backed by the major will of the people feels constrained to sit by while a civil strife is waging. The forces of self-government are arrested automatically at the seat of strife. Here as in England wage earners feel that the political system gives them inadequate representation. They conduct their affairs under leaders whose power is based solely on the right to strike. In times of peace these leaders intelligently grasp the argument which Mr. BALDWIN presented. With wages where they are, the only way of betterment lies through increased efficiency, cooperative development of the industry. But their followers see less clearly. When there is question of concessions, of retrenchment, the leaders feel that their prestige depends upon a firm front, the unflinching threat of a strike. A force exists within the State which is independent of it, and which is periodically driven by the logic of circumstance to rise in virtual rebellion.

The situation is identical, mutatis mutandis, with that which confronted the Constitutional fathers. Could thirteen States be brought to abate their sovereignty to the extent of forming a united nation? There were those who saw no hope beyond such persuasion as Mr. BALDWIN is attempting and which Mr. COOLIDGE holds as his only reserve. But "influence is not government." So we got the Constitution. Recurrent coal strikes will not be without profit if they lead us to consider duly how "government" may be extended to basic industries.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Georgia Shows Its Sense.

Mr. BRYAN hardly can have spoken for so much of the South in his antagonism to evolution as he and others have supposed. That is indicated by the fact that the lower house of the Georgia Legislature, on Wednesday, defeated after little and very mild discussion a bill intended to do exactly what the much-discussed Tennessee law has done—make it illegal, that is, to teach in any State-aided school anything as to the origin of man which is incompatible with the first chapter of Genesis, literally interpreted.

And yet Georgia, except in a few of its largest towns, is a typically Southern State, and the majority of its inhabitants probably view the Bible exactly as do those of Tennessee.

The explanation of the different action on an anti-evolution bill must be in the lessons which the Dayton trial has taught in the South as well as elsewhere. One of them is that even in Tennessee the bitterly fanatical Fundamentalists are far less numerous than the politicians of the State had supposed, and that most of the people there can listen with interest and quite calmly to expositions of evolutionary doctrines, and can treat the expositors of those doctrines with patience and courtesy.

It well may have occurred to the Georgia legislators that there was more to lose than to gain by putting on the statute book a law which they, like the Tennessee legislators, knew to be ridiculous and worse. They did not care, merely for the sake of making themselves solid with what they suspected to be an uninfluential minority, to arouse the laughter of the world or to invite the charge of astonishing ignorance. That is what the legislators and Governor of Tennessee did for their State, through what they now must see was a mistaken notion as to the popular demand.

Traveling Under Difficulties.

It is at this season of the year that almost everybody wants to do more or less railway traveling, and if the journey is to be at all long almost everybody wants to do it in such comfort as the cars better than "common" can provide. Americans are not given to small economies, and the result is that great numbers of people here will pay for a "chair" for a day trip and for a "berth" for one made in the night. And it is at just this time when the increased, but not unexpected, demand for accommodations is most urgent that the facilities provided by the railways, or by most of them, are proving inadequate.

On practically all lines reservations must be made days and even weeks or a month ahead, if they are to be obtained, and this is especially apt to be the case if the traveling is to be done at either the beginning or the termination of what we have come to call the "week-end."

It hardly is to be expected, of course, that the railway companies should be prepared to meet perfectly a demand so much larger than the one that exists during the greater part of the year, but it does seem as if they might do a little better than they do. Journeys usually, or at any rate often, are made under something of compulsion—a compulsion the coming of which frequently cannot be known exactly many days in advance, and it has come to be felt to be a hardship to ride for many hours in midsummer weather in such cars as content the commuters in their brief pilgrimages between town and country.

The sometime luxury has gained the status at least of a near-necessary, and those who are willing and able to pay for it think that it should be made available by the eminent personages who are in the passenger transportation business.

Well-Laid Plans Repudiated.

"Saving face" is something not done exclusively by Chinese. A specimen of it as fine as ever was seen in the Far East is to be observed in Washington just now, where various eminent representatives of the Ku Klux Klan are issuing in quick succession solemn proclamations to the effect that they never planned to hold a great demonstration of their power at the national capital, early next month—that all they ever intended was a little gathering of near-by members of the organization.

That these statements are widely different from those made again and again, not long ago, by these same officials, they seem to think nobody will notice.

There can be but one true explanation of the change. In the beginning there was whispered about the Klan expectation that President COOLIDGE would come down from Swampscott to review a parade of Klansmen numbering anywhere from 100,000 to 200,000. They thought that nobody with a reasonable appreciation of votes would dare refuse. Probably no formal invitation to the President ever was given, but the managers of the intended show of strength received no encouragement for their indirect advances, and possibly somebody in or out of their inner circles warned them that even the politicians who have been most afraid of the Klan in the past have ceased to fear it now.

So the announced 150,000 has dwindled to 5,000, and even that is a more than dubious prophecy. As a matter of fact, the Ku Klux Klan is practically dead. Its ghost lingers in the more benighted parts of a few States, but the once rich mine of initiation fees and regalia costs is about played out, and of real political influence the Klan has next to none at all. It has become as laughable as a thoroughly vicious thing can be. There are villages, to be sure, where it still can excite hostility between neighbors who used to dwell together in amity, it can do a little mild persecuting along religious lines, but no longer is it anywhere the terror that walks at midnight—in the imaginations of the timid and ignorant.

A Notable Master of Machines.

One whose daily walk to his office takes him past a place where a small army of workmen are digging through solid rock an enormous and deep cavity in preparation for the building of another great skyscraper finds it hard to get by the place, so fascinated is he by the mingled power and delicacy shown by the three or four big steam shovels at work there. He had not realized what wonderful machines they were, or what skill was required for their manipulation in the performance of their diversified tasks.

One man governs the many motions of each, and they are strangely docile monsters. So impressive was the art he exhibited that curiosity prompted inquiries as to the reward he received for his work. It was learned that his wage for a forty-four-hour week was $71.50, with double pay for overtime.

To one to whom that work seemed beyond the doing of any except long-trained specialists, the amount surprised by being small. But how many in the multitude holding jobs called "white-collared" get anything like as much—or ever will, for that matter? And how vastly more interesting—how vastly worthier of hand and brain than standing behind a counter, subject to the capricious favor of customers who often do not know what they want—is the activity of such a man as he! To be sure, he stands at his levers in blue overalls, and strident noises beat upon him all day long, but no man looks at him without envying him his ability and the exercise of it.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an officer of a ship trading regularly to this port I should like to mention that we receive very strict instructions from the Harbor Board, which imposes severe penalties for any dumping of refuse in the harbor. These instructions we endeavor to carry out, but we have no means of getting rid of our daily refuse, as the galley fire will not consume one-quarter of it. The consequence is that we have rubbish lying about our decks for weeks, which is not only unhealthy for our crew but must also help to pollute the atmosphere.

My suggestion is that a refuse boat or barge be sent out to any ship in the harbor hoisting a flag for that purpose and the refuse taken away. This little convenience would be a boon to shipmasters and officers.

THE MARSH FAIRIES.

I watch for the smoke
Of the far distant train
Through the dew on the glass
Of the small cottage pane,
Wet as the drops
Of a down-pouring rain.

Over the way
Where the Marsh Fairies dwell
At the edge of that slow
Moving creek, I can tell
By the curtain of mist
That they're weaving a spell.

Or maybe it's only
A blanket that lies
O'er the Marsh Fairies' beds
So it's shading their eyes
From the light of the morn,
Till they choose to arise.

But some of them must
Have been up with the sun—
Before any part
Of my work had begun—
For I see that a lot
Of their washing is done.

And over the dainty
Sea lavender bed
Are hundreds of lovely
Web handkerchiefs spread—
The Marsh Fairies must Have a "cold in the head."

A NOTABLE POSTMASTER.

Achievements of Montgomery Blair Under Lincoln.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An article in your Sunday edition on the history of the Postoffice fails to mention the name of my father, Montgomery Blair, who was Postmaster General for almost four years in the Cabinet of President Lincoln. He was the author of the free delivery in cities, international postal union, money order system and the postal car distribution system.

I have the personal letter to my father from President Lincoln when he resigned, in which these services are appropriately recognized and commended. My father elected to leave Mr. Lincoln's Cabinet on account of General Fremont's independent candidacy against him for the Presidency. He always retained Mr. Lincoln's confidence and affection.

After Mr. Lincoln's death my father became a Democrat because of the reconstruction measures of the Republican Party. He incurred much personal animosity on this account among the extreme radical Republicans of that day.

Inasmuch as my father and my grandfather, Francis Preston Blair, well known as an intimate friend of Presidents Jackson and Van Buren, were Southerners, their strong anti-slavery leanings prevented Southern sympathizers from friendliness at that time, and the Republicans as well felt small liking for them. It has been my personal thought that this may have been one of the reasons why my father's unrivaled work in the Postoffice Department has as yet received so little recognition.

I am referring to this to you, as I well know from my familiarity with your columns that any such prejudice on your part is an impossibility. You really do stand for much that the old Free Soil Democracy believed in and advocated.

My grandfather, like Senator Benton of Missouri, in whose office in St. Louis my father began to practice law, was a true exponent of this patriotic philosophy. My grandfather's newspaper, The Globe, in Washington, reflected these views, and to a humble observer like myself I think I see in your printed matter somewhat of this treasure trove, one could call it, served to the modern reader.

THE NEW HAVEN RATES.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One hears these days many gloomy predictions along the north shore of the Sound as to the probable effect on real estate of the new New Haven commutation rates, which take effect within a few days with the approval of the Interstate Commerce and New York Public Service Commissions.

There is one angle to the matter which does not seem to have provoked much discussion, and that is that for fifty trips between New York and his home, the average commuter pays for sixty trips. Few persons have to go to New York to work on Sundays, and if such do, the chances are that they take a week-day off. Observation covering many years leads me to assert that during July and August thousands of commuters go to work in New York only five days in the week.

The logical thing, if it would convince the commuting public that it aims to receive only what is fair, would be for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to sell fifty-trip monthly commutation books at five-sixths of the price it is allowed to charge for sixty-trip books. The road could not justly assert that it provides on Sundays any special commutation service, but its service on Saturdays is as good as or better than on other week days. A fifty-trip book at five-sixths of the new sixty-trip rate would be fair, and would gain the sympathy and appreciation of many commuters who are at to look askance at a boosting of rates. The way to make friends of such is to convince them that the booster is not getting some special privilege.

In the present case the railroad should realize that the expenses of commuters have gone up in the last few years in at least an equal ratio to that of the railroad, while their incomes in many cases have stood still or dwindled, and some sign of that realization would increase sympathy for the New Haven in trying to meet conditions which were partly created by those who many years ago watered its stock and paved the way for hundreds of its one-time stockholders to lose what they had every reason to believe would be a source of good income for the remainder of their lives. Why should not the New Haven make a bid for public favor?

Cohasset Carillon Concerts.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Through the generosity of Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, the donor of the carillon, it has been arranged to have M. Kamiel Lefevere continue his concerts at St. Stephen's Church through the month of August. M. Lefevere is the assistant carilloneur at Malines Cathedral, Cardinal Mercier's church.

The concerts will be given on Sundays from 3 to 4 P. M. and on Tuesdays from 8:30 to 9:30 P. M. Also on Sundays M. Lefevere will play on the carillon for fifteen minutes before and for the same length of time after the 11 A. M. service. The last concert will be played on Tuesday, Sept. 1, at 8:30 P. M.

On Sunday, Aug. 23, and Tuesday, Aug. 25, "request" programs will be played. For these concerts the public is invited to make suggestions and to send them in writing to M. Kamiel Lefevere, Cohasset, Mass.

Owing to the density of the motor traffic it is planned to divert all cars from Cohasset Common during the hour of the concert. The Common and adjacent streets will be closed for ten minutes before and during the concerts. It is requested that only those able to remain through the concert, should park near the Common.

M. Lefevere has given up engagements to play at Malines, Bruges and Ghent in order to remain in Cohasset during August.

First Avenue Buses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Why cannot First Avenue have a means of transportation as well as Second Avenue?

The newspapers state that the Corporation Counsel's representatives and the Commissioner of Plant and Structures acquiesced in the demand of the Second Avenue Railway Company for an injunction prohibiting the operation of this bus line. Are the residents of First Avenue and that vicinity to have no consideration?

During the short time that the buses were in operation thousands of people were saved much time and great inconvenience.

BRITAIN REJECTS FRENCH DEBT OFFER

FAR APART ON TERMS

British Ask £12,500,000 Yearly and Refuse to Discuss the Sum Proposed by French.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 30.—Negotiations between British and French authorities concerning French debts are understood so far to have made small progress. British Treasury authorities decline to discuss them, but it is rumored considerable difficulty has been found in reconciliation of British and French ideas as to the amount France ought to pay annually. According to the British principle as laid down in the Churchill note, Great Britain should receive from the Allies a sufficient sum yearly to make up, with German payment on the reparation account, the sum she pays the United States. This would, it is generally reckoned, mean that France should pay about £12,500,000 yearly.

This figure is reached by taking Great Britain's American debt charge at £33,000,000, assuming that German payments will average £10,000,000, leaving a balance of £23,000,000 to be provided by France and Italy. The French debt to England, compared with the Italian debt, is taken at 6 to 5, which would make the French pay England, roughly, £12,500,000 and Italy £10,500,000.

But it is understood French financiers have an entirely different system of calculation and particularly feel some sure annual contribution should be added on Russia, which assuredly is the heaviest British debtor on paper.

It is impossible to secure official confirmation of these figures, but it is admitted that France has named—it is explained for bargaining purposes—a figure which the British Treasury is quite unable to accept. A sign that the distance between the two nations is lessening will be the arrival in this country of M. Caillaux. It was hoped at the beginning of the discussions that they would have reached next week a stage when it would be worth while to call in the French Finance Minister for final talks with Winston Churchill, but this seem now to have been a too hopeful expectation.

The French financial experts are returning to Paris today to report to M. Caillaux. This, according to The Daily Express and The Daily Telegraph, follows on the breakdown of the conference yesterday. The Daily Express says it understands the discussions yielded nothing giving any hope of a solution satisfactory to Great Britain and tentative suggestions made on the subject of repayment of the debt were of such a nature that they were rejected as unworthy of serious attention.

The Daily Telegraph's diplomatic correspondent writes similarly and says that unless M. Caillaux is able to make a very much more substantial offer it is probable the British Treasury will await results of the Franco-American funding conversations before resuming the pourparlers.

One story given considerable credence in political circles deals as follows with the French attitude toward her debt to the United States: That debt was contracted mainly since the armistice, whereas the money France owes England was advanced during the war. Consequently France has suggested to Washington it would be equitable to divide her American debt into two categories, that lent before and that lent after the armistice. She would accordingly be willing to deal promptly with the second category if Washington would go easy on the first division. That, according to the argument here, was a manoeuvre to secure favorable terms from the United States on the strictly war debt, which terms France would be able to tell England during her debt negotiations here. Washington—again according to the view here—informed France her debts were one and indivisible and must be considered as one sum, no matter when contracted.

BULLARD SOUNDS WARNING.

Says Further Appropriation Cuts May Wipe Out National Defense.

National defense would be practically wiped out by much further economizing, according to Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, retired, President of the National Security League, who sounded a warning against further cuts in army and navy appropriations yesterday just before he sailed on the Red Star liner Zeeland for Antwerp. Accompanied by his daughter, Miss Rose Bullard, General Bullard is on his way to visit his son, who is a United States Army officer in the French High School of War in Paris.

Asked about the probable effect of the contemplated cut in appropriations for the army, General Bullard said:

"I am leaving the United States very much perturbed over the plans of the Government to economize by cutting the army and navy appropriations. It is likely to happen to the army and navy as it happened to the old negro's mule. When the old man had just succeeded in teaching his mule to live without eating, that perverse animal went and died.

"Much further economizing now will catch national defense in such a formative state that it is likely to be in effect wiped out.

"Senator Hale has called attention to the needs of the navy. I should like to see another Senator focus the public eye upon the needs of the army. General Pershing still demands 150,000 regular troops. In addition to its other enemies, the army has a foe in public indifference."

SOVIET HAS RECORD BUDGET

MOSCOW, July 30 (Friday).—For the first time since the revolution, Russia's budget will exceed the pre-war budget by several million dollars. According to the figures of the coming year's budget, now before the Council of Commissars, the general balance is estimated at $1,730,000,000, as against $1,300,000,000 last year and $1,200,000,000 in 1913.

The ordinary income is expected to be $1,650,000,000 and the extraordinary income $71,000,000, while the ordinary expenditures will amount to $1,505,000,000 and the extraordinary to $225,000,000.

A special feature of the budget is the increased revenue from the sale of spirits, which, owing to the raising of their strength to 40 per cent. alcohol beginning Oct. 1, is expected to yield more than $2,000,000, nearly 50 per cent. more than the amount of revenue from vodka in the days of the Czar.

Extraordinary expenses included in the budget are assigned to improvement of the country's agricultural position.

For support of Soviet industry the Government proposes to issues a special international loan of $1,500,000,000.

MRS. NANCY HICKS WEDS.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., July 30.—Mrs. Nancy Benedict Hicks, widow of DeForest Hicks, was married this afternoon to Lawrence Warburton White of Milton. The ceremony was performed in Leslie Lindsey Memorial Chapel of Emmanuel Church by the Rev. Percy T. Edrop, assistant pastor.

The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. Samuel C. Benedict of Athens, Ga. She formerly lived at 507 Madison Avenue, New York City, but recently has made her home at 7 Craigie Circle, Cambridge. Mr. White is a Harvard man, class of 1906, and is the son of Mrs. Franklin D. White.

The wedding was a simple one, and because of the small number present there were no ushers. Mrs. Hicks was given in marriage by her brother, Dr. Samuel Ravau Benedict of Birmingham, Ala. She wore a gown of blond chiffon with a large hat of the same color. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses and blue delphiniums. Her only attendant was her cousin, Mrs. Clement Cleveland Randle of Washington, D. C., matron of honor. Mr. White was attended by Russell King Vizin of Elizabeth, N. J., as best man.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. White will live in Milton after a wedding trip.

RS. J. B. HAGGIN ROBBED.

Newport Hears Her Home Was Rifled of $10,000 in Jewels.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 30.—While no announcement has been made by the police and no one interested was willing to be quoted, it was rumored among the members of the Summer colony at Newport Casino this afternoon attending the hospital fete and the international tennis matches that Mrs. James B. Haggin had been robbed of jewels Wednesday evening.

It is reported that Mrs. Haggin was out to dinner, and when she returned to her home on Bellevue Avenue, Villa Rosa, she discovered that the house had been entered and that nearly all the jewels, except her pearls and others she was wearing, had disappeared. There was also a report today that there was a robbery in the Summer colony Wednesday evening, but nothing definite as to the place could be learned. Mrs. Haggin is giving a ball at Villa Rosa on Saturday evening. The amount of her losses most commonly mentioned was $10,000.

ELEANOR WRIGHT TO WED.

er Betrothal to Gardner H. Gingras of Cocoa, Fla., Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander G. Wright of Jamaica, L. I., formerly of Ft. Thomas, Ky., have announced the engagement of their only daughter, Miss Eleanor Janet Wright, to Gardner Hardee Gingras of Cocoa, Fla. Miss Wright was graduated from Oxford College, Oxford, Ohio. Mr. Gingras, who is a cousin of former Governor Hardee of Florida, was graduated from Stetson College and Georgia University.

The wedding will take place on Aug. 8 at the home of the bride's parents. A small reception will follow at the Jamaica Country Club.

MAFALDA'S BRIDAL PLANS.

Royal Household Preparing for Princess's Wedding Sept. 23.

ROME, July 30 (AP).—Preparations already are being made in the royal household for the marriage of Princess Mafalda, second daughter of the Italian King and Queen, to Prince Philip of Hesse, nephew of the former German Emperor.

The date for the ceremony has been set for Sept. 23, but it has not been announced whether the marriage will take place in Rome or at one of the royal residences away from the capital.

Washington Square Players.

More than 200 persons attended the opening performance of Sir James Barrie's play "Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire," as produced by the Washington Square Players, in the Playhouse at 100 Washington Square East last night. The three-act comedy will have two more performances, on Friday and Saturday nights. It is the third play of the repertory company for the Summer season. The proceeds of the performances will be turned back into the company's treasury, to be used for the purchasing of scenery and costumes.

BORAH CALLS COURT POTENTIAL DICTATOR

Says It Is a 'Presumptuous' Effort by the League to 'Establish Judicial Despotism.'

BOISE, Idaho, July 30 (AP).—A more ambitious and presumptuous effort to establish judicial despotism was never conceived than the International Court operating under the League of Nations, which America is being urged to join, Senator Borah told Boise laborers at a meeting last night.

The Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate said he felt so strongly on the matter that "if I had to tender my resignation in the Senate or vote for this court as it now stands, it wouldn't take me one minute to resign."

"I believe this court is dangerous," he continued. "The men urging it are not telling you the truth about it. If they were, I would leave it to the people for a vote without opening my mouth.

"I do not want it thought that I am opposed to a World Court in general. I have been advocating a court for several years. A World Court could be created which it would be safe for us to join and which would help promote the cause of peace. I intend to bring up changes in the present plan when it comes before the Senate—I mean the plan of joining the League's Court with the Harding-Hughes reservations.

"Labor feels that courts should not make their own laws. Some courts now establish principles of law out of the statutes. It is planned to create a court with no law to govern it except that made by itself. We have no established or accepted code of international law. I favor creating a court to render decisions while operating under law.

"In the proposed court you do not elect the Judges, you cannot recall them, you cannot appeal from their decisions. This is practically judicial despotism. A more ambitious and presumptuous effort to establish judicial despotism was never conceived.

"The court could not prevent war. It could not summon an offending nation into court unless that nation agreed, no matter how great the wrong might be. It would rarely occur that after a nation had invaded another country it would stop to let a court investigate the matter."

WAGNER HEARD AT STADIUM

Philharmonic Orchestra Draws a Large Audience.

Wagner, Nikolai Sokoloff and the Philharmonic Orchestra attracted a large and attentive audience to the Stadium last evening. Wagner is of such tensile strength that, like Beethoven, he imposes his own conditions and creates his own atmosphere.

M. Sokoloff again became the sensitive connecting link between the composer and the listener. As before remarked, he knows how to pile on his climaxes, but his pianos are eloquent; the Good Friday Spell from "Parsifal" had the quality of a benediction, the "Traume" was the moment for a half-conscious dream; the orchestra, an instrument as responsive as any in the world, lent itself instinctively to the moods of the conductor; it, too, knew how to dream, and to awaken when desired to the clash of the elements. M. Sokoloff is now well en rapport with his audience and feels at liberty to express his individuality.

Tonight he will conduct Franck's Symphony in D minor, Borodin's "Steppes of Middle Asia," first time at the Stadium; Scriabin's "Poem of Ecstasy" and Brahm's Academic Festival Overture.

CUT RATES TO JAM LINERS.

Most of the Accommodations Taken for August Trips Abroad.

Steamship offices said yesterday that liners early in August will be crowded owing to the application of the new reduced rates, but that the rush was accidental and would in no wise be like the congested land-travel vacationist rushes.

Every year the shipping lines reduce their east-bound rates 25 per cent. on Aug. 1—the Winter rate—which, however, does not apply to tourists returning from Europe until Nov. 1. The object of this reduction is to stabilize the traffic, and the first effect is always to stimulate travel. Accordingly, there are few accommodations left on ships sailing in the early part of August, but there are no capacity bookings, shipping men explained.

The rush Europeward slackens about the middle of July, and from then on until the following Spring traffic is normal.

CIVIC THEATRE DROPPED.

Chicago Journal Says Mrs. McCormick Refused to Guarantee Rent.

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP).—The Chicago Journal said today Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and others who had planned a civic theatre to produce modern and classical drama of a high standard at reasonable prices, had abandoned the project.

Mrs. McCormick, The Journal said, had refused to guarantee the rental of a theatre, although she had offered to "do more than her share," in financing the project. Today Lawrence Whiting, banker, was returning to the 3,000 associate members their contributions totalling $15,000.

LONDON IN THE DARK ON NEW SUBWAY PLAN

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 30.—Little that is definite is known of the scheme for a freight subway in London. The plans, it is understood, have been drawn, but inquiries at the leading railroads and the Port of London Authority, which controls the docks, show they are not prepared to admit that they have been consulted officially concerning them.

The Ministry of Transport, which is almost certain to be consulted about any question concerning traffic in the London streets and the handling of through freight, also informed THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that it had no information about the scheme and had not approved it.

The promoters would have to get a private act of Parliament for permission to construct, and even if there were no opposition that could not be obtained before this time next year. But such an important plan as this, involving big changes in the system of handling goods, would touch so many interests that a traffic expert expressed his opinion today that the promoters would be lucky to get the bill passed in five years.

The scheme seems to be merely in the initial stages and will need a good deal of negotiation between the local authorities and the big railroads before it is considered a serious proposition here.

The Daily Graphic, which gave the first news of the scheme, furnishes further particulars this morning. It says the plans have been in preparation since 1923 and the financing is in the hands of an American corporation. The original capital of £25,000,000 has been increased to £32,000,000, of which the American financiers are prepared to furnish the greater part.

A well-known English engineer, Carkeet James, is responsible for designing the scheme in which Perry & Co., London contractors, are understood to be interested. Some twenty stations would be built at the various London terminals and market centres. The American promoters say employment would be given to 40,000 men, but the first link in the system would not be in operation until 1928 at the earliest.

STRIKERS CALL ON CAILLAUX

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 30.—Delegates representing striking bank clerks from Paris and Marseilles banks were received this evening by Finance Minister Caillaux and Minister of Labor Durafour. After the meeting the delegates said that M. Caillaux had promised to use his influence to get the big banks to recognize the bank clerk syndicates and to improve salaries.

They said M. Caillaux also asked that they eliminate all political character from their strike and allow Societe General" to continue operations, in view of the hindrance the strike was causing to subscriptions to the 4 per cent. conversion loan. This bank was mentioned specifically because it had already granted some requests made by the clerks.

The delegates said they had accepted M. Caillaux's proposals. The strike committee then declared there was no political character to their action and decided to continue the strike, which is assuming large proportions.

Today no fewer than six of the largest Paris banks were clerkless and by the end of the week nine banks may be without a majority of their workers if the latter fulfill their threats and their demands are not satisfied. A large proportion of the strikers are women. The boulevards have been filled with strikers for the last three days but the usual traffic and a handful of policemen have been sufficient to keep them moving. None of those who remained at their jobs has been molested by the strikers.

ATTACKS ENTENTE OFFICERS

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, July 30.—A surprise visit of eight officers of the Entente Military Control Commission at Steinamanger in Southwestern Hungary Tuesday precipitated a demonstration almost ending in bloodshed.

The officers entered the offices of the County Administration in search of weapons believed to be concealed in violation of the terms of the peace treaty. The Governor of the county accompanied the officials and protested the search, demanding that the officers produce a warrant.

While negotiations were proceeding, thousands of the inhabitants assembled in front of the building and first hooted the officers, shouting: "Go to Morocco, you heroes. Long live Abd-el-Krim."

Despite the county officials' efforts to calm the crowd, the excitement grew until the maddened groups invaded the building, attempting to hurl the officers out the windows.

The police proved powerless until the infantry arrived and dispersed the crowd. The officers were later attacked when attempting to proceed to the railroad station and were forced to take refuge in a building. They were escorted by soldiers to the station at midnight and took a train to Budapest.

Last night ministers of the entente powers called at the Hungarian Foreign Office and demanded and received a full apology for the incident. Steinamanger was the headquarters of the last ill-fated attempt of former King Charles to seize the throne in 1920.

MRS. ROGERS WINS GLADIOLA PRIZES

DISPLAYS ARE BRILLIANT

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., July 30.—The gardens of Mrs. Henry H. Rogers on Meadow Lane won for her two of the most coveted prizes of the Southampton flower show yesterday afternoon, on the opening day of the nineteenth annual exhibition of the Southampton Horticultural Society. These were the special awards of $25 each, offered by G. Warrington Curtis for the best collection of yellow gladiola.

Southampton's flower show, held under the great marquee in Agawam Park, attracted as usual, an interested crowd of Summer residents and townspeople. Persons who have followed the flower show here for years called yesterday's the largest and most brilliant in many seasons. Many of the estates in and around Southampton contributed their most gorgeous flowers for the competition.

While Mrs. Rogers and Thomas Henderson, Superintendent of her estate, took the most sought-for single prizes, Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson, Mrs. Stephen Peabody, Robert Appleton and the Meadow Club established almost a monopoly of prizes in the cut flower competitions. Other successful entrants were Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, Mrs. Alvin W. Krech, Mrs. Goodhue Livingston and Mrs. Albert Herter.

Children's Class a Feature.

A novelty in this year's show was a children's competition for prizes offered by Mrs. Edward P. Melton. There were two awards, one for the best arrangement of wild flowers and the other for garden varieties. The first went to Louis Barstow, son of Mrs. William A. Barstow. The best arrangement of garden flowers was entered by Mary Alice Waller, daughter of Mrs. Robert Waller of First Neck Lane. Other children's prizes will be announced today, the closing day of the competition.

Near the entrance to the exhibits was a splash of blue, in an almost solid mass of blooms, entered for the blue flower prize offered by Mrs. Albert Herter. Judging from the number of entries, blue varieties are favorites with the owners of flower gardens here. The first prize was won by Robert Appleton, with Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson second and Mrs. S. McLanahan third.

Dahlias were objects of particular attention, with prizes offered for single, peony flowered, cactus, decorative and show varieties of this one flower. At the entrance were specimens of a special exhibition dahlia, grown on the estate of James C. Farrish in the Shinnecock Hills, by Edmund Vallet, Mr. Parrish's gardener. These were not entered in the competition, however. The leading dahlia award was won by Stephen Peabody, for a display of ten vases, with three flowers in a vase. Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson was second and Mrs. Frederick A. Snow third.

Superintendents Are Judges.

There were other exhibits which brought much praise from the crowds. Some were inconspicuous, like the dish of pansies, arranged for effect, won by Mrs. Frederick A. Snow. Others were brilliant in hue, as the exhibits of red, yellow and pink zinnias, two of which were won by Mrs. Patterson and the last, the pink variety by Mr. Appleton.

Judging the competition were superintendents of Long Island estates. They were James Kelly, superintendent of the J. P. Morgan estate at Glen Cove; George Middleton of the Elbert H. Gary estate at Manhasset and James McDonald of the George F. Baker Jr. estate at Locust Valley. Stanley Candler received many congratulations as gardener in charge of Mrs. Patterson's country place on Ox Pasture Road, which produced so many prize-winning flowers in the competition. Mr. Peabody's successful entries were developed by Stanley Zelenski, The Meadow Club's magnificent flower beds, which line the driveway to the clubhouse, are tended by Frank H. Smith, while Mr. Appleton's gardens, which also won honors, are in charge of Frank Flynn.

Half of the gate receipts for the flower show will be turned over to the Southampton Fresh Air Home for Crippled Children, in the Shinnecock Hills. George Ruppel is President of the society. The advisory committee, headed by Miss Jane Henderson, includes the names of the many prominent Summer residents.

The exhibition will close this afternoon and evening, when competitions for vegetables and for large potted plants will be announced. Women judges today will be Mrs. Robert C. Hill, Mrs. John H. Morice and Mrs. Louis De Milhau.

MELLON TO STAY IN CABINET

Says He Cannot Understand Reports of His Resignation.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., July 30.—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, who is spending the Summer here at the Rea cottage, announced today through his secretay that there was no truth in published reports that he contemplated resigning from the Cabinet.

"Mr. Mellon authorized me to say," the secretary stated, "that he cannot understand these repeated stories about his leaving the Cabinet. He would have preferred to ignore this latest one but takes occasion to deny its truth so that the public will have no doubt about his intention to remain as head of the Treasury Department."

Mr. Mellon will leave for Washington in a few days to take part in the Italian debt negotiations, but will return here later.

HERRIOT TOO ILL TO TRAVEL

Doubts He Can Attend Near East Relief Banquet Here.

PARIS, July 30 (AP).—Former Premier Herriot telegraphed from Lyons today in response to an inquiry whether he could attend the annual banquet of the Near East Relief Committee in the United States on Sept. 29 that it was impossible for him to make any exact engagements.

Le Matin states that M. Herriot's old ailment of phlebitis, which kept him bedridden for a long time during the Winter of 1924, precludes any possibility of his visiting the United States before the reconvening of the French Parliament in October.

The former Premier is much fatigued by his exertions during the recent provincial elections, and he would not accept a place on the Debt Funding Mission to the United States because of his condition.

STATE BOARD UPHOLDS OUSTING OF DUBOIS

ALBANY, N. Y., July 30 (AP).—The State Department of Education yesterday laid down the principle that any contract entered into between a Board of Education in a union free school district and a Superintendent of Schools for such a district does not affect the statutory right of the board to remove the Superintendent at will.

The ruling was made by Dr. Frank B. Gilbert, Acting Commissioner of Education, in dismissing the appeal of residents and taxpayers of District 9, Town of Hempstead, Nassau County, from action of the Board of Education in securing the resignation of Superintendent of Schools George F. Dubois, effective July 31, 1925, a year before the expiration of a contract under which Mr. Dubois was employed in 1922.

The board has changed since Superintendent Dubois was appointed. Although no question is raised of the professional ability of Mr. Dubois or his "social and personal attainments," Dr. Gilbert holds that the board was entirely within its statutory rights in making a change without any stated cause or any hearing, regardless of the contract.

George F. Dubois was engaged to commence service on Aug. 1, 1922, at a salary of $5,500 for the first year and $6,000 a year thereafter until July 31, 1926. In last April the Schol Board notified Mr. Dubois it did not wish to continue him longer in his position and the Superintendent tendered his resignation, which was accepted to take effect July 31. In May, at the annual school meeting, a citizens' committee was appointed to confer with the Board of Education in a joint endeavor to have Mr. Dubois withdraw his resignation and continue in his post. But the board failed to take any such action and the taxpayers appealed to Commissioner Gilbert for Mr. Dubois' reinstatement.

8 DIE IN CHINESE RIOT OVER KOWTOW TO FROG

General Refuses to Bow to It in Rain Prayer and Soldiers Fire on Angry Mob.

PEKING, July 30 (AP).—A shooting affray as a sequel to a rain-inducing ceremony is reported from Taichow, Chekiang, the victims numbering eight dead and several wounded.

Following an ancient custom, a living frog in a glass jar was brought to the head military official at his residence, his part in the ceremony being to kowtow before the frog and to offer prayers.

Alleging that the time and place were not appropriate, the official ordered the frog taken to a temple, promising to proceed thence and do his bit. The crowd, however, refused to move, and, when the official's bodyguard attempted to clear them out, a riot ensued.

In the beginning of the affair the jar was broken and the frog trampled to death. The infuriated people rushed the soldiers and disarmed some of them, who were belabored with their own arms and any other weapons at hand. Then the official gave orders to fire and eight persons fell dead. A priest was one of those killed.

CUT PAY IN RHODE ISLAND.

Eight Textile Mills Reduce Wages of 7,900 10 Per Cent.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., July 30 (AP).—The J. & P. Coats plant, employing 4,200 persons in cotton thread manufacture, has posted notices of a reduction in wages effective Aug. 3. Officials said today it probably would be 10 per cent. The last cut in wages was in 1921.

The Lorraine Company, manufacturing cotton and woolen goods and employing 2,200, has also posted notices of a reduction. Treasurer William B. MacColl said the cut, which would probably be 10 per cent., was necessary to compete with other mills.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 30 (AP).—Six worsted mills employing about 1,500 workers this morning announced wage cuts of 10 per cent., effective immediately. They were the Pocasset Worsted Company of Thornton and the M. & F. Worsted, Paragon Worsted, Crown Worsted, Snowden Worsted and Colwell Worsted of Olneyville.

HOLDS BANCROFT SERVICES

Town of Karuizawa Honors Envoy Who Died There on Tuesday.

TOKIO, July 30 (AP).—Memorial services were held today at Karuizawa in honor of the memory of Ambassador Edgar A. Bancroft, who died there on Tuesday evening. The entire community attended the services.

At the American Embassy here word was awaited from Washington regarding the sending of the body to the United States and from the Japanese Government as to the special train and guard of honor to bring the body of the Ambassador from Karuizawa to Tokio.

The Cabinet crisis is delaying the arrangements for the removal of the body of the late American Ambassador. Announcement of details of the arrangements is expected this evening.

James H. Parish.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 30.—A telegram received here tonight announced the death of James H. Parish, a former broker and banker of this city, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles M. DR. L. C. WARNER DIES AT HOME HERE

Founder and Chairman of the Board of the Chemical Company That Bears His Name.

HE WAS 84 YEARS OLD

Trustee of Oberlin College—Ex-Chairman of Y. M. C. A. International Committee.

Dr. Lucien C. Warner, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Warner Chemical Company, 415 Lexington Avenue, died yesterday morning at his home, 2 East Forty-fifth Street. He was born eighty-four years ago in Cuyler, N. Y., was graduated from Oberlin College in 1865 and obtained his medical degree from New York University in 1867.

For six years after graduation from medical school Dr. Warner lectured throughout the country on health subjects. In the Fall of 1873 Dr. Warner settled in New York to practice, but his strong inclination for business led him to give up medicine. In 1874 he formed a partnership with his brother, Dr. Ira DeVer Warner, in the manufacture of corsets. This business was incorporated in 1894 under the name of Warner Brothers, Bridgeport, Conn.

In 1900 Dr. Warner organized the Warner Chemical Company. At the time of his death he was also a director of the Home Insurance Company and other corporations.

Dr. Warner was Chairman of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. from 1895-1910 and remained a member until his death. He was also a member of the Board of Trustees of Oberlin College for more than fifty years and presented two buildings to the college—a conservatory of music and a gymnasium.

As a deacon in the Broadway Tabernacle he took a deep interest in all national Congregational societies.

SYLVESTER DEMING IS DEAD

Treasurer of Panama Railroad Was in His 75th Year.

Sylvester Deming, Treasurer of the Panama Railroad Company, died yesterday morning in his seventy-fifth year at the New York Hospital after a long illness. He had been associated with the railway for more than fifty years, having entered the company's employ as clerk in the office of the Superintendent on the Isthmus of Panama in 1875.

Mr. Deming was elected Treasurer during the French ownership of the company in 1885, and with the exception of a short interval in 1906, during which he was assigned relative duties, he continued in that capacity to the time of his death. Mr. Deming is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Lombard and Mrs. Stout, and two sons, Paul and Robert. Funeral services will be held in Calvary Chapel on Saturday morning at 10:30. Interment will be made in his native town of Arlington, Vt.

Dr. H. T. Harvey.

CONTRACTOR WINS VERDICT

Twelve jurors, who sat through excesses of temperature in the Supreme Court for thirty-four court days hearing a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien, on one occasion being compelled to wear overcoats because of the chilly atmosphere in the court room, and on another being permitted to shed their inner coats because it was so warm, received $340 each for their services, it became known yesterday.

The action on trial was brought by Post & McCord against the National Exhibition Company, owner of the New York Giants, to recover for a balance alleged to be due on the erection of the new grandstand at the Polo Grounds and for damages on the ground of being delayed in the work.

The contractors sued for a total of $400,000. The defense admitted that part of the sum sued for was due, but alleged damage of $38,000 on account of defective work. Because an issue of fact was involved in the case, ex-Corporation Counsel John F. Collins, attorney for the National Exhibition Company, got an order for a jury trial. The case was called before Justice O'Malley on May 4, at which time the defendant offered $150,000 to settle the case in view of the probability that the action would be long drawn out. The offer was refused and the case started.

The plaintiffs took three weeks in presenting their evidence, which consisted of testimony by officers and employes and included hundreds of exhibits.

After more than a month had been consumed by the trial, during which time the jurors had been able to devote practically no time to their business, they sent a delegation to Justice O'Malley asking him to make a special allowance to them for their services in addition to the daily fee of $3. Justice O'Malley consulted with Mr. Collins and John C. Walt, attorneys for the plaintiff, and they agreed that some such action should be taken. A suggestion was made that the jurors receive $10 in excess of their regular fee, but the court finally fixed the amount at $7.

The jury answered seven questions of fact presented on the closing day of the trial, awarding $101,089 for the balance due on the contract and $23,500 for damages due to various reasons. These amounts, with the interest due, aggregated $140,078, the amount of the verdict, which was $10,000 less than the defendant had been willing to pay in advance of the long trial.

To bring the case to an end at once and effect a settlement, the defendant paid this sum and the action was discontinued on an order signed by Supreme Court Justice Ingraham. By ending the case in this manner the defendant saved an expense of $30 a day in interest on the amount of the judgment, which could not have been entered until after another Justice had passed on the findings of fact of the jury when court opens in October.

Justice O'Malley granted an extra allowance of $2,000 to Mr. Walt as attorney for the plaintiff in addition to making the extra award to the jurors.

Commissioner of Jurors Frederick O'Byrne said that the section of the law authorizing extra compensation for jurors has been resorted to but seldom in this county because few cases came within the terms of the law. The jurors in 1908 who heard the proceedings brought by William Randolph Hearst to contest the election of Mayor McClellan and were compelled to sit for months watching ballots counted received a like allowance, as did a jury before General Sessions Judge Rosalsky, who heard the prosecution of chicken dealers accused of conspiracy in the Barnet Baff case. The jurors in the Amos R. Eno suit for six weeks, also received an extra allowance.

SAYS CHARTER BOARD ISSUES PROPAGANDA

Head of Westchester Home Rule Body Objects to Use of Court House—Charge Denied.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 30.—Richard H. Lee of Pelham, Chairman of the Home Rule Association of Westchester County, a group organized to combat the new county charter, which will be submitted to the voters this Fall, issued a statement today containing charges that the Westchester County Government Charter Commission is maintaining offices in the County Court House, at the taxpayers' expense, for the purpose of issuing propaganda in favor of the charter.

A protest to the Board of Supervisors will be made by Mr. Lee at a meeting of the board on Aug. 4. If no action is taken to stop what he terms "an abuse of privileges," Mr. Lee said that a taxpayers' action would be brought in the Supreme Court.

Denial of Mr. Lee's charges was made this afternoon by Henry R. Barrett, Chairman of the Charter Commission.

"Permission to use the rooms until November was granted us by Frederick P. Close, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors," he said. "There are about 100,000 copies of the charter that have to be distributed, and Mr. Close thought that our organization would be most effective in the distribution. These copies were purchased by the Supervisors because they felt the public should know about the charter, and not because they either approved or disapproved of it.

"The postage and all expenses incidental to the distribution and the maintenance of the offices are being defrayed by private subscription. Our organization really ended when we submitted our report to the Supervisors last May, and we have not drawn on the budget since that time.

"Mrs. Mary C. Hamilton, who was the paid secretary of the commission, is now engaged by us to remain in the offices, but she has not drawn on the budget for her salary since the commission went out of office, her salary being paid by contribution."

FERRY PASSENGERS HURT.

Thrown Off Feet When Lackawanna Crashes Into Landing.

Several passengers on the ferryboat Lackawanna were slightly injured yesterday morning when the ferryboat coming from Hoboken bumped against the landing platform of the slip at the foot of West Twenty-third Street and threw many passengers off their feet. Those who were hurt did not require medical attention.

DIG UP MORE RELICS; FIND MONKEY SKULL

More rum bottles, a large pewter dish, excellently preserved, an axe, a tomahawk, an old vase and the skull of a monkey were among the articles unearthed yesterday in the excavation for the foundation of the new Seamen's Church Institute building at 25 South Street.

The announcement of previous findings brought many local antiquarians to the construction huts of the Foundation Company at the site, begging the institute officials to give good care to the treasures being dug up hourly by the workmen. Most of the articles have been found in the ruins of an old ship, the second to be discovered in the excavation. The land was under water in early days.

Many of the articles found have been smuggled out by the workers, and one man in an office building near by told of a workman's deliberately destroying one of the valuable rum bottles. This man was A. C. Brady, who said that from his offices on the fifteenth floor of 82 Beaver Street he had watched an Italian worker pick up the rum bottle after turning it up with his pick, shake it, hurl it on the ground, stamp on it and then bury the fragments.

The rum bottles are of great value, according to Dr. Edward Hagaman Hall of 154 Nassau Street, Secretary of the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society.

He said that their value was not founded in sentimental reasons, but in the fact that prolonged burial caused the glass to absorb earth acids which gave it an iridescence impossible to duplicate by any process of manufacture.

4 KILLED BY TRUCKS, ONE BY AUTOMOBILE

Worker in Subway Excavation a Victim—Woman Driver Held for Boy's Death.

One man was fatally injured and another was seriously hurt yesterday when a truck backed down a twenty-five-foot incline to the bottom of the excavation for the new Washington Heights subway at St. Nicholas Avenue and 129th Street, and overturned. Louis Smith, a negro, of 3 West 135th Street, a driller in the pit, was struck by a beam knocked out of place by the truck. He died in the Harlem Hospital. John Keane, 19 years old, of 150 Edgecombe Avenue, was pinned under the truck and injured internally. He is in the Harlem Hospital.

While walking across Third Avenue at Twenty-third Street last night, John Nota, 15 years old, of 536 East Sixteenth Street was struck by a newspaper truck. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital. Witnesses told the police that the boy stepped in front of the truck. The driver, John Selice of 29 Madison Street, was not held. The boy died two hours later.

On her way to a store Enis Chestio, 11 years old, of 313 East Sixtieth Street, was hit by a furniture truck at First Avenue and Sixtieth Street. She died while being taken to Metropolitan Hospital. James Kilches of 330 East Seventy-third Street, owner and driver of the truck, was arrested.

Another person killed while crossing a street was Mrs. Becka Auerbach, 45 years old, of 1,918 Avenue M, Brooklyn. She was knocked down in East Nineteenth Street, near her home, by a truck driven by Joseph Plananica of 1,422 Sixty-seventh Street, Brooklyn.

In Paterson, N. J., Dominick Tuozzo, 13 years old, and his brother, Alfonso, 11 years old, of 215 Union Avenue, were hit by an automobile driven by Miss Gladys Kayhart, 22 years old, of Clifton. The elder boy died at St. Joseph's Hospital. His brother was said to be in a serious condition. Miss Kayhart was arrested and held without bail on a charge of manslaughter.

Louis Knarr, 24 years old, employed on an estate at Huntington, L. I., died in the City Hospital from injuries received on Wednesday when his motorcycle collided with an automobile on the Jericho Turnpike. No arrest was made.

ARMY TO STUDY MARKETS.

War Office Will Watch Prices and Tell When to Buy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—In the interest of economy, Acting Secretary of War Davis is opening a special section in the Assistant Secretary of War's office for the study of market condition for commodities which the department ordinarily purchases in the open market, it was announced at the department today.

This special section will be headed by Captain George A. Horkan of the Quartermaster Corps, who recently completed a course in a technical school in the study of statistics, accounting and marketing.

The new section will ascertain where supplies can be most economically purchased and will try to anticipate price fluctuations and lay in stocks when they are low. Captain Horkan will issue weekly bulletins to the various branches of the department charged with the purchase of supplies, together with recommendations as to when and where to purchase.

SWIMMER SAVED IN HUDSON

Hauled Aboard Steamer Exhausted, Says Three Are Missing.

Emil Lippi, 18 years old, of 632 East 186th Street, who said he had swum from Yonkers to the New Jersey side of the Hudson River, a mile and a quarter, and was on his way back, was saved from drowning yesterday by the crew of the river steamer Benjamin Franklin.

Captain James Burke of the Benjamin Franklin saw the young man in midstream waving for help. He stopped the vessel and ordered a life ring cast overboard. Lipi seized the ring, was hauled aboard, and taken to Yonkers. His clothing was found by the police, and he was allowed to go home. Lippi declared he and three companions started out together to make the long swim, and that he did not know what had become of the others.

Wanamaker August Furniture Sale

Do you know what it offers YOU?

It offers you the privilege of furnishing your home, in whole or in part, from the entire Wanamaker stock of new furniture at 10 to 50 per cent. less in price.

It thus offers a service for the home that is taken advantage of by families in every state in the Union and in some foreign countries, as well as by thousands of families in hundreds of localities in and around New York and Philadelphia.

It offers this service to all kinds of homes—large and pretentious; small houses and apartments; homes of the rich and of the thrifty—making its greatest appeal always to the thrifty because of the high quality of the furniture and the low prices of the August Sale.

It includes a Budget service, which helps the puzzled to apportion expenditures to income and shows the way to procure extended credit so that the furniture may be purchased at once and payments may be extended over the months and be met out of income instead of savings.

It offers also a Decorating service that aids you in selecting the right furniture for your particular home—furniture that harmonizes with what you already have and that may be added to in coming years as your home and family grow.

This is the service—and the sale originated by John Wanamaker 35 years ago—now copied far and wide, but never equaled.

All Men and Women Have Verifying Faculties the ears, eyes, nose, palate and touch, each having a distinct function to determine what we like and what we do not like.

Lacking either of these gifts of nature, we are sensible of a great handicap. The joy of a little child eager to learn is in its using its verifying faculties.

The success of this Mercantile Business is in the people's applying their verifying faculties to all they read on this page and to the things going on here every day.

TELLS WHY COOLIDGE OBJECTS TO SOVIET

OUTLINES FOREIGN POLICY

WOULD JOIN WORLD COURT

Says League Entry Is Closed Issue Here—Skrzynski Predicts Americanization of Europe.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 30.—William R. Castle Jr., chief of the Division of Western European Affairs, Department of State, gave the Institute of Politics today what was regarded here as a comprehensive, enlightening and authoritative summary of the Coolidge Administration's policy toward Europe. Mr. Castle has had immediate supervision of the European policy of the United States for many years, as was pointed out by Professor George H. Blakeslee, of Clark University, leader of the general conference on "The Recent Foreign Policy of the United States," before which the representative of the State Department spoke.

Mr. Castle described and explained the Administration's attitude toward its most vital contemporary problems in European relations. He asserted that the Government is determined on the funding of all the war debts, but is "no Shylock" and does not intend to demand more than its debtors can pay. Continuing, Mr. Castle declared that the Administration has no intention of reversing its policy of non-interference in European political affairs, but that it hopes for the success of the European security pact; that it intends to encourage the investment of American capital when used for constructive purposes and to discourage it for building up armaments; that it desires the United States to join the World Court and that it plans to cooperate with the League of Nations in certain cases without altering its intention not to join the League.

Mr. Castle declared that the Administration was flatly opposed to the recognition of Soviet Russia and the extension of American loans to that country, whose Government he attacked as an "inciter to war."

Mr. Castle said that the assertion of those who attempted to differentiate between the activities of the Soviet Government and the Third International had been proved wrong. It is now clearly understood, he declared, that the Soviet Government and the Third International are only the right and left hand of the same organism.

Rear Admiral Harry M. P. Huse, United States Navy; Professor Archibald Cary Coolidge, Harvard, and Professor Blakeslee characterized Mr. Castle's statement as "an important and authoritative pronouncement" of the policy of the American Government. His remarks on the League of Nations and the World Court were received as particularly significant.

Woman Differs With Castle on League.

Mrs. Mary Hinsdale, of Grand Rapids, Mich., a League of Nations adherent, challenged Mr. Castle when he said that our entry into the League was a closed issue because American public opinion had spoken finally and decisively against the League. She insisted that the 1920 election was not a fair test of American opinion on the League, because the women voters were confused in their first national election and because groups of citizens of foreign descent voted against the League in the heat of their resentment at terms of the peace treaty.

Mr. Castle began by saying that the aim of American policy toward Europe was "helpfulness without impertinent interference, cooperation without entanglement, avoidance of promises which cannot be fulfilled, and scrupulous fulfilment of engagements." It was our purpose always, he went on, to promote permanent peace based on "sympathetic understanding of common problems and recognition of national rights."

Declaring that our policy must always remain thoroughly American, based on the fundamental interests of the United States, he said:

"Only sentimentalists will find fault with the Government for this attitude, because only they could make the absurd claim that the American people elect their President primarily to promote the interests of other countries. In the final analysis the protection and promotion of the permanent interests of this country by the Government is best for the world at large."

"The Government is determined," he continued, "to bring about a funding of all war debts to the United States. So far the following have been funded: British, Polish, Finnish, Lithuanian, and Hungarian, the latter debts incurred solely for reconstruction purposes.

"A Belgian commission, made up of some of the best men in Belgium, is on its way to America to negotiate the funding of the Belgian debt. It is probable that French, Czechoslovak and Italian commissions will soon be appointed to carry on similar negotiations for their own countries. The whole question of the debts is very controversial but it is peculiarly one which must be settled through Government negotiations.

Many "Panaceas" From Amateurs.

"Interference on the part of private individuals who believe they have discovered a panacea is almost certain to lead to misunderstanding. The solutions suggested by amateur financiers and amateur statesmen vary all the way from complete cancellation to a strict and instant accounting.

"The Administration believes that any extreme measures are both economically and morally unsound. It believes, however, that international relations must be founded on the sanctity of international obligations; that repudiation of these war debts or any others would indicate lack of good faith; that their cancellation would demonstrate a sentimental weakness almost equally unsettling to sound international dealings. That the Government should adopt the extreme principle of demanding an instant and full accounting is also unthinkable. Even if such an instant settlement were humanly possible, it would disrupt the economic stability of all the countries involved and would thus react on our own well-being as well as on theirs.

"The United States is no Shylock. It is an honest and generous creditor; honest because it cannot transfer the debts of other nations from the shoulders of the American people without the full consent of the American people; generous because it has no intention of taking advantage of weakness, no thought of overestimating capacity to pay.

"All funding arrangements must be founded on the same fundamental principles of financial obligation, already fully accepted by the British, but they must equally be developments from that principle fitted to the particular case. Suits of clothes are all built on the same model, but the tailor must take the measurements of every individual man.

"The American Government insists that these debts be formally recognized through the negotiation of funding arrangements. It believes that this will lead toward stability, since a nation, like a man, is far more willing to work effectively and earnestly when the full extent of obligations is known and admitted and a possible method of payment has been devised.

Says We Can Never Be Isolated.

"The Administration has no intention of reversing the traditional American policy of non-interference in European political affairs, not because the policy is traditional, but because it has proved salutary. This in no sense implies lack of sympathetic interest in such European political arrangements as will lead to stability and security against war. If there is one thing true of the Government policy, it is the will for peace.

"The United States is not isolated. The word 'isolation' has become a mere fetich of demagogues, a word without any background of fact. A great creditor nation can never be isolated, can never live solely unto itself, and, willing or not, the United States has become the great creditor nation. Our own self-interest, therefore, corresponding, as usual, to world interest, imperatively demands peace in Europe. The Government will do all in its power to promote peace through the approbation and support of such democratic movements as will lead to peace.

"The President has already expressed his hope for the success of the proposed European security pact, the outstanding political attempt to create European stability, which must always be founded on security as well as on economic solvency. The United States cannot become a party to this pact, we cannot guarantee to protect by force of arms the frontiers of distant nations. On the other hand, we can study, criticize if need be applaud when applause is deserved, the plans of European nations to live in peace and understanding with each other.

"The American Government does not, of course, make any loans out of the public treasury. It can, on the other hand, advise with the bankers who are floating foreign loans as to what loans are and what are not consonant with public policy. We object to loans for building up armament but we offer no objection to whatever loans for constructive purposes may be sought by nations whose will is for peace and reconstruction."

Mr. Castle, continuing, said that probably no bankers in America would make the request, but if any banker should consult the Department of State as to a loan to the Soviet Government of Russia, the answer would be a prompt refusal. He declared that the United States does not pretend to dictate the form of government which any country should have, but it does not propose to recognize any Government which repudiates its international obligations and interferes with the economic and political systems of other countries.

Declaring that the Russian Government has employed agents to stir up trouble in the United States, Mr. Castle declared that the European nations have gained little by recognition of the Soviet except an army of propagandists who attempt to undermine the Governments whose guests they are.

Urges Adherence to Court.

"The Administration desires earnestly that under the reservations suggested by Presidents Harding and Coolidge and by Mr. Hughes America shall seek membership in the Permanent Court of International Justice because we believe that this organization will in course of time become one of the bulwarks of peace.

"Even though I do not approve steps toward American membership in the League, I am ready to applaud any undeniably good thing which comes out of the League.

"The World Court should be able more effectively than any organization yet devised to bring about the resort to judicial decision of many controversies which might develop into serious disputes. It approaches the ideal toward which the policy of this country has always worked.

"Every one in the American Government, I am sure, wishes for the League ever increasing usefulness. But to throw this country into the political activities of the League, activities almost exclusively European, would mean, it seems to me, a betrayal of the vital interests of this country.

"The American Government desires to take a helpful part in all international humanitarian matters where our wealth and our power can be used to world advantage. We do not propose, through the League or otherwise, to become embroiled in political matters of purely European import."

Sees Peril in Pacific Issues.

Professor Blakeslee, who has just returned from the Institute of Pacific Relations at Honolulu, said that the issues of the Pacific are "particularly charged with dynamite." He pointed out that the United States did not have one foreign policy which it applied to all parts of the world, but had different policies toward Europe, Latin America and the Pacific. He described our present foreign policy as a "middle course" between our traditional isolation policy and our cooperation policy which existed during the war and the Peace Conference.

Professor Coolidge pointed out a number of things about the United States—her great wealth, her status as a creditor nation, her new restriction on immigration, &c.—which have caused feeling against her abroad.

Count Alexander Skrzynski, Foreign Minister of Poland, predicted in an address tonight that the Americanization of Europe would result in the gradual evolution of the League of Nations into the United States of Europe. He defined the Americanization of Europe as the spread of democratic ideals, and expressed the hope that this would some day bring about a "Pax Americana" similar in influence to the Pax Romana of old.

Denying charges of Polish militarism, he declared that Poland was forced to arm itself in defense of Bolshevik Russia on one side and Nationalistic Germany on the other.

Hikes 177 Miles to Join Army, But Is Rejected for Flat Feet

After tramping 177 miles from Fall River, Mass., to join the army, Edward Langfield, 19 years old, was rejected at the Army Building yesterday afternoon because of flat feet. Langfield put on his shoes and declared as he left the building that he did not know what flat feet were, and anyway he had done enough hiking to last him for some time.

However, the feat performed by Langfield's two companions, John W. and Ronald F. Watson, brothers, of Freyburg, Me., was more prodigious and their luck much better than Langfield's. The Watson brothers hiked all of 640 miles, and they were accepted.

SEEK AN INJUNCTION ON FARE INCREASES

WILL APPEAL TO SMITH

Want Governor to Press for a Rehearing—Plan Further Legal Steps If Needed.

Commuters of Westchester County made their first move to block the New Haven Railroad's 40 per cent. increase in commutation rates yesterday when they obtained from Supreme Court Justice Taylor in White Plains an order for the New Haven to show cause why it should not be restrained from collecting the increased fare effective tomorrow.

The commuters also disclosed that they would appeal to Governor Smith. Through the Governor they hope to get a favorable decision on their application for a rehearing of the commutation rate matter before the Public Service Commission, which allowed the increase on July 15. They will endeavor to enlist the Governor's aid in convincing Commissioner George R. Van Namee, former Secretary to Governor Smith, that the question ought to be reopened.

The order issued by Justice Taylor is returnable in White Plains this morning at 10 o'clock before Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins. It contains an alternative provision whereby the New Haven Railroad, upon showing good and sufficient cause why the injunction should not be granted, must also show cause why the difference between the present rate and the increased rate should not be impounded, rebate slips issued to all commuters and the money held up pending final disposition of the case.

Commuters Call It a Victory.

The order was granted on the application of Frank J. Hermes, whose business address is in Manhattan and whose home is in New Rochelle.

Commuters hailed the action of Justice Taylor as a victory for the commuters. The action was viewed with interest not only by the residents of Westchester, but by the commuters of Long Island and New Jersey, who have joined with the Westchester commuters in launching a nation-wide organization to protect the interests of the commuters whenever and wherever commutation rate increases are demanded by the railroads.

Ex-Judge Charles A. Van Auken, Corporation Counsel of New Rochelle, explained that the procedure to be followed after today's hearing on the order before Justice Taylor would be for the legal representatives of villages and commuters on the New Haven to make formal application before the Public Service Commission for a rehearing of the rate matter. Application will be made for a rehearing whether the injunction sought is issued or not. If the rehearing is refused the commuters will seek a writ of certiorari and take the rate matter up to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court for review.

The Public Service Commission has received a letter from ex-Judge Van Auken advising of the preparation of an application for a rehearing of the rate case. The letter explained that the application would be forwarded in the next few days. Chief Clerk J. W. Higman, at the offices of the commission, explained that the commission probably would agree on an early date for a rehearing as soon as the application was received.

Chairman Has Left the Country.

Chairman William A. Prendergast of the Public Service Commission has sailed for South America. His absence leaves the Public Service Commission in a deadlock on the rate question. Chairman Prendergast was one of those who voted to grant the increase. With him absent there are two members of the commission for and two against the rate increase.

Under the new schedule, effective tomorrow, Mount Vernon commuters will pay $10.62 for a sixty-trip commutation ticket, as against $7.43; Pelham commuters must pay $11.05, as against $7.79; New Rochelle, $11.57, as against $8.42; Larchmont $12.52, as against $8.91; Mamaroneck $13.40, as against $9.24; Harrison $14.19, as against $9.90; Rye $14.90, as against $10.56, and Port Chester $15.22, as against $10.89.

The New Jersey State Real Estate Board, individual dealers and county associations will discuss the probable effect of increased commutation rates on the New Jersey real estate market at a special meeting of the Ways and Means Committee of the Hudson County Real Estate Board to be held within the next week. Edward McDerhott, Secretary of the Essex County Real Estate Board, announced that the meeting would be held at 757 Bergen Avenue, Jersey City. It is planned to have the New Jersey State Real Estate Board consider the matter later.

BOY HELD IN BASLE FOR BOWEN SLAYING

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, July 30.—A movie thriller depicting a hold-up is said by the police to have been an incidental cause of the murder of Mrs. Mary Leavitt Bowen of Berkeley, Cal., who was shot yesterday in the forest outside of the town of Dornach, Canton of Bale, Campagne. The slayer is a 16-year-old farmhand named John Hammerschlegel, of Austrian nationality, who was captured by the police this morning.

Hammerschlegel lost his job last Saturday, and Tuesday evening spent his last sous to go to a cheap cinema in Basle. After sitting through a "thriller" he decided to become a bandit. He stole a revolver and early Wednesday morning stationed himself beside the favorite promenade of Dornach Forest, where wealthy foreigners attending the internationally known Anthroposophical School took daily strolls. Mrs. Bowen was the first person to pass along the path. When she was a few feet from the spot where the youth was concealed he rose and fired.

The bullet struck her in the back of the neck, but instead of falling she ran rapidly down the path. Fearing the consequences of his crime the murderer rushed from the scene and hid.

The American Consul at Basle notified the victim's husband of the tragedy and this morning received a request from him to have the body cremated and the ashes sent to Berkeley.

Congressman MacGregor Studies at Cornell To Fit Himself for His Duties in the House

Specail to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., July 30.—New York State has at least one Congressman who is not too old to learn. He is Representative Clarence MacGregor of Buffalo, of the Forty-third District, who at 52 years of age is taking a course in economics in the Summer session of Cornell University. Congressman MacGregor is a member of the Banking and Currency Committee of the House, and Chairman of the Committee on Accounts.

"This idea that a man can't learn anything after he is 40 is bunk," the Congressman said today, discussing his reasons for spending his Summer at college.

Congressman MacGregor has been in public office since 1907. He is a former member of the New York State Legislature and is now serving his fourth term in Congress. He is a Republican.

The Congressman has taken up typical student living quarters in a university dormitory, a none too spacious top floor room with a cot, one window, a desk beneath it, and ordinary student furnishings. He puts in two hours daily in the classroom, together with some fifty college students, besides doing a large amount of outside reading.

Professor S. K. Kendrick finds in him an industrious student, sincere in his desire to gain academic knowledge, he says. The course he is pursuing is a survey of the existing economic order.

Mr. MacGregory besides his present official committee connections, has been a member of the joint committee of the Senate and the House on agricultural credit, the Committee on Expenditures in the War Department, and the Roads Committee.

"It is important," he says, "that men running up against great economic and financial questions should have a basic knowledge of them."

SEES PLOT TO FLEE COURTS

Says Man Was Disposing of Property Intending to Leave City—Court Orders Presence In Suit.

Edgar Larson, head of the Larson Engraving Company, at 1,104 Broadway, Brooklyn, was taken to the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday on a civil order of arrest in a suit for $100,000 damages by Frank A. Fischer, a painter of 384 Logan Street, Brooklyn, based on his charge of the alienation of the affections of his wife, Bessie Fischer.

Since the death of Larson's wife Mrs. Fischer had been housekeeper for him at his home, 101-19 126th Street, Richmond Hill, Queens, where she had her two children and also cared for the two children of Larson. In June the Children's Society of Queens had Mrs. Fischer summoned before Magistrate Lawrence A. Gresser in the Jamaica Police Court on a charge of cruelly whipping Larson's daughter, Hazel, 9 years old.

This charge was dismissed, the Magistrate saying that he often whipped his own children severely, but the case was presented for further investigation to Judge Edward Boyle in the Children's Court at Jamaica. He directed that the child should be taken from the Larson home, that Mrs. Fischer was to have no communication with the girl whatsoever and gave the custody of Hazel to her grandmother, Mrs. Robert Larson, 828 Forbel Avenue, East New York, until Sept. 22, when the Court is to consider the case further.

During the hearing of this case Mrs. Fischer was referred to as "Mrs. Bessie Larson, stepmother" of the girl. She said she had received a number of threatening letters in relation to the whipping of Hazel. In April Fischer obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from his wife from Justice Leander B. Faber in the Queens Supreme Court. Mrs. Fischer made no defense.

At that time Fisher said he had started his suit against his wife after he and several friends had forced their way into Larson's home one night and had found Mrs. Fischer there. Fischer told the Court yesterday he had received information to the effect that Larson was disposing of his property and that he and Mrs. Fischer were planning to flee the jurisdiction of the New York courts, and for that reason Fischer had obtained a civil order to compel his attendance.

Justice William F. Hagarty ordered the release of Larson in bail of $2,500, which he supplied. Fischer, through his attorney, Francis E. Carberry, said that the two families had formerly been friends and neighbors. When Mrs. Larson had been ill Mrs. Fischer had gone to the Larson home to help her and her children. After the death of Mrs. Larson, Fischer says, his wife remained with her children in the Larson home, and Larson, by lavish gifts, alienated her affections and induced her to remain away from the home of her husband.

Fuse Blow-Out Frightens Women and Sets Fire to a Truck.

Four women fainted yesterday when a fuse in the front car of a ten-car subway train blew out while the train was standing at the Prospect Avenue station of I. R. T. in the Bronx. The tracks are elevated at that point, and falling sparks set fire to the canvas top of a Department of Street Cleaning truck below, but the driver quickly put out the flames.

The women were in the front car. They were Mrs. D. Sadie Lepanow of 2,013 Bryant Avenue, her daughters, Helen and Ruth, and Mrs. Sarah Abramowitz of 1,327 Southern Boulevard, all of the Bronx. The fuse exploded with a loud report and smoke spread through the car. The women were carried to the station platform and were sent home after being revived by an ambulance doctor.

Traffic on the line was tied up for a quarter of an hour.

Youth Freed of Bath Robbery.

A charge of grand larceny against Louis Himmelstein, 18 years old, of 115 Ludlow Street was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Moses R. Ryttenberg in Essex Market Court for lack of evidence. Neighbors of the youth testified to his good character. Himmelstein was charged with having stolen $850 from Benjamin Rothman, 38 years old, of 7 Pitt Street, while the latter was bathing a week ago Wednesday in the Municipal Public Baths at 5 Rutgers Place.

W. J. CONNERS GIVES $1,000,000 FOR POOR

Will Establish a Foundation for the Benefit of the People of Buffalo.

AID "WITHOUT RED TAPE"

Help First, Investigate Afterward, His Policy—Gift to Be Increased to $5,000,000 Later.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, July 30.—Announcement of the creation of a Buffalo charity foundation fund of $1,000,000 which he expects at a later date to increase to $5,000,000 was made this morning by William J. Conners of Buffalo and West Palm Beach, Fla.

The charity probably will be known as the Conners Foundation. The interest of the foundation will be applied by a managing board to "relief without red tape" of needy persons and families of the City of Buffalo. No line of creed, race or other classification will be drawn. The charity will provide immediate help where help is required. It will be managed by a board of six trustees, two Catholics, two Protestants and two Jews.

"I have been fortunate in acquiring wealth and my desire is to do something for my home city while I am alive instead of by will," said Mr. Conners. "For a time I have been planning the form it should take. I have decided that the best charity is one that will give help to the needy, give it promptly, without red tape and without any regard to race, religion or anything but need. As soon as the papers are ready I will set aside $1,000,000, and later I will give more. I expect to make it $5,000,000 before I am through."

Names Trustees Chosen.

The trustees of the foundation, Mr. Conners says, will be Judge Daniel J. Kenefick and William J. Conners Jr., his son, who are Catholics; Dr. Henry C. Buswell and Howard Birsell, who are Protestants, and Eugene L. Falk and Emanuel Boasberg, who are Jews. Offices of the foundation will be opened as soon as the necessary preliminaries are accomplished.

The foundation will be exclusively for the people of Buffalo. Mr. Conners said he was born and reared in the city and got his start on the road to success here and for those reasons confined the benefits of his gift to Buffalo.

The foundation will be in full operation this Fall. It will be independent of any other charitable activity, and if the aim of the man who establishes it is carried out, it will be a charity that will take a reasonable chance on a needy applicant first and then investigate before providing additional relief. In other words, it will help first and investigate afterward when investigation might delay needed relief.

"It is my wish to make the charity as broad as it can be within its territory," said Mr. Conners. "It will look after the needy, whether it is need of a ton of coal or help to go to a hospital or help in any way. Maybe this will start somebody else to do the same thing. It don't know of another foundation exactly the same."

Thought of Building a Hospital.

In a formal statement of his intention Mr. Conners said:

"In announcing the establishment of the foundation I desire to state that it is the fulfillment of a thought that has been in my mind for many years. I was born and reared in Buffalo, and whatever success has come to me had its beginning in this great city. It is for this reason that the work and benefits of the foundation will be confined to the people of Buffalo.

"Many men of wealth leave this life without making adequate provision for charity. I have considered various methods of disposing of a portion of my estate for charity. At one time I considered building a hospital, but after due reflection I am satisfied that the foundation is the ideal agency to carry out the purposes I have in mind."

Mr. Conners, who with Mr. Conners Jr. and their families recently were in Europe, arrived in Buffalo a few days ago. After making his gift public today he and Mrs. Conners sailed on the Tionesta for Duluth. Dr. and Mrs. Buswell accompanied them.

REFUSES TO SILENCE CITY RADIO STATION

Justice Churchill Denies the Restraining Order Asked by Citizens Union.

DECLINES TO BAR POLITICS

Sees No Way to Draw Line Between Information and Propaganda Without Censorship.

Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Churchill denied yesterday the application by Henry Fletcher, Vice Chairman of the Citizens Union, for an order to restrain the City Administration from operating the Municipal Radio Broadcasting Station WNYC.

In his decision Justice Churchill held that "it was within the discretion of the legislative body either to confine the use of the station to the administrative work of the city officials or to permit a wider use." The Court also asserted that it was "a question which no court has a right to consider."

While admitting that discussion of civic problems by officials in daily contact with the actual administration of the affairs of the City Government for the benefit of the large radio audiences is "easily causable of abuse, and, if abused, may be productive of evil," Justice Churchill declared that "the view that the local legislature had the power to authorize the employment of the radio for the dissemination of general information with regard to the conduct of the City Government is consistent with the policy of our municipal government."

The Court's decision held that "it cannot be said that the public moneys are being spent for other than city purposes" merely because the Administration has chosen to use the station for other than strictly administrative work."

Finds City's Right Unquestionable.

Justice Churchill holds that "there is no room for debate concerning the power of the city to construct and maintain such an instrumentality for the use of the various departments of the City Government in the conduct of the business of the municipality.

"The affidavits show," the decision adds, "that it is so used to some extent by the Police Department and is about to be used by the Fire Department, especially in connection with the fireboats. The continued maintenance of the station, therefore, may not be restrained and the only question is whether its operation may be restrained."

After citing the resolution of the Board of Estimate authorizing the station, the Court declares: "I do not think the resolution can be construed properly to mean that the radio station should be employed for the transaction of departmental business only. If such a limitation had been intended it would have been natural to express it. It is not a reasonable inference that so narrow a restriction was intended though not expressed. It follows, therefore, that the use of the radio station for other than strictly departmental business is not necessarily unlawful.

"But, though the station may be lawfully used otherwise than in the conduct of the municipal departments, there are limits to its proper use. The right to use it for the general information of the community upon the public affairs of the city is one thing. Its use for polemical discourse on political subjects is quite another, and cannot be justified under the resolution which authorized its construction and operation. It has been shown that there has been much in the way of intemperate speech and unrestrained criticism of public officials and others.

Difficult to Draw Line.

"But the Court has not undertaken to restrain what is designated in the papers as 'political propaganda' or to forbid the use of the station for political purposes. The Court will not issue an injunction unless the acts sought to be prohibited are susceptible of precise definition and unless it is able to enforce its mandate or punish its violation. The thing forbidden must be so plainly defined that there is no room for doubt or debate concerning the extent of the prohibition.

"In the nature of the case, the line between the fair presentation of municipal problems on the one hand, and partisan or personal political exploitation on the other, cannot be distinctly defined in advance. Whether or not the injunction had been violated would be a matter of constant debate. To enforce its injunction the Court would be obliged to constitute itself a censor over the speeches made from day to day. Condemnation of the utterances of today would not prevent other abuse tomorrow.

"The Court would, in effect, assume the obligation of constant supervision over the communications of public servants to the people of the community. This would be intolerable. The discretion and good taste of the public officials are the only safeguards against such abuse of power. It is beyond the reach of the injunctive process of the courts."

Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel for the Citizens Union, who presented and argued the motion for an injunction, was out of the city yesterday. In his absence nobody in his office would undertake to say what steps, if any, he would take to press the issue further.

BUSBY FREED IN RUM CASE.

Police Captain's Son Took No Part In Liquor Deal—Two Men Held.

United States Commissioner William J. Wilson, in Brooklyn, dismissed yesterday the complaint against George Busby Jr. of 1,527 Benson Avenue, charging him with being involved in a liquor deal.

Busby is the son of Captain George Busby, in charge of the Safe and Loft Squad of the Detective Bureau. Jerome Comito of 29 Carmine Street, Manhattan, mentioned in the same complaint, which was made by prohibition agents, was also dismissed from custody. Two others Joseph Cesero of 1,541 Benson Avenue and Rocco Madri of 35 Bedford Street, Manhattan, were held in $1,000 bail for trial in the United States District Court.

The complaint charged that on June 16, Agents Kupferman, Kantor and Leap made an agreement with Cesero to purchase thirty cases of whisky at $35 a case.

Cesero, Comito and Madri, as well as the three agents, were present when the liquor was placed on a truck. At that time, the agents said, Cesero promised police protection for the transportation of the liquor as far as the Brooklyn end of the Manhattan Bridge.

Kupferman testified yesterday that Busby was called from his house, but that there was no conversation between Busby and the agents in regard to the transaction and that Busby was not present when the arrangements for the sale were made or when the money was passed. Joseph Wacherman, attorney for Comito, brought out that Comito was only a visitor at Cesero's home and had no part in the alleged sale.

Government Is Fined $30 For Breaking Washington Law

Special to The New York Tim

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The District of Columbia Government through its police and health regulations succeeded today in police court in calling the Federal Government to account for violating the smoke law—a rather unusual proceeding in the face of judicial declarations that the two Governments and their laws and regulations must go hand in hand.

Judge John P. McMahon, imposed fines of $10 each in three cases of violating the smoke law preferred by the District of Columbia Government against Robert S. Regar, chief clerk of the Post Office Department, for allowing an excessive amount of smoke to issue from the chimneys of the Federal postal headquarters on Pennsylvania Avenue northwest.

The fines were imposed upon Mr. Regar, not as an individual but as a representative of the Federal Government.

WET BARGAIN COURT DUE TO END TODAY

Judge Hand Changes Mind and Agrees to Sit Again to Wipe Out All Cases.

275 MORE PLEAD GUILTY

The bargain days of the bootlegger court are drawing to a close. Federal Judge A. N. Hand announced Wednesday that he would not again preside, but he reconsidered his decision yesterday and agreed to sit this afternoon. The change in his plans was because the calendar, which contained about 1,800 cases when the court opened last Monday, had dwindled to a point where it is hoped it will be exhausted before today's session is ended.

Records of yesterday's proceedings gave ample evidence that the business was dwindling to the vanishing point. There were only 275 pleas of guilty; fines collected amounted to $19,815; there were 104 dismissals and 43 bail forfeitures, representing about $33,250.

The total estimated results of the four days were 1,297 pleas of guilty, $79,729 collected in fines and on paper $203,250 in bail forfeitures. Some may appear later with a perfectly good excuse why they did not respond when their names were called. Their forfeitures will be remitted. In other cases the bondsmen may bring the delinquents into court.

While the business of the court yesterday was the smallest since the bargain days began, there was the same eager crowd waiting to do penance for their scoffing of the prohibition law. John M. Cashin, head of the prohibition bureau, had a full list, and he demanded a ready response when a name was called.

Two incidents enlivened the proceedings. The first was when Thomas Tolano and his brother Daniel were recognized as second offenders. Thomas got sixty days in jail and Daniel thirty days. What made the Court unusually severe with these offenders was the fact that they used a candy business in Eighth Avenue as a cover for their bootlegging. John T. Caroway, who operates a restaurant in Amsterdam Avenue, where raiders found a large quantity of liquor, was fined $400.

There was one pathetic incident. Mrs. Jennie Trapini, an elderly woman in rusty black, came from Orange County to plead guilty. She had brought all her money with her. When she was fined $100 she seemed dazed and then began groping in a shabby black bag. She finally gathered $99 in bills. Then she discovered some coins, which left her still 10 cents shy. Mr. Cashin handed her a dime.

"I hope," he said, "she has enough money to get home."

Texas Guinan Club Leads the List of Coming Trials.

The Padlock Court, after a rest of several weeks, will reopen this afternoon or Monday with more than eighty cases on the calendar. Nearly all of the cases are those of small defendants. The best known is the Texas Guinan Club at 117 West Forty-eighth Street, which was temporarily enjoined from dispensing liquor.

Yesterday counsel for Lawrence Fay, "John" Vollott and another, obtained an order requiring the Government to show cause why the injunction should not be dismissed. Argument will be heard next Tuesday by Federal Judge Knox, who granted the injunction. Numerous affidavits filed by the club assert that the law was rigorously obeyed. The Government will insist that the injunction should be made permanent. Raymond L. Wise represents the defendants.

COURT ASKED TO FREE SHIP.

Argument in Case of the Steamer Sagatind to Be Heard Today.

Argument on a motion to dismiss the libel against the Norwegian steamship Sagatind will be heard this morning by Federal Judge A. N. Hand. The vessel was seized twenty-eight miles off this coast on Oct. 11, 1924, and tied up to a pier with a libel attached to her on a charge of violating the Volstead act. In her hold were found 40,000 cases of Scotch whisky. It developed that the whisky was put on board at Antwerp and that the vessel had been chartered by Charpier & Co., a French concern, to bring contraband into this port.

It was said yesterday that counsel for the charterers of the vessel would contend that the vessel was not within an hour's sailing from this coast when she was seized, and therefore her seizure was made in violation of a treaty with Norway and with all other countries, including England.

During arguments counsel for the defendants insisted that the papers of the Government should designate the precise point where the vessel was seized.

$100 Bequeathed to Terrier.

A dog owned by Mrs. Corinne H. Jarvis, a widow, who died on June 25, at her home, 390 Sixth Avenue, Brooklyn, was provided for in Mrs. Jarvis's will filed yesterday in the Kings County Surrogate's Court. The will contained this clause:

"I give and bequeath to my executors, to be paid by them to persons whom they may appoint, for the care of my pet fox terrior, the sum of $100.

The estate of Mrs. Jarvis was estimated at $2,500. Several nieces and nephews are the heirs.

RESERVATIONS RAISE WORLD COURT DOUBT

Senator Deneen Among Those Who Hold Harding-Hughes Plan Must Be Changed.

EXPECTS PROPOSAL TO WIN

Conference on International Law Will Be Asked by Interparliamentary Union.

PRESIDENT BUSY ON TAXES

Summons Representative Madden to Conference on Further Cuts In Appropriations.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., July 30.—The impression gained here from discussions with visiting Senators and adherents of the World Court is that the Hughes-Harding court plan, now pending in the Senate, must be subject to far-reaching reservations to make it acceptable to the reservations Republicans and assure its adoption.

In the event the reservations do not destroy the plan and estrange the present Democratic support, it is believed that the recent poll on the court will be verified. This poll gave the International Court proposal a majority of six over the necessary two-thirds. It was asserted here today that these figures assumed that there would be many reservations.

It may be necessary to go so far to satisfy the opposition as to make the court proposal unacceptable to its adherents. For instance, one element, including Senator Borah, is demanding that the United States shall sponsor another Hague convention to codify international law before this country becomes a member of the Court.

Secretary Kellogg has opposed such a suggestion, and it is presumed that he took such a position with the approval of President Coolidge.

Senator Deneen of Illinois, who succeeded Senator Medill McCormick, an opponent of the court, is favorable to it but admits that there will have to be some changes in the protocol. He reports that some Senators who have opposed the court now recognize that political exigencies require the Republican Party to carry out the spirit of its platform declarations on the court. The party declared for it in 1920 and again in 1924, and both Presidents Harding and Coolidge urged its adoption in messages and speeches.

Before leaving White Court today, where he was an overnight guest, Senator Deneen gave it as his opinion that if the party's platform on the World Court proposal would be carried out in some form.

"But I am doubtful," added the Senator, "whether the pending protocol will be accepted. The divergent views in the Republican Party have to be considered and compromises effected. I believe, however, that the proposal will be adopted in some form and the party's declarations on the subject fulfilled."

There is a probability that some of the opposition to the Court may be overcome if the United States consents to summon a new conference for codification of international law, continuing the work of the second Hague conference. Such a proposal, it is understood, will be formulated by the Interparliamentary Union, which will meet in the House of Representatives in Washington on Oct. 1 next.

President Coolidge is most desirous of getting the World Court out of the way and it is understood he will seriously consider compromises if the spirit of the party declaration on the World Court can be carried out.

The big fear is that so many of the Senators counted as favorable to American adhesion will insist upon such numerous and diverse reservations that even if the resolution is approved it will contain stipulations that will make it impossible for other powers to accept the American conditions, much as they desire the United States to be affiliated with the court.

That, in fact, is believed to be one of the subjects to be discussed with Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, who is coming here at the end of the week to be a house guest at White Court. The Senator has a plan for American adhesion to the World Court which, if carried out, would absolutely divorce the Court from the League which created it. Heretofore the Administration attitude has been one of opposition to this.

The Washington meeting of the Interparliamentary Union will be its twenty-third session. It will meet in the United States with the approval of the Government, and Secretary of State Kellogg will give a dinner to the delegates. Besides the question of codification of international law, the first subject on the agenda, under which the suggestion to the President to summon a conference on international law is expected to be made, the Union will discuss rights and duties of nations, criminality of war, reduction of armaments and the demilitarized zones, national minorities and the drug evil.

The Union will meet in Washington from Oct. 1 to 7, and then the delegates will go to Ottawa, where the Canadian Government will entertain them from Oct. 11 to 13. The delegates will be at Niagara Falls on Oct. 10.

President Coolidge is giving more attention to public questions than would be the case if he were spending the Summer in Washington. He already has taken up taxation matters and a general legislative program with Senator Curtis, Republican leader of the Senate, and will consider reduction of governmental expenses tomorrow.

He has summoned Representative Martin B. Madden of Illinois, Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, to take up further reduction in the annual expenditures in the conduct of the Federal departments. One of the greatest economies President Coolidge insists upon is in the War Department. Two months ago he ordered the War Department to make a survey of its expenses with the idea, if possible, of effecting a reduction of something near $50,000,000. Mr. Madden is in full accord with the economy plans of the Administration and, indeed, has done much as Chairman of the Appropriations Committee to pare down even the recommendations of the Budget Committee.

Senator Deneen declared today that the St. Lawrence canal and the project fostered by Illinois to give that State water communication to the Gulf would be big issues which the West and the Great Lakes States would support in the next Congress.

"The President and the party have declared in favor of the St. Lawrence canal," he said, "and I believe it is only a matter of time when this waterway and the linking up of the Illinois River to the Gulf ports will be realized. At the present time, however, the economy program, necessary to reduce taxation, might interfere with favorable action by the next Congress."

As to a program on farm legislation Senator Deneen said that was a matter that must be worked out by legislators familiar with the needs of the agricultural sections. Illinois farmers in the corn belt are enjoying one of the largest crops in many years and their condition is very prosperous and one that needs no Federal support, he said.

PALMER FOR SALE OF PALMETTO LINE

Would Take $271,000 Bid on 6 Ships in South Atlantic and North Europe Freight Service.

MAY SELL PACIFIC VESSELS

To See Rolph Today on Lines to Australia, Brazil and the Argentine.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Sale of the Palmetto Company, one of the lines of the Shipping Board, operating six freight ships between South Atlantic ports and Northern Europe, was recommended to the Board today by President Palmer of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

Palmer is continuing negotiations with James Rolph of San Francisco, representing the Fleishacker interests, looking to the sale of the Government lines which run from Pacific Coast ports to the east coast of South America and to Australia.

In the case of the Palmetto Company, two offers were made for the six ships, each of 7,830 dead weight tons. The Carolina Company of Charleston, S. C., offered $5.75 a ton, or a little in excess of $45,000 each, a total of approximately $271,000.

Trosdal, Plant and Lafonta of New Orleans made a bid, but submitted no figures. Each company guaranteed a sustained service for five years and informally promised to operate the routes permanently.

It is understood that President Palmer recommended acceptance of the proposal of the Carolina company, which is now operating the Palmetto Company for the Government.

The Palmetto Company runs its vessels out of Jacksonville and other Southern ports, including Wilmington, N. C., and touches at Hamburg, Bremen, Liverpool and Antwerp. Shipping Board officials say that it is a profitable line and a good investment for private capital. The tonnage originally cost the Government about $6,000,000.

In a conference to be held tomorrow between Mayor Rolph of San Francisco and President Palmer an agreement may be reached as to the proposed sale of the Pacific-Argentine-Brazil Line and the Pacific-Australia Line, both running from Pacific Coast ports. A syndicate in which Mayor Rolph and the Fleishackers of California are interested desires to purchase these properties. The board is willing to sell if terms are acceptable. The syndicate has an option on the two lines which will expire tomorrow. It made a deposit of $30,000. Both routes are understood to be making money, and as a result, if was said, the Government is holding out for a good price.

President Palmer expressed the hope today that Mr. Rolph would make an offer tomorrow that would justify him in recommending the sales.

RUHR TO BE FREE TONIGHT.

Occupation Netted France and Belgium 2,737,000,000 Francs.

PARIS, July 30.—Ruhr occupation will have ended entirely by midnight tomorrow.

The Journal prints a history of the case and describes the work of peace conducted by the French while occupying the region. It tells how seventy-seven free lunch-rooms were provided for German workmen locked out by the Industrialists, which gave out more than 10,000 meals daily.

It cites figures read in Parliament giving the net yield of the Ruhr operation—with all expenses paid except the keep-up of the troops, which would have been the same in France or anywhere—at 2,737,000,000 francs, of which France received 1,238,000,000 and Belgium more than 1,000,000,000 francs.

McClelland Heads Illinois College.

SEES SHIPPING PERIL IN ARTHUR KILL SPAN

Representatives of Carriers Say It Would Be Menace to Vessels—Want Suspension Bridge.

Representatives of shipping interests in and about New York argued against the adoption of the Port Authority plans for the proposed Staten Island bridges at the final session yesterday of the hearing before Colonel Herbert Deakyne, United States District Engineer, in the office of the Port Authority, 11 Broadway. Witnesses, including commanders of industrial fleets operating in the Arthur Kill, testified that the piers of the cantilever bridges planned by the Port Authority between Perth Amboy and Tottenville and Elizabeth and Howland Hook would seriously interfere with navigation and would constitute a menace to shipping in these waters.

H. A. Hennessey, Secretary of the Carteret Industrial Association, which includes a dozen large industrial plants along the Arthur Kill, declared that the development of the water front would be retarded by the bridges, since new industries would entail the use of an ever-increasing number of heavy-draft ships.

W. A. Rex, commander of the Mexican Petroleum fleet, maintained that the 675-foot channel contemplated would make the the passing of two large vessels hazardous, and Congressman William B. Cleary of Kings County, representing the New York Boat Owners' Association, which operates 3,000 vessels, declared that the importance of the waterway to the State and the nation should prevent the construction of any bridge which would involve the slightest danger to navigation.

The cost of a suspension bridge should not be held as a valid argument in support of the cantilever type, said Charles O'Connor of the M. and J. Tracy Company, coal transport and tug operators, which pointed out that the Bear Mountain Bridge was erected by private capital and that slightly increased tolls would meet the extra cost of the suspension type. He also argued that abutments would increase the danger of ice jams and that shippers would have difficulty in getting insurance if hazards were increased.

H. W. McGrann, counsel for the American Steamship Owners' Association, declared that the first right to a navigable stream rests with sea-going commerce. "We are constructing for future generations," he said. "Assuming as true the statement made by Mr. Drinker yesterday that the span contemplated by the present plan would permit four and a half times the present water traffic, which I deny, do we want to place such a limit on navigation in the Arthur Kill for all time?"

Julius Henry Cohen, counsel for the Port Authority, said in rebuttal that the problem of financing the project precluded the construction of the single span bridge. He asserted that the plan contemplated would not constitute a reasonable obstruction to traffic for the next fifty years, and that if such should ever be the case the difference in initial cost at compound interest during that period would be more than enough to replace the bridges with a single-span type.

John Rugge Jr., President of the Tice Towing Line, directed the testimony yesterday. Colonel Deakyne said at the conclusion of the hearing that the War Department would make its decision at the earliest time possible.

NEW YORKER KILLED ABROAD

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 30.—Alan Northridge of New York died soon after his automobile, driven by Roger Earnery, crashed into a tree, due to the breaking of the steering wheel, today, on the road from Apt to Avignon in the south of France.

Earnery was taken to the hospital in Avignon seriously injured. Northridge was traveling to Apt on business in connection with ochre production. He died of a fractured skull.

Alan Northridge is listed in the City Directory as in the dry color business at 140 Front Street. His home is given as 93 Elderts' Avenue, Richmond Hill. A neighbor said last night the whole family was in Europe.

DEMOCRATS BACK OUTSIDER

To Support S. P. Leeds, Independent, for New Jersey Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 30.—Samuel P. Leeds, President of the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce, and independent candidate for the State Senate, will not only have the support of Charles I. Lafferty, Democratic boss of this county, it is reported here, but Lafferty will act as his campaign manager.

It also is reported that this arrangement has the sanction of Frank Hague of Jersey City, Democratic State leader. No explanation of the reported coalition has been given. Friends of Leeds are elated over the alliance with the Democrats, which will give them an already organized political machine through which to work. Leeds is opposed by State Senator Emerson L. Richards, Republican, who seeks re-election.

Children Save Drowning Athlete.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 30 (AP).—Paul Hayden of this city, high school and textile school graduate and football player for both schools, was rescued from drowning yesterday afternoon at Vineyard Haven when he was seized with cramps. A group of children of Summer residents, led by 12-year-old Betty Chapin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chapin of Newton Centre, effected the rescue after the young man had gone down for the third time in eight feet of water.

Constance Talmadge Asks Citizenship.

LOS ANGELES, July 30 (AP).—Constance Talmadge, motion picture actress, who became a Greek subject by marrying John Piaglogiou, a wealthy New York tobacco man, in 1920, has filed an application for restoration to her former status as an American citizen. She obtained a divorce in 1922, but that did not make her an American, and she now seeks a legal separation from her ex-husband's nationality.

Ship Board Settles Seattle Suits.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 30 (AP).—Wartime construction suits against the Shipping Board, involving $1,145,228 were swept from Federal Court records today upon stipulation of counsel. Six separate claims were included in the litigation, which was settled out of court by payment of $439,797 to the Puget Sound Machinery Depot and the Garrett Engineering Corporation.

Kills Himself Over Civic Failures.

WOODBRIDGE, N. J., July 30.—Herman Kopper, 46 years old, a well-to-do butcher, of 150 Main Street, committed suicide today by drinking lysol, the police reported. Kopper had been active in philanthropic and civic movements in Woodbridge, and is said to have worried over the failure of several such enterprises in which he was interested.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—Pressure continues low over the Gulf of St. Lawrence and is relatively low over the Ohio and Middle Mississippi Valleys and the West Gulf States. Pressure is also relatively low from British Columbia southward to Arizona. High pressure covers Saskatchewan and the northern Rocky Mountain region and the northern Plains States and is high in the region of Bermuda and on the North Pacific Coast.

During the last twenty-four hours scattered showers and thunderstorms have occurred in the southern Rocky Mountain region, the extreme north portion of the west Gulf States and the Missouri, upper Mississippi and Ohio valleys, in the upper lake region and in the east Gulf States. It has become cooler over the southern Rocky Mountain region and middle Mississippi Valley, while somewhat warmer weather has overspread British Columbia and Montana. Elsewhere temperature changes have been unimportant.

The outlook is for showers on Friday over practically all the Washington forecast district and on Saturday along the South Atlantic coast. Elsewhere the weather will be generally fair in the States east of the Mississippi River Friday and Saturday. It will be cooler on Friday in the Middle Atlantic States and in the interior of the South Atlantic States.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

In the following record of observations at United States Weather Bureau stations yesterday the temperatures given are the highest during the twelve hours from 8 A. M. to 8 P. M. and the lowest during the preceding twelve hours from 8 P. M. to 8 A. M.; the barometer reading and condition of weather are those recorded at 8 P. M., and the rainfall is for the twenty-four hours ended at 8 P. M.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

So far as concerns the Stock Exchange, yesterday's market chiefly indicated continued but gradual downward reaction. Declines of more than a fraction were the exception, and they occurred mostly in stocks of the industrial class which had lately been bid up more excitedly than the rest. A few of those shares fell back somewhat violently, but with no great effect on the general market. In Wall Street the receding prices of the day were again described as natural under all the circumstances, and the movement certainly did not appear to cause misgiving. It may possibly mark the culmination of the aggressive midsummer "bull movement" of 1925, however; for sometimes the interruption of such an advance breaks the spell under which the stock market has been moving, and which may not operate again unless a definite new turn of some sort is visible in the actual situation.

The call money rate dropped back to 3½ per cent. and rates for loans on time did not change. In some degree, a pause in the stock market's advance must contribute to easier money; but there are other indications of a credit position which is not likely to cause disturbance. Yesterday's weekly return of the Reserve system reported the highest ratio of reserve since the third week of May, and the ratio at the New York bank was the highest since June of 1924. There was little evidence of new borrowing through rediscount; for the whole system the discounts on other than Government collateral were $22,000,000 less than at the beginning of the month and not much larger than a year ago. The equally interesting movement was in note circulation, the further decline in which brought the outstanding total $55,000,000 below July 1, to the lowest aggregate that has been reported at any time since May of 1918.

Continued increase of gold reserve was shown in the weekly Bank of England statement. The £1,024,000 added during the past week, practically all in gold drawn from Holland, brings the total holdings £35,524,000 above those of April 23, just before the resumption of gold payments. After allowing for the £27,000,000 gold transferred at that time from the currency note reserve to the Bank of England, the comparison shows that in the thirteen subsequent weeks the bank has gained through import of foreign gold £8,524,000 more than it has lost through export. This amount may not seem particularly large, as such things go; in American values it is $41,480,000, and the Bank of Germany's addition to its reserve, since its purchase of gold began in May a year ago, has been $187,000,000. But it must be remembered, first, that such skepticism existed last Spring as to whether the London bank might not for a season lose gold rather than gain on balance, and, second, that the Spring and Summer was not a usual season for large increase in the bank's gold reserve, even before the war.

It will presently be a question of particular interest whether the bank will begin to lose its newly accumulated gold, as the season arrives when England makes heavy payments for imported foreign produce. In the year before the war the bank's gold holdings reached their maximum on Aug. 20; a progressive decrease had reduced them £6,100,000 before Oct. 15. In 1912 the maximum was reached on Sept. 11, after which occurred outflow of £4,600,000 before the middle of October and £7,300,000 more by the end of December. On all such pre-war occasions the loss of gold was foreshadowed by a sharp fall in sterling to the gold export point, and it was apt to be New York which took the gold. The early Autumn months this year, therefore, are likely to write the second chapter in the British resumption of gold payments.

MONEY.

THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1925.

Stock Exchange call money eased for the first time this week under the continued flood of funds to the lending table, but for which there was little or no demand. Starting at 4 per cent., rate broke to 3¾ in late afternoon, while 3½ was reported done in the outside market. The particular feature of the time money market was the keen bidding for six months' accommodation, and quite a round sum was loaned at 4½ per cent. Inquiry for the shorter dates was slight, business in these running to a small amount. Commercial paper and acceptances remained quiet and unchanged in discount.

Intensive Development

The electric light and power industry may be stated to be still in its infancy from the standpoint of intensive development.

There are, unquestionably, great potential markets for electrical energy in territories already-served, and we believe that through the more intensive development of such territories, earnings available for bond interest, reserves, retirements and dividends of strongly entrenched companies may be expected to show substantial increases.

We should be pleased to bring to your attention preferred stocks and established dividend-paying common stocks of electric light and power companies under our executive management.

KRESGE TO PROCEED IN CHAIN STORE PLAN

His Withdrawal From Stern Bros. Not to Alter Project, Wall Street Hears.

OWNS TWO BIG STORES NOW

Newark and Washington Holdings Believed to Be Part of National Merchandising Scheme.

The brief announcement issued on Wednesday by Samuel Mundheim, President of Stern Brothers, that S. S. Kresge, prominent as an operator of a chain of five and ten cent stores, was no longer a director or stockholder of the local department store and was not connected with it in any way, was the cause of considerable conjecture in the financial district yesterday as to the reasons leading to Mr. Kresge's severing his relations with the organization. In the absence of official details all sorts of rumors were circulated, most of which related to the development of friction due to Mr. Kresge's inability to acquire control of the store for inclusion in his Kresge Department Stores Corporation, which already controls two out-of-town stores and is contemplating the acquisition of additional establishments in an effort to form a chain of department stores in the principal cities of the country.

The only official information obtainable yesterday was that Mr. Mundheim, Ralph Jonas of Jonas & Neuburger and their associates had acquired all of the Stern Brothers stock formerly held by Mr. Kresge. The price paid and the number of shares involved was not divulged, but it was learned officially that Mr. Kresge did not control 100,000 shares of Stern's stock, as reported earlier in the year, when it was intimated that he was angling for control of the local establishment.

So far as could be learned yesterday, however, the severing of relations with Stern Brothers by Mr. Kresge will in no way interfere with his plans to acquire additional stores for the Kresge Department Stores Corporation.

The recent proposal of the Kresge Corporation to increase its common stock from 200,000 to 700,000 shares gave weight to these reports.

The corporation at present controls the L. S. Plaut & Co. property in Newark and the Palais Royal in Washington. The organization also is understood to have a large interest in The Fair in Chicago.

DENY AIM AT MONOPOLY OF PHONES IN BELGIUM

Representatives of the International Western Electric Company and the Siemens-Halske interests of Germany denied yesterday the statement made by Senator Fraiture of Belgium in the Brussels Parliament Wednesday that these American and German manufacturers were trying to get control of the Belgian telephone industry.

It was pointed out that there was no agreement between Western Electric and Siemens-Halske other than that existing for years, which provides for an exchange of patents and experience. Senator Fraiture warned his country against a monopoly in connection with the construction of a telephone cable between Lapanne on the North Sea and Herbesthal, near the German-Belgian border, the work to begin in January.

Dr. K. G. Frank, representative here of the Siemens electrical interests, said it was ridiculous to say that a monopoly of the Belgian telephone system was planned or even intended.

"The Siemens-Halske people have no agreement with Western Electric, so far as I know, with regard to telephone cable construction in Belgium; in fact, I fail to see how there could be such an agreement legally."

At the offices of the International Western Electric Company it was said that the company had a Belgian subsidiary, known as the Bell Telephone Manufacturing Company, located at Charleroi, but the marketing of electrical and telephone apparatus in Belgium, as in other countries, was on a royalty basis made possible through patent and experience agreements. No agreement covering the construction of the proposed cable has been made, it was said.

NEW KRAFT CHEESE STOCK.

Holders May Subscribe to $80 Shares Until Aug. 31.

The Kraft Cheese Company is offering to stockholders of record Aug. 12 the right until Aug. 31 to subscribe to new capital stock at $80 a share to the extent of 30 per cent of their holdings, it was announced yesterday. The offering has been underwritten by Chicago bankers.

Proceeds of the stock sale will be used to retire $2,000,000 of debentures at 104½ and interest, and $250,000 of 8 per cent preferred stock at 110 and accrued dividends. When the new stock is issued the company will have about 320,000 shares of capital stock outstanding and no funded debt.

INSURANCE STOCK OFFERED.

Harmonica Company Securities Put Before Public for First Time.

The stock of the Harmonica Fire Insurance Company of the home group of insurance firms has been made available for public investment for the first time in its history. Others in the home group are the Franklin Fire Insurance Company, the City of New York Insurance Company and the Carolina Insurance Company.

An analysis of the Harmonica firm made by J. K. Rice Jr. & Co. shows that its earnings in 1924 were equivalent to $2.44 per share on the outstanding 20,000 shares of par value $10 stock.

RAILROAD SYSTEM HAS GAIN

The Pennsylvania Railroad System reports gross revenues of $60,008,050 for June, an increase of $3,622,070 over June of last year. Net railway operating income of $9,041,283 was $2,479,530 greater than the corresponding month of 1924.

The report for the first half-year indicates total operating revenues of $342,968,635, an increase of $3,066,234. Operating expenses of $279,597,850, however, also indicated an increase of $4,133,246, leaving a total net railway operating income for the period of $39,309,172, which exceeds the first half of 1924 by $44,786.

ACQUIRES DOCK COMPANY.

Gregori Benenson Buys Iselin and Roosevelt Shares.

The resignations of Adrian Iselin and George E. Roosevelt as directors of the New York Dock Company were announced yesterday, to take effect at once. This marks the completion of changes in the board resulting from the purchase of large holdings in the company by Gregori Benenson, international capitalist and owner of the office building at 165 Broadway.

Mr. Benenson and his associates recently bought the stock in the dock company held by the Mutual Life Insurance Company, and now has taken over the holdings of A. Iselin & Co. and Roosevelt & Son. It is understood that Mr. Benenson owns 50 per cent. of the outstanding $10,000,000 preferred stock, which carries equal voting rights with the common. The Mutual's holdings amounted to 15,000 shares and the Iselin and Roosevelt holdings combined to 35,000 shares.

Mr. Benenson and Frank C. Lowe were elected directors of the company yesterday and Mr. Benenson was elected a member of the Executive Committee. An extensive development program is expected to be announced soon.

AMERICAN METAL GAINS.

Company's Profits Show Increase for the June Quarter.

The American Metal Company reports net profit of $1,078,300 for the June quarter, equivalent after allowing for 5 per cent. dividend requirements, to $1.67 a share on 593,015 shares of no par common stock. This compares with $755,326 or $1.12 a share in the previous quarter and $935,849, or $1.43 a share on 590,790 common shares in the corresponding quarter of 1924.

Net profit for the first six months totaled $1,833,626, equal to $2.79 a share on the common after preferred dividends had been deducted, and comparing with $1,835,322, or $2.80 a share in the first half of 1924.

Cleveland Auto Co. Reports.

The Cleveland Automobile Company reported yesterday net profits of $1,031,337 for the six months ended June 30, equivalent after dividends on the preferred stock to $3.51 a share on 280,000 shares of common. Gross profits were $1,911,578.

GAIN OF £1,024,000 GOLD BY BANK OF ENGLAND

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds:

Gold coin and bullion	Increased	£1,024,000
Reserve in banking dept., gold and notes	Decreased	336,000
Notes in circulation	Increased	1,859,000

Loans on other securities	Decreased	538,000
Public deposits	Increased	5,116,000
Other deposits	Decreased	7,427,000

Proportion of the Bank's reserve to deposit liabilities this week is 31.67 per cent.; last week it was 31.36. This week's percentage is the highest reached this year to date, and is also the highest since June 21, 1916. The lowest thus far in 1925 has been 11.48, on Jan. 2. The lowest during or since the war was 7.20, on Dec. 30, 1920.

The statement compares as follows with the corresponding week one and two years ago:

Ratio of reserve	31.67	18.60	17.50

Present gold holdings of the Bank of England are the largest in the history of the institution. Before the war the largest amount ever held was £43,634,723, on Jan. 28, 1914. Smallest during the war was £50,281,182, on Dec. 15, 1915; largest, £74,585,063, in armistice week of 1918.

The Bank of England's official discount rate remains unchanged at 5 per cent., to which it was raised from 4 per cent. on March 5, 1925. At this date last year the rate stood at 4 per cent., at 4 per cent. in 1923, at 3 per cent. in 1922, at 5½ per cent. in 1921, at 7 per cent. in 1920, at 5 per cent. in 1919, at 5 per cent. in 1918, at 5 per cent. in 1917, at 6 per cent. in 1916, at 5 per cent. in 1915, and at 3 per cent. in 1914.

LOANS AND NOTE ISSUE RISE AT FRENCH BANK

Gold in hand	increased	82,000
Silver in hand	increased	172,000
Notes in circulation	increased	275,142,000
Treasury deposits	increased	7,385,000
General deposits	increased	181,944,000
Bills discounted	increased	594,132,000
Advances	decreased	80,662,000

The State repaid the bank 100,000,000 francs. Advances to the State now stand at 27,300,000,000 francs, against 23,300,000,000 a year ago and 23,700,000,000 two years ago. Under the vote of the French Parliament on June 27 the legal limit on such advances is now 32,000,000,000 francs, against a previous 26,000,000,000 voted on April 15. The advances outstanding on July 16, amounting to 27,850,000,000 francs, were the largest ever reached, the former high point being 27,000,000,000 francs, in 1921; smallest during the last three years, 21,200,000,000, in March, 1922.

The principal items in the statement compare as follows with the same date one and two years ago, in thousands of francs:

	Gold.	Circulation.	Dis., &c.
1923	5,537,881	37,339,190	5,142,811

Under the vote of June 27 the legal limit on note circulation is now 51,000,000,000 francs, against a former 45,000,000,000 francs limit fixed on April 15. The note circulation of July 16, which was 44,433,405,000 francs, was the highest ever reached by the Bank of France. The lowest point reached by the bank's circulation in the concerted reduction of 1921-22 was 35,281,790,000 francs, to which it was reduced from 39,645,896,000, on Nov. 4, 1920, the highest figure ever reached until March of 1924.

The French bank's official discount rate remains unchanged at 6 per cent., to which it was reduced from 7 per cent. on July 2. It had been at 7 per cent. since Dec. 11, 1924, to which level it had been raised.

SUN OIL COMPANY REPORT.

Net Profit of $2,529,001 for Six Months Ended June 30.

The Sun Oil Company made its first statement of earnings yesterday since the sale of 158,000 shares of its capital stock. The statement shows that net earnings for the six months ended June 30, after depreciation, depletion and Federal taxes, were $2,529,001, equal to $2.39 a share on the 1,057,159 shares of no par common stock. This was at the annual rate of $4.78 a share, and the net figure compared with $2,106,625 for all of 1924.

Average annual net earnings for the ten years ended Dec. 31, 1924, were $3,327,761, or $3.14 a share earned yearly on the basis of the company's present capitalization.

Information regarding this issue and the business of the Company is given in a letter from Mr. Joseph Samuels, President of the present Company, copies of which may be obtained from the undersigned and which he has summarized as follows:

History and Growth

"The business was founded by my brother and myself in 1894 with a cash capital of less than $1000, and, without the introduction of any new money into the business except such as has accrued from actual earnings, it has expanded until today, occupying an entire city block, it is the largest department store in the State of Rhode Island and one of the largest in New England. In addition to the accumulation of capital in the business, substantial profits have been distributed to the owners.

The development of the City of Providence has centered largely around our location which has become one of the most important retail sections in the City. Nearly fourteen acres of floor space are occupied by the various departments of the business, the buildings being modern and most of them of recent construction. With the exception of two plots held on long leases, the land occupied is owned in fee by an affiliated company, all of the stock of which is to be acquired by the new Company. In my opinion, the real estate so owned is presently worth a considerable sum in excess of the amount at which it is carried on the balance sheet referred to below.

Earnings and Assets

Earnings have shown a steady and substantial growth, and since the inception of the business, we have never had a losing year. Economy of operation and rapid turnover of merchandise are factors which contribute largely to these results, and we have been able, even in years of greatest depression, to operate our business at a substantial profit.

The net profits of the present Company, together with those of its affiliated company from real estate used in connection with the business, after deducting Federal income taxes at present rates, and after adequate provision for depreciation and bad debts, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, have been as follows, for the years ending January 31, 1925:

1922	689,919.58	2.8	4.14
1923	719,887.72	2.9	4.44
5-Yr. Average	847,730.14	3.4	5.72
2-Yr. Average	972,942.13	3.9	6.97

The consolidated balance sheet of the new Company, as of January 31, 1925, as certified by Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, giving effect to the proposed reincorporation and acquisition of the stock of the affiliated Company and the introduction of cash in lieu of certain properties not used in connection with the business shows net assets of $7,002,020.58 applicable to the $3,500,000 Preferred Stock, or about $200 for each share of such Preferred Stock. Net current assets are equivalent to about $84 for each share of such Preferred Stock.

Management and Prospects

Since its inception, the management of the store has been in the hands of my brother and myself, and we will continue in active control. Almost all of the important executives in the store have grown up with the business and reflect the spirit of the founders.

The prospects of the business have never been brighter than they are today. Our most recent important building activity was completed early in 1924, increasing the floor area of the store about 45%. With many departments rearranged and expanded at a comparatively recent date and ample room for future development, the store is now in a better position than ever to serve its patrons. This is reflected in the business of the first five months of this fiscal year, which shows an increase of about 6.2% over the corresponding period of last year."

$100 Per Share and Accrued Dividend

In connection with this issue we are also offering for subscription 35,000 shares of Common Stock at $36 per share.

This offering is made in all respects, when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of Messrs. Sullivan & Cromwell and Messrs. Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy, of New York, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Feiner, Maass & Skutch, of New York, for the Company. We reserve the right to reject any and all subscriptions in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount applied for, and to close the subscription books at any time without notice.

It is expected that delivery of temporary stock certificates or interim receipts (exchangeable for definitive stock certificates when prepared) will be made on or about August 18, 1925, at the office of LEHMAN BROTHERS, 16 WILLIAM STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y., against payment therefor in New York funds.

EQUITABLE TRUST CO. SELLS ITS BUILDING

HAS $700,000 RENTAL VALUE

Broadway-John St. Corporation, New Owners, Big Buyers of Downtown Realty.

The twenty-five-story building of the Equitable Trust Company of New York at 37 Wall Street was sold yesterday to the Broadway-John Street Corporation, of which Elias A. Cohen is President. The property was held at $4,500,000 and was to have brought close to that figure.

The property was sold for all cash and the transaction was one of the largest deals involving a skyscraper in the financial district in recent years. The Equitable Trust Company will remain in the building on lease until May 1, 1928, when its new building at 15 Broad Street will be ready for occupancy.

Included in the sale are the bank fixtures on the main floor and the safe deposit vaults. The plot contains more than 8,000 square feet, having a frontage of about sixty-one feet on Wall Street and a depth of 117 feet, with a rear line of eighty-one feet. The banking floor is thirty-three feet high. The trust company fell heir to the building, which is one of the best-known in the financial district, in 1912 when the Equitable merged with the Trust Company of America.

The building has a rental value of $700,000 a year and was sold through the Cruikshank Company, real estate brokers of 141 Broadway. Murray, Aldrich & Roberts, attorneys, represented the sellers and Adolph and Henry Bloch and Alfred J. Wolff acted for the purchasers.

In addition to the Equitable Trust Company, some of the tenants in the building are the Corporation Trust Company of America; J. and G. White & Co., bankers; Callaway Fish & Co.; Hemphill, Noyes & Co.; Battle, Vandiver, Levy & Van Tine; Everett Clarke & Benedict; Jerome, Range & Kresel and Murray, Aldrich & Roberts. The building was erected by the Trust Company of America in 1908 and was the very last word in office building construction, all the trimmings being of bronze and marble.

The Broadway-John Street Corporation, new owner of the building, has been a heavy investor in real estate in the downtown section, where it has recently purchased many large office buildings.

Plans were recently completed for the Equitable Trust Company's new thirty-four story bank building on the site of the Mills Building, Wall Street's first skyscraper. The new structure will have a wing extending through to Wall Street next to the Morgan Building. The plans were prepared by Trowbridge & Livingston, architects, who estimated the cost at $12,000,000.

A leasehold on the Mills Building held by J. P. Morgan & Co. was acquired by Arthur W. Loasby, President of the Equitable Trust. It runs eighty-four years from 1920, it is said, with the expiration in 2004. J. P. Morgan & Co. have leased on a long-term contract a substantial area in the Wall Street wing of the new building. Work on the structure will not be started until next Spring.

Now ranked as the fifth largest bank in New York City, the Equitable Trust Company opened for business a little more than fifty years ago with a paid-in capital of $16,000 and an authorized capital of $50,000. To-day it has a capital of $23,000,000, surplus and undivided profits of more than $11,000,000 and deposits, including those in foreign branches, of more than $407,000,000. The first home of the institution was at 120 Broadway, the present site of the forty-story Equitable Building.

PARIS, July 30.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 40 centimes lower at 51 francs. 5 per cent war loan 25 centimes lower at 59 francs 75 centimes.

Exchange on London 33 centimes lower at 102 francs 22 centimes. The American dollar was quoted at 21 francs 3 centimes, against 21 francs 15 centimes yesterday.

GASOLINE LOWER IN WEST.

Competition Leads Big Companies to Drop Prices One Cent.

Reductions of 1 cent a gallon in the retail price of gasoline were announced in some sections of the West yesterday. These reductions were made, according to advices received in the local trade, because of local competition on the part of the smaller companies which appear anxious to liquidate their holdings. From Chicago it was reported that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana had reduced gasoline 1 cent a gallon in some sections of South Dakota, while the Gulf Refining Company announced a similar reduction in Fort Worth.

Consumption of gasoline continues on an enormous scale. According to figures received in Wall Street yesterday Oklahoma used 17,503,242 gallons last month, an increase of approximately 50 per cent., compared with June consumption of 12,000,000 gallons last year.

Vulcan Detinning, Hazeltine and American Metal to Make Payments.

Directors of the Vulcan Detinning Company yesterday declared an extra dividend of one per cent on the preferred stock to be credited to back dividends due on this issue. In addition they declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. Both dividends are payable Oct. 20 to stockholders of record Oct. 9.

The Hazeltine Corporation yesterday declared a dividend of 25 cents a share on the capital stock, payable Aug. 24 to stockholders of record Aug. 4.

The American Metal Company, Ltd., declared the regular quarterly dividends of 75 cents a share on the common stock and $1.75 a share on the preferred. The preferred dividend is payable Sept. 1 to stockholders of record Aug. 21 and the common dividend is payable Sept. 1 to stockholders of record Aug. 20.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 30.—Announcement was made this afternoon at the Indianapolis offices of the One-Piece Bifocal Lens Company of delivery of agreements in New York for consolidation of that corporation with the New Jersey Optical Company of Newark, the Simpson-Walther Lens Company, Inc., of Rochester and the C. G. Aldrich Company of Boston in a new corporation to be known as the Continental Optical Corporation.

Long Bell Lumber Earnings.

The Long Bell Lumber Corporation reported yesterday for itself and subsidiaries a gross income of $5,984,857 for the first half year to July, before deducting depletion, depreciation, interest and income tax. The deductions were $3,384,758, leaving let income of $2,600,-008.

$25,000,000 LOAN TO FLORIDA RAILWAY

Dillon, Read & Co. Head Syndicate Offering 6 Per Cent. Bonds on Construction.

$4,000,000 UTILITY ISSUE

Dillon, Read & Co. head a syndicate which is offering today $25,000,000 Seaboard All-Florida Railway first mortgage 6 per cent. gold bonds. This is one of the largest railroad issues to be placed on the market this year, and is the second piece of financing to be done for the account of the Seaboard Air Line in connection with its Florida development.

Associated with Dillon, Read & Co. in the bond offering are Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co. and Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co. The bonds are priced at 98½, to yield about 6.20 per cent. Proceeds of the issue will be used to redeem the entire outstanding $7,000,000 Florida Western & Northern Railroad Company first mortgage sinking fund 7s and $525,000 East & West Coast Railway first mortgage 6s. The balance of the proceeds will be used to reimburse the Seaboard for expenditures in construction work and to finance further extensions. The Seaboard has already connected the East and West Coasts of Florida by opening a main line from Tampa to Palm Beach. It will now make extensions to Miami and other points on the East Coast and will also build to Fort Myers and beyond on the West Coast.

Other bond offerings for today include good-sized public utility and municipal issues and one loan to a Central American city. Stone & Webster, Inc., are offering a new issue of $4,000,000 Eastern Texas Electric Company three-year 5 per cent. gold notes at 98¾ and interest, to yield 5.45 per cent. The proceeds will provide part of the funds needed for extensive construction in Texas and Louisiana. Gross earnings of the company for the year ended June 30 were about $2,500,000, and net earnings were $817,151, equivalent to more than twice the annual interest charges on all outstanding bonds and the new issue.

Remick, Hodges & Co. and Phelps, Fenn & Co. are distributing a new issue of $775,000 City of St. Paul, Minn., 4 and 4½ per cent. bonds which are due serially in from one to thirty years. The 4s are priced at 96¾ and interest and the 4½s are priced to yield from 4 to 4.10 per cent.

The Central Trust Company of Illinois is offering $500,000 City of Barranquilla, Republic of Colombia, external 8 per cent. secured sinking fund gold bonds, Series A, at 99 and interest, to yield 8.15 per cent. Schluter & Co., Inc., are the distributers in New York. This is the initial release of an authorized issue amounting to $4,000,000.

Fairservis & Co. is marketing $180,000 County of Albany, N. Y., registered 4½ per cent. highway bonds, maturing 1926 to 1940, at prices yielding 3.95 to 4 per cent.

Bethlehem Steel to Redeem Bonds.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has announced its intention to redeem up to the date of maturity, $6,330,000 first extension mortgage gold 5s, due Jan. 1, 1926. The corporation is also prepared to redeem $3,931,000 Pennsylvania & Maryland Steel consolidated joint mortgage thirty-year gold 6s, due Sept. 1, 1925. With the redemption of these two issues, aggregating $10,261,000, Bethlehem will clean up all maturities to Jan. 1, 1926. The only bond issue of the company maturing next year is $1,766,500 Lackawanna Iron & Steel first mortgage gold 5s, due Feb. 1 next.

BANK TO CLEAR UP LOAN.

Mercantile Will Make Final Payment on $35,000,000 Advanced.

Members of the banking syndicate which advanced $35,000,000 to help the Mercantile Bank of the Americas out of difficulties arising from frozen credits in 1921 will soon receive checks for the final dividend in payment of these advances. The syndicate will be repaid 100 cents on the dollar and the shareholding banks and banking firms will bear whatever loss is involved.

The Mercantile Bank of the Americas was organized in 1915 by a group of New York banks interested in financing foreign trade. In 1921 the shareholders found it necessary to advance $20,000,000 more cash, which with the capital of $6,800,000 apparently was written off. In August, 1921, the reorganization plans were announced under which the assets were turned over to a committee and gradually liquidated. J. P. Morgan & Co. participated in the reorganization of the bank's affairs.

INSULL PROPERTIES GROW.

Middle West Utilities Co. Buys Southwestern Gas and Electric.

The Middle West Utilities Company, controlled by Samuel Insull and associates, has acquired from Rufus G. Dawes of Chicago and his associates the properties controlled by the Southwestern Gas and Electric Company. It was announced yesterday. The transaction involves assets of the Southwestern company amounting to $15,804,000 and capitalization consisting of $9,091,400 in bonded debt, $1,804,300 in 8 per cent. cumulative preferred stock and $3,050,000 common stock.

The Southwestern company through subsidiaries controls the entire gas and electric lighting business of Shreveport, La., and surrounding territory and of Texarkana, Texas. In addition it operates a street railway system in Texarkana. Its gross earnings last year were $3,868,994 and net earnings $1,079,-920.

ALLIS-CHALMERS REPORTS.

Quarter's Profits Slightly Lower, but Half-Year Showed Gain.

The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company shows net profit of $830,022 after Federal taxes for the quarter ended June 30. This is equivalent after 7 per cent. dividend requirements to $2.16 a share on $25,770,750 common stock and compares with $847,053 or $2.17 a share in the preceding quarter and $766,-423 or $1.81 a share in the corresponding quarter of 1924.

Net profit for the six months ended June 30 was $1,677,075 after Federal taxes, equivalent to $4.27 a share on the common stock and comparing with $1,587,603 or $3.91 a share in the first half of 1924. Unfilled orders on hand June 30 totaled $9,668,730 comparing with $10,100,000 on Dec. 31, 1924.

DENIES UTILITY STOCK SPLIT

Reports current in the financial district yesterday that the Southeastern Power and Light Company directors were contemplating a split-up of the common stock in connection with the possible retirement of the 5 per cent. mortgage gold bonds due in 1962 of the subsidiary, Alabama Traction, Light and Power Company, could not be confirmed at the offices of the Southeastern Company here. A director said he did not believe such a step was being considered.

There are 340,000 shares of the common stock of the parent organization outstanding, and they have been moving up sharply recently in the trading, partly on rumored merger developments that also have failed of confirmation, partly on the earnings progress of the company, and because of the rumor of a split-up. The bonds of the Alabama Traction, Light and Power Company, which would be retired in favor of an issue bearing the name of the parent company, are outstanding in the amount of $13,668,900.

UNION OF 8 UTILITIES SEEN.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 30.—Reports received in financial circles from towns in Central Shenandoah Valley, Va., show that a group of New York bankers, whose names have not been disclosed, are effecting a merger of eight hydroelectric power companies in the valley, thus consolidating more than one hundred miles of lines in four counties of Virginia. The merger will be completed within six weeks or as soon as the stock transfers are made to the New York interests, it is said.

Weyers Cave Light and Power Company, the Valley Light and Power Company and the F. A. Shank & Co. Several uncompleted plants are also included. It is reported the syndicate plans to take over the uncompleted plant on the Shenandoah River at Ingram, Page County, which was started ten years ago by the Valley Power Company, composed of New York capitalists, and was halted after more than $100,000 had been expended.

It is estimated that double this amount will be required to complete the project. If all reported plans are carried out the investment in the mid-valley utilities will be more than a million dollars. Only four independent hydro plants will remain in that section after the merger.

Orders Cut in Boston Light Rate.

The Department of Public Utilities of Massachusetts, according to advices from Boston yesterday, has directed the Boston Edison Company to reduce its so-called "A" rate for lighting households and small offices, to 8½ cents a kilowatt hour, effective Sept. 1. The present rate is 9½ cents.

American Sugar Raises Price.

The American Sugar Refining Company yesterday announced an advance of five points in the price of refined granulated sugar to 5.40 cents a pound. Other local refiners also advanced their prices.

MID-CONTINENT EARNS $7,346,734 NET INCOME

The Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation and subsidiaries earned net income in the six months to July equal to $5.24 a share on the 1,375,415 shares of common stock after preferred dividends. In the same period of last year net income amounted to $3.07 a share.

The consolidated balance sheet shows current assets of $10,500,449, and current liabilities of $2,435,071, leaving working capital of $17,065,378. This compares with current assets on Dec. 31, 1924, of $14,168,542, and current liabilities then of $2,691,201 and net working capital of $11,473,341. In addition to this increase in working capital of $5,590,037 since Dec. 31, the corporation has retired through the operation of its sinking funds $290,000 of first mortgage bonds and $140,000 of preferred stock.

THE ANGLO-SOUTH AMERICAN TRUST COMPANY, TRUSTEE

Property and Location

The property known as the Sound View Garden Apartments is located in the town of Mamaroneck, N. Y., which is one of the most charming and progressive towns in lower Westchester County. The building will be centered in a large corner plot facing 220 feet on Livingston Avenue—145 feet on Fenimore Road and 241 feet on the west party line. It will contain 306 rooms divided principally into two, three and four-room suites. There will also be a large garage for the exclusive accommodation of the tenants.

Security

The loan is secured by a closed first mortgage upon the above described land and buildings owned in fee. The bonds are also a first lien on the net earnings. The property has been independently appraised by two well known experts as follows:

	Land	Buildings	Total

Earnings

The net annual income from the entire property after deducting all operating and maintenance expenses and making liberal allowances for vacancies, is estimated to be $90,000 per annum, or more than 2½ times the greatest annual interest charges on the bond issue.

UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE

Privilege of Guarantee

At the option of the investor these bonds can be purchased unconditionally guaranteed by the Metropolitan Casualty Insurance Co. of New York for their entire life—or for any part thereof. At the present offering price, all such bonds will yield 6% per annum while guaranteed.

COTTON PRICE HAS A FURTHER DECLINE

RAINS OVER A LARGE AREA

Oklahoma and Northern Texas Get Best Drenching in Weeks—South and Central Texas Still Dry.

The heaviest rainfall in two months throughout Oklahoma and northern Texas and the definite breaking of the drought over a large region weakened the cotton market yesterday. Prices lost half a cent under the most general liquidation witnessed since the recent rise in prices started some weeks ago and final quotations showed a loss of 50 to 59 points. Instead of attracting new buying, factors served to increase selling pressure and prices moved steadily lower from the opening. An unsettled stock market and unfavorable cable advices from England added to the effects of crop news.

Official details showed rains of an inch to over three inches at stations in northeastern and northwestern Texas. Rains occurred at all but two stations for the third successive day, with several stations reporting one to over two inches. The dry section of northern Louisiana received from one to two and a half inches. In the balance of the belt weather continued favorable for rapid maturity of the plant, making surroundings the most satisfactory in some weeks. There was no improvement, however, in the drought-stricken region of central and southern Texas, where much of the plant is reported beyond recovery.

Though cotton changed hands on the call at generally unchanged quotations, private reports of heavy rains in Western regions soon influenced prices. On all three exchanges the supply of contracts increased materially and a slowly declining movement got under way which increased as the session advanced. Cotton appeared from Southern, commission house and local quarters on a scale that disclosed stop-loss order as the downward movement brought new low figures. Instead of attracting support on recessions, selling orders were received for execution and it was not until a loss of over half a cent had carried October below 24½ cents that sufficient covering demand developed to steady the market. Though October continued within a few points of December, the demand for that month failed to affect the course of the general market. When the Weather Bureau issued predictions for generally unsettled weather and showers throughout the entire Western cotton region, the market weakened a quarter of a cent to a basis of 24½ cents for near months, or over a cent from recent high levels.

A rally of 15 points during the early afternoon failed to stimulate activity and reports from England that the outlook for a settlement of the coal strike was not hopeful caused a resumption of selling the last hour. Prices broke to lowest levels of the day and closed at the bottom.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.
Oct.	25.00	25.02	24.40	24.40-42	24.90
Dec.	25.60	25.65	24.85	24.85-88	25.02
March	24.73	24.75	24.21	24.22-23	24.75

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.
Exports, season	5,229,141	8,171,380
New York stocks	76,933	103,072
Port stocks	241,002	272,046

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton dull, 6 points decline to 13.87d for middling. Sales 3,000, American 2,000. Imports 2,000, American none. Futures opened quiet, 6 to 14 points decline. Closed easy, 17 to 20 points decline. Prices: July 13.53d, Oct. 13.03d, Dec. 12.96d, Jan. 12.96d, March 12.96d.

Manchester: Yarns and cloths, more demand.

SAW PROGRESS IN EUROPE.

H. E. Otte, Chicago Banker, Returns From Nine Weeks' Tour.

Hugo E. Otte, President of the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago, who has just returned from a nine weeks' trip through most of the countries of Europe, declared that trade conditions in England were still depressed, with considerable unemployment, but that he believed conditions were gradually getting better.

"In France the fluctuations of the franc have created so much uncertainty that merchants have great difficulty in gauging the market as to purchases and sales," said Mr. Otte, "but the people have confidence in Finance Minister Caillaux and believe he will arrange a satisfactory budget, which will help them to a state of normalcy. In Germany all sides are showing willingness to accept the policies of the Government. Norway, Switzerland, Sweden and Holland are moving along in a steady and prosperous manner."

NEW BOAT FIRM FORMED.

Will Take Over Part of Submarine Corporation's Activities.

The Submarine Boat Corporation has organized a new company to take over its building operations. Holders of its 776,920 shares will each receive one share in the new corporation to be known as the Electric Boat Company. Application will be made to list the stock on the Curb Market and later on the New York Stock Exchange. The new shares will be delivered on Aug. 11 to stockholders of record Aug. 7.

The old company will continue to operate the Transmarine Line under the new name of the Transmarine Corporation.

MUNICIPAL SERVICE GAINS.

Corporation Has Net Profit of $315,068 for the Half-Year.

The Municipal Service Corporation reports for the half year ended June 30 sales of $2,681,086, representing a gross profit of $631,284. Other income was $97,602. Operating expenses were $413,818, leaving a profit of $238,083 available for dividends, equivalent to $1.19 a share on the common stock. This was about 20 per cent. beyond the full year's dividend requirements.

Bush Terminal Surplus Larger.

The Bush Terminal Corporation reports a surplus of $597,856 after deductions for the quarter ended June 30. This compares with $351,665 in the preceding quarter and $326,930 in the second quarter of 1924. Six months' surplus is reported as $749,521, against $663,283 before depreciation in the first half of 1924.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Heavy Selling of Sterling on Labor Crisis Brings Sharp Reaction —Continentals Heavy.

Renewed fears that the British coal miners would strike yesterday brought a repetition of the pressure which was exerted against the pound a week ago, the rate breaking 5/8 cent, to $4.84⅝. Weakness was most pronounced about midday, when cables indicated that the crisis could hardly be expected to be avoided, and in its wake there came a flood of offerings from abroad which unsettled the market and drove the rate down. There was a covering operation near the close which brought the bill back to $4.85⅛, but at this point the pound was 1/8 cent under Wednesday's final.

Transactions in the Continentals were small, brokers admitting the session to be one of relative quiet compared with the big trading and erratic fluctuations of recent days. Lack of interest accounted for a generally lower market, the French franc sagging a point to 4.74¼ cents, the Italian lira yielded 3¼ points to 3.66 cents, while Belgian, Spanish and Holland were irregular. Danish and Norwegian recovered on evidence of fresh accumulation, both rising 8 points, the former to 22.84 cents and the latter to 18.47 cents. Polish zloty was quiet, regaining 5/8 cent of its loss to 18.50 cents. South Americans and Far Easterns were dull and virtually unchanged.

AUSTRIAN MERGER PLANNED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 30.—A big electric power merger is being planned in Austria, backed by American, Italian and Swiss capital. At present there are five electric power companies in Austria, two of which are in the hands of promoters of the proposed combine. Michel May, a partner in I. P. Lisman & Co. of New York, is now on his way to Vienna to join A. O. Corbin, at which time, it is hoped, negotiations will be concluded.

J. F. Lisman & Co. have been active in Austrian financing and have floated a number of loans in the American market. It was impossible yesterday to have the new Austrian merger story confirmed at the New York offices of the Lisman firm.

OFFER OUTLET CO. SHARES.

Providence Department Store Markets $3,500,000 Preferred Issue.

Lehman Brothers and Bernhard, Schiffer & Co. will offer $3,500,000 of 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock of the Outlet Company, a large department store at Providence, R. I., today. The bankers are also offering 35,000 shares of the common stock at $36 a share. Application to list both the preferred and common stocks on the New York Stock Exchange is expected.

The consolidated balance sheet of the company as of Jan. 31, 1925, shows net assets of $7,002,020 applicable to the preferred stock. The amount applicable to the common stock after preferred dividends was equal to $8.21 a share.

METAL MARKET QUIET.

Copper Sales the Smallest in Months, Says Trade Review.

In its weekly review of the metal market, the Mining Journal-Press says:

"The non-ferrous metal markets have been exceedingly quiet in the week just ended, the demand for tin in the last two or three days being about the only sign of activity. The threatened coal strike in England has been responsible in part, though the recent heavy volume of sales would naturally have been followed by a period of dullness. In general, producers are well sold up and are in no mood to sacrifice metal at bargain prices.

"The tonnage of copper sold in the past week has been the smallest in months. On Thursday and Friday some business went through at 14⅜ cents a pound, but on Saturday and Monday resale lots appeared and were taken up at 14¼ cents a pound. Firmer London cables steadied the market and in the last two days producers again were able to obtain 14⅜ cents a pound. Export business has been light.

Kansas City Public Service Elects.

Officers of the new Kansas City Public Service Company, incorporated two months ago by the first mortgage bondholders' committee of the Kansas City Railway Company, have been elected as follows: William G. Woolfolk, Chicago, President; John V. McKinney, Kansas City, assistant to the President; Frank L. Conrad, Chicago, Vice President; Powell C. Groner, Chicago, Vice President and general counsel; John V. McKinney, Secretary, and Andrew F. Evans, Kansas City, Treasurer.

$2,100,000,000 LOANS NOW OUT TO BROKERS

Expansion of $250,000,000 This Month Duplicates Peak Reached in March.

Loans to brokers now total $2,100,000,000, it was calculated yesterday, duplicating the high point of this year established in March. There has been an expansion of approximately $250,000,000 in the last month, the total on June 23 standing at $1,850,000,000.

At the close of 1924 brokers' borrowings were about $1,700,000,000, so that the gain the first seven months of this year has been $400,000,000. The following figures, compiled by Dow, Jones & Co., show the totals at various periods this year:

Jan. 2, $1,700,000,000; March 6, $2,100,000,000; March 24, $1,800,000,000; April 3, $1,700,000,000; May 13, $1,750,000,000; June 23, $1,850,000,000, and July 30, $2,100,000,000.

While both Wall Street and industry have been absorbing credit, Federal Reserve figures do not indicate any appreciable loans being extended to member banks. Rediscounts in New York at present are about $120,000,000, whereas at the peak point in November, 1920, they stood at $989,339,000. Such borrowings in the entire system now stand at about $442,500,000, as against $2,826,825,000 at the high point in November, 1920.

Raises Price of Lead 10 Points.

The American Smelting and Refining Company has advanced its quotation of lead 10 points to 8.30 cents a pound.

TO VOTE ON $11,361,700 FOR TRANSIT PURPOSES

When the Board of Estimate holds its midsummer meeting today it is expected to take action on sixteen requisitions amounting to $11,361,700 submitted by the Board of Transportation for various rapid transit construction purposes.

Two of the principal proposals for adoption by the board are the requested appropriations amounting to $10,693,768 for construction contracts for two sections of the Washington Heights line of the city's new subway system. One of them is for $3,375,500 for the section along St. Nicholas Avenue from 152d to 141st Street and the other for $7,321,178 for the section along St. Nicholas Avenue and Broadway from 160th to 173d Street. Work on both sections will be begun as soon as the Board of Estimate grants the appropriation.

Other items for action by the board are $75,325 for the construction of the main repair shops of the Coney Island yards; $506,000 for the construction of the bulkhead wall for the Lenox Avenue yard at the Harlem River and 148th Street; $7,735 for completion of station finish on the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line at Sixth Avenue, Union Square, Third Avenue and First Avenue, Manhattan; $12,058 for making test borings along the upper Washington Heights subway route; $11,469 for nuts, bolts, spikes, &c., for existing structures, and $34,681 to meet a recently obtained judgment by the Patrick McGovern Company for claims growing out of the construction of a section of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern subway during the war.

The Board of Transportation also asks approval for two additional passenger elevators at the 191st Street station of the Broadway-Seventh Avenue line and approval of the form of contract for making alterations in the existing subway under Fourth Avenue, Manhattan, from Ninth to Twelfth Street and from Seventeenth to Thirty-second Street, necessitated by the proposed widening of the highway along that avenue.

JOHN W. DAVIS ON BOARD.

Named as Trustee of Mutual Life to Succeed Gen. Wilson.

John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in the 1924 election, has been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance Company to fill the vacancy caused by the death of General James H. Wilson of Wilmington, Del. Since the election Mr. Davis returned to a number of corporation posts which he held prior to the campaign and has also appeared as counsel in many important cases before the courts. He announced his return to his law firm on Nov. 13. On Jan. 13 he was elected a director of the National Bank of Commerce and on Feb. 17 he was made a director and general counsel for the United States Rubber Company.

General Wilson, who died on Feb. 23, was the last surviving corps commander of the Union Army in the Civil War and had also served in the Spanish, Philippine and Chinese Boxer campaigns.

AUTOMOTIVE SALES NORMAL

Show Usual Decline From Season's Peak, Says Journal.

Automotive Industries will say this week:

"Sales in nearly all automotive lines are showing the normal ratio of decline from the brisk business during the height of the season, but cars, trucks, tires and accessories are all being disposed of at a higher rate than at this time a year ago, a condition eminently satisfactory to the industry.

"Just now the centre of interest is held by new models and the price changes that accompany them. By Aug. 1 nearly all the changes will have been announced and the cars will be on sale, when an opportunity will be given for a better line on just how good late Summer and Fall business will be."

EARLY WHEAT GAIN LOST AT THE CLOSE

Upward Bound, on Talk of a Freeze in Canada, Fails to Continue to the Finish.

SUPPORT CHECKS THE DROP

Selling Sends Corn Down More Than 2 Cents and Oats and Rye Drop With It.

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP).—Fear of frost tonight in Canada led to a sudden upturn in wheat prices this afternoon, but a reaction ensued on account of enlarged selling to realize profits. Wheat closed irregular at 1c net lower to ⅛c advance—September being $1.50½@$1.50⅝ and December $1.51⅛@$1.52—with corn 1½@2c down and oats ⅝-¾@2c off.

The deferred deliveries averaged lower and finished with net losses of ¼@1c with the May leading. The break came with free selling of September and December credited to Eastern and local operators, but strong commission house buying appeared, and with reports of temperatures as low at 53 in the Canadian Northwest and fears of frost tonight, though the Canadian forecast is for warmer weather, shorts started to cover and found offerings light. A rally of around 2½c from the low point came at one time, but it failed to hold.

Harvesting is making rapid progress in the American Northwest and will be under way in Canada within a week to ten days. The movement of Winter wheat in the Southwest is falling off, and interior Kansas points are reported as buying in Nebraska.

Bids for Winters at the Gulf were out of line and few of the Kansas City houses are sending out bids for shipment of wheat in that direction. No. 1 and No. 2 hard here sold at ½@1 cent under July, the basis being ½ cent lower for the day, while No. 2 red was 1½@2 cents over the September. There were 100,000 bushels hard Winter sold to go to store.

In the face of the low temperatures Winnipeg declined 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents on the deferred futures. Liverpool was weak and 1½d lower in spite of the further wet weather on the Continent and the Seaboard reported the foreign demand as very slow.

Primary arrivals were 1,794,000 bushels; week ago, 1,782,000; last year, 2,679,000. Shipments were 901,000 bushels; week ago, 1,250,000; last year, 1,202,000.

Longs in July and September corn were on the selling side today and some stop loss orders were uncovered in the way flowed, while a heavy bull September became a good buyer of December. At the last net losses were 5@2½ cents, with July leading. Light showers were reported at many points in the main corn belt.

Primary arrivals today were 356,000 bushels; week ago, 430,000; last year, 627,000, and shipments, 465,000 bushels; week ago, 612,000; last year, 426,000.

Oats declined ⅝@1 cent with increased hedging pressure and rye was off 1⅛@⅝ cents in sympathy with wheat.

The Skelly Oil Company had net earnings of $1,578,209 in the June quarter, equivalent to $1.90 a share on the outstanding common stock. This compares with $506,032 in 1924 and with $750,134 in the first quarter of 1925. Net earnings for the six months totaled $2,328,344, compared with $1,499,945 last year.

BRITISH RUBBER FIRMS APPEAL TO PARLIAMENT

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 30.—The statement that unless the Stevenson rubber restriction scheme is modified a large number of smaller British rubber manufacturers will be compelled to go out of business in the next few months was made by a deputation from the Rubber Manufacturers' Association, which waited upon the industrial group members of Parliament today.

The deputation asked for a modification of the restrictions to the extent of at least 5 or 10 per cent.

The United States is taking 75 per cent. of the whole world's rubber output, and the supply in Great Britain has fallen so low as to come perilously near the danger mark.

It urged that there would be no dislocation of labor in Ceylon and the Malay States if the restrictions were removed to the extent suggested.

The industrial group promised to submit the request to the Colonial Secretary.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Minister of Great Britain, has informed Ambassador Houghton in London that he will give his careful consideration to the note presented by the Ambassador recently regarding the Stevenson rubber restriction plan. The Ambassador so reported to the State Department today.

The Silberian Prince and Kansas also are pushing for New York, the fleet having on board 6,500 tons of crude rubber valued at $14,000,000.

BUYING TACK FORCES RUBBER DOWN AGAIN

Spot Declines 7 Cents to 89 and Later Months Drop 1 to 3 Cents Per Pound.

The continued absence of manufacturers and dealers from the buying side of the crude rubber market yesterday accounted for a still lower level for spot and later months. The decline amounted to 7 cents in spot, to 89 cents, and from 1 to 3 cents per pound in forwards.

Brokers accepted the relative quiet wind-up of the July position as evidence that the "shorts" had evidently covered their contracts, and the failure of inquiry from this quarter to come at the month-end aided those who are expecting a further reaction. Another factor in the situation was the desire to avoid any commitments while additional tonnage after Aug. 1, was being mooted in official quarters in London. The London market was unusually quiet and steady, ruling at 44d., compared with 45d. on Wednesday.

Quotations for the principal grades, spot and later months, follow:

	Spot.	July.	Aug.	Sept.	Oct.-Dec.

RUBBER TRANSPORT ARRIVES.

Two More Vessels Racing Here to Make July Deliveries.

The British steamer Menelaus, one of the three special rubber transports which speeded for the United States to make the July delivery of that commodity, reported at the outer New York bar at 2:53 P. M. yesterday, The Associated Press announced. She has until midnight tonight to dock and thus make her carro available for important contracts.

The Silberian Prince and Kansas also are pushing for New York, the fleet having on board 6,500 tons of crude rubber valued at $14,000,000.

Lee Plants Working at Capacity.

Plants of the Lee Rubber and Tire Corporation are working at capacity and the company has orders for solid tires to keep that branch of the business at capacity operation to Oct. 1. Sales of solid tires in the second quarter increased more than 250 per cent. over the same period of 1924.

RESERVE BANK POSITION.

Comparison of the Week's Items With Those of Preceding Periods.

Yesterday's statement for the twelve Reserve Banks combined showed outstanding note circulation to be at the lowest figure for the year to date, and also at the lowest since May 24, 1918. No other items in the statement's return reached the highest or lowest of the year. Ratio of reserves at the New York bank, however, went to the highest percentage of 1925 to date.

The following table shows the highest and lowest points reached thus far in 1925, and in a series of years past, by the important items in the Reserve Bank statements. Figures are in thousands of dollars:

SLIGHT GAIN SHOWN IN RESERVE ASSETS

Discounts Gain Partly Offset by Acceptances and Federal Paper Losses.

NOTE CIRCULATION LOWER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The consolidated statement of condition of the Federal Reserve banks on July 29, made public by the Federal Reserve Board, shows an increase of $25,800,000 in holdings of discounted bills, partly offset by declines of $14,000,000 and $5,100,000, respectively, in holdings of acceptances purchased in open market and of United States Government securities.

Total earning assets went up $6,600,000 and cash reserves $1,800,000, while Federal Reserve note circulation declined $6,800,000.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reports an increase of $14,700,000 in holdings of discounted bills; Philadelphia, of $8,900,000; Cleveland, $6,700,000; San Francisco, $5,200,000, and Boston, $2,600,000.

The system's holdings of Treasury notes declined $5,500,000 and of Treasury certificates of indebtedness $100,000, while holdings of United States bonds went up $500,000.

The principal changes in Federal Reserve note circulation during the week comprise a decrease of $3,000,000 reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, of $2,900,000 by Chicago and of $2,300,000 by Boston and an increase of $2,800,000 reported by the New York bank.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

(Reported by United States Department of Agriculture, Jersey City, and Sixtieth Street, New York City.)

CATTLE.—No trading in steers, cows or bulls.

CALVES.—Supply about 460 head, compared with 244 actually on sale a week ago. Market active at fully steady prices, with Southerns especially commanding attention. Near-by stock 150 to 165 pounds brought $14, the day's top. Other lots similar weight, with plainer ends, $13 to $13.25. One hundred and sixty-five Kentuckys, averaging 167 pounds, good quality, $13, with others like kind doing the same. Some Southerns upward of 225 pounds, $10. Very plain weighty Southerns and a few light throwouts from near-by stock, $7 to $9.

HOGS.—Thirty-four hogs total receipts, against 60 last Thursday. No change in values. Cornfed, 180 to 194 pounds, New Yorkers, in good flesh, $14.65. Rough packer sows brought $12 to $12.50.

SHEEP.—About 2,920 head today, against 2,167 actual last week. Market steady, better stock slow at barely steady prices on lower grades. Two hundred and forty-two Kentucky lambs, weighing 72 pounds, represented best sales, $16.50. One lot Virginia origin, scaling 68 pounds, at $15.50 straight. Other lot, with plainer ends, $15 to $15.25. Best State lambs around $15.50. One deck of light, thin stock, $10.50, with 20 out around $8. Most throwouts $10.50 to $11.50. Sheep about steady, with closely graded ewes bringing $7.50, and small lots fairly good stock $7. Poorer quality, including culls, $2 to $6.50.

Livestock Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Hog prices were generally 5@10 cents higher in the early trading, with a top of $14.25. The close, however, was weak and 10 to 15 cents lower than early, with common and medium kinds leading. Lights were 15@25 cents higher. The average price for the day was $13.40 or 10 cents better than on Wednesday. The bulk of the choice 160-225 pound averages sold at $14@$14.25 with 250-300 pound butchers at $13.75@14.05. The bulk of packing sows brought $12.10@$12.50. Receipts were 15,000, of which shippers took 4,500. Estimated carryover is 20,000. Killing lambs were strong to 25 cents higher, with Westerns selling up to $15.50, while a load of fancy natives sold for shipment at $16. The bulk of the sales of natives was at $15.25@$15.50. Good sheep were scarce and unchanged; receipts were 3,000. Best corn-fed steers were strong to 25 cents higher while commoner kinds were slow at the recent decline. Primary heavy steers brought up to $15.25 and yearlings to $15.10; receipts were 8,000.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....4 per cent. for the best names
Wednesday .....4 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Youths' Half-Hose Sell Well.

The growing practice of parents to outfit their male offspring with long trousers at a comparatively early age has created a distinct market for what is known to the knit goods trade as youth's half hose. Wile they have not been offered very long, these hose are said by the special news letter of the National Association of Hosiery and Underwear Manufacturers to be doing very well. They are being made in sizes six to twelve, and a steady increase in the call for them is anticipated. The demand for them is understood to have originated in the South, from whence it spread to other parts of the country and to Canada.

Lightweight Underwear Not Active.

The business taken in this market to date on lightweight underwear for next Spring gives indication of confirming the opinion of several important trade factors in regard to the opening of the new lines—that it was done too soon. Except in the case of nainsooks, which have been rapidly taken up by jobbing buyers, early trading has been of an extremely conservative nature. Even the recent advance in cotton and the promise of a higher market for cotton yarns have not tempted buyers to operate to any large extent, and there is little chance of real activity developing before the wholesalers come here for their semi-annual meeting early next month.

Not Much Done in Gray Goods.

Not much was done in the local gray goods market yesterday, the further break in cotton having taken the edge off trading. In the printcloths some business was reported in spot 38½-inch 64-60s at 9¾ cents, and 10⅝ cents was said to be the best that could be done on 39-inch 68-72s for August. Also sold yesterday were spot 38½-inch 44-40s, which brought 6½ cents. Sales of sheetings included some 31-inch five-yard goods at 8⅜ cents and some 36-inch 5.00s for spot shipment at 7½ cents. A few lots of 37-inch 3.95-yard drills were disposed of at 10 cents. Fine yarn goods and specialties were without feature.

Suit Trends for Fall.

Continued interest is shown in the bracken and heathland shades in men's clothing for Fall. These colors, which are in remarkably strong favor in England, are Autumnal shades of brown, tinged with red and green. The leading clothiers here are featuring them in suits that stress wider shoulders, wider lapels and a slightly higher waistline. This is also in accordance with the English vogue. The latter, however, also includes trousers which are slightly pleated and which are marked by width at the hips, a high "rise" and a tapering line to the shoes. A double-breasted waistcoat is worn when the coat is single-breasted. When the coat is double-breasted, as is frequently the case, the vest is then single-breasted.

Fall Fabric Demand Is Quiet.

The demand for Fall coatings and dress goods continues in the same quiet state it has been in for several weeks. Some of the dress goods factors have abandoned the hope of getting any further business for the current season and are beginning to devote their attention to the Spring lines. Others have opened a portion of their lines for that season at lower prices, with delivery to be made in time for Fall use if the cutter-up so desires. In coatings the belief is that there is much business yet to be placed. When this will come through to the mills, however, depends on the progress made by the coat manufacturers in their sales to retailers.

Favor Light Colors in Topcoats.

While topcoat orders for Fall have been fairly liberal, the feeling is that there is a considerable amount of later delivery business yet to come. Most of the buying has been concentrated on the light colors, and it is believed that their popularity will continue through the Fall and into the Spring. In fact, mills really with their offerings of topcoat fabrics for next Spring again stress the light shades to a large extent. The influence of college men, who were the first to favor light-colored topcoats, has done much to create a broader market for topcoats generally. For a long time they ranked almost entirely in the general utility class.

Dress Buying Somewhat Spotty.

A rather spotty situation has developed so far in the buying of Fall dresses. Some manufacturers say they have done fairly well, while others are complaining of a lack of activity. Popular-priced silk models for early Fall are receiving a considerable degree of attention from buyers. The latter, however, find a tremendous variety of such merchandise to choose from, and there is much comparing of values. Some of the leading lines of higher priced dresses have been well received by buyers, but there is a tendency on their part to hold back until the Parisian openings of the next ten days are completed.

No Formal Dress Goods Openings.

There will probably be no formal openings of the so-called corporation lines of dress goods for the Spring, 1926, season. The reason given by makers of these fabrics is that advance buying is of such a nature that the formal announcing of prices for an entire season has little or no meaning. Instead, business will be booked as buyers want the goods, with prices named at that time. This course was also followed in connection with the Fall offerings of these cloths. It is held likely that formal openings will be entirely abandoned in the future unless buying conditions change notably.

Pearl Gray the Favored Shade.

Pearl gray will be the leading shade in men's Fall hats, it is predicted, with light brown next in popularity. New features will include a larger shape, with a round brim that will be more prominent than usual. An increased use of opera and silk hats for evening wear is also predicted, while the revival of velvet collars on overcoats is expected to make derbies more popular. Midsummer demand for light felt hats, manufacturers report, is getting stronger from year to year. Their increased use is attributed to the demand from large numbers of automobilists for hats of this type.

Offers New Rayon Garment.

A new combination garment of rayon, consisting of vest, step-in and shadow-proof princess slip, is now being offered to the trade here. The garment is made with one set of shoulder straps, has no gathering at the sides (which makes it fit smoothly over the hips) and comes in two size ranges. That from 14 to 20 retails at $5, while sizes 36 to 44 is sold over the counter at $5.50. In both cases the best quality rayon is used. The larger garments are made with detachable panels, and an extra panel is supplied with each.

Bread and Macaroni Higher in Rome

ROME, July 30 (AP).—The price of bread, macaroni and other cereal products has been increased about 10 per cent. here because of the recent imposition of an import duty of 5 cents a bushel on wheat.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Executives of various group-buying organizations and a committee of the Associated Dress Industries of America, headed by Executive Chairman David N. Mosessohn, will hold a joint conference during the week of Aug. 10. The meeting will deal with manufacturers' complaints regarding the present system of group buying.

The Seymour-Herrman Company, Inc., converters of silk and cotton dress goods and wash goods, will open for business today in their new quarters at 57 Leonard Street, where they occupy the store floor, basement and one upper floor.

Buyers of notions and toilet goods will meet at the Dry Goods Union, 432 Fourth Avenue, next Tuesday and Wednesday. Buyers of children's and juniors' dresses will hold a special meeting there on the same days.

TOBACCO STOCKS ON HAND.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP).—Leaf tobacco held by manufacturers and dealers on July 1 aggregated 1,847,224,526 pounds, compared with 2,035,677,863 on April 1 this year, and 1,843,736,856 on July 1 last year, the Census Bureau today announced.

Chewing, smoking, snuff and export types totaled 1,327,783,775 pounds, compared with 1,522,217,387 on April 1 this year and 1,327,851,727 on July 1 last year.

AMERICAN MISSION MOBBED

Granada, Nicaragua, Police Make Eleven Arrests.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 30 (AP).—Mob demonstrations were made against American missionaries at Granada on Monday night, and a native woman who was in the missionary church was seriously injured.

Police saved the church from damage and later arrested eleven members of the crowd that caused the trouble.

Textile Accounting Suit Up Nov. 16

The $2,000,000 accounting suit brought by the Kelsey Wilson Textile Corporation against Frederick A. Ruprecht, Converse & Co., the Consolidated Textile Corporation and E. B. & B. Knight, Inc., will be tried before Wallace MacFarlane, sitting as Special Master. Federal Judge Augustus N. Hand yesterday designated Mr. MacFarlane and hearings will begin on or about Nov. 16 unless by agreement of opposing counsel, with the Special Master's approval, another date is decided upon. The plaintiff corporation alleges that assets were improperly transferred.

Studies Riviera Plant Shipments.

TOULON, France, July 30 (AP).—Charles D. Marlatt, entomologist of the United States Department of Agriculture, has arrived here to study the problem of the shipment of Riviera plants to America. The importation of French plants and bulbs is to be prohibited by the United States Government and the order has provoked the protest of growers in Northern France. Ambassador Daeschner has presented the case in Washington. Mr. Marlatt will visit the horticultural centres of Southern France and Spain.

MORE LAND BOUGHT FOR NEW PARKWAY

PART OF OLD FAILE ESTATE

Said to Be One of the Few Remaining Virgin Areas in the County —Held at $250,000.

The Westchester County Park Commission purchased yesterday through Herbert McLean Purdy & Co. and Prince & Ripley, co-brokers, from the Faile estate, the 232 acre tract bordering on and lying in the townships of Mamaroneck, Scarsdale and White Plains.

Purchase of this land is in line with the commission's parkway program for which $20,000,000 has been appropriated. Of this sum $17,000,000 is for the purchase of land along the proposed boulevards and $3,000,000 is for improvements.

When completed, the parkway will extend from the New York City line on the south to Peekskill on the north and from Tarrytown on the west to a point on Long Island Sound, making it one of the largest in America. It will be traversed at various points by boulevards and drives. Work on several of the drives is at present under way. On July 6 the Board of Supervisors appropriated $300,000 to complete the work on the Hutchinson River Parkway, connecting Yonkers with Pelham, New Rochelle and Mount Vernon.

When the Hutchinson River Parkway was bought, the plans called for a forty-foot road, but an additional $300,000 was raised to widen it to sixty feet.

With the acquisition of Saxon Woods, the commission has 11,000 acres under title to Westchester County along the parkway. This tract, which has been in the Faile family for more than seventy-five years, is heavily wooded and is one of the few remaining virgin tracts in Westchester County. It was held by the estate at $250,000.

A Wheat 'Cornering' Charge Filed.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Charges that an attempt was being made to corner July wheat were filed with the directors of the Board of Trade today following free buying of that delivery credited to a leading local operator. The directors were called in special session, but the man who filed the charges failed to appear and present his evidence, and nothing could be done. July acted tight the greater part of the day and closed 8c higher at $1.57 in the face of deliveries of 738,000 bushels.

Bethlehem Boosts Pig Iron.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation has advanced its quotation on pig iron 50 cents a ton to a base level of $21 Eastern Pennsylvania, for No. 2 foundry grade.

Yonkers Man, Ill, a Suicide.

DELIA FLANIGAN WILL FILED

Several Catholic organizations receive legacies under the will of Delia Flanigan of 112 Park Avenue, which was filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday. The will does not give the total value of the estate, but more than $50,000 is disposed of in specific bequests.

The Catholic Foreign Missionary Society of America of Maryknoll, N. Y., gets $2,000; St. Michael's Passionist Monastery of West Hoboken, $3,000; the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, $500, and the Church of St. Agnes of East Forty-third Street, $1,000. John Flanigan of 156 West 106th Street, a brother, gets $20,000, and a sister, Mrs. Mary Austin of Jersey City, $1,000. Several nieces receive $1,000 each, while the residuary estate is inherited by Benjamin M. Bates of 112 Park Avenue.

APPROVE SALOMEN STATUE.

But Commissions Delay Choosing Site for Revolutionary Memorial.

A full size plaster model of the monument to Hyam Salomen, Jewish financier of the American Revolution, was approved yesterday by the City Art Commission, but the commission and the monument committee of the Federation of Polish Hebrews of America, which is erecting the monument, were unable to agree upon the site for the memorial. After a long discussion the matter was put over until Sept. 15. The Monument Committee was anxious to have the memorial placed on the Twenty-third Street side of Madison Square, while the Art Commission was undecided between that site and the northern side of the square.

The monument, which is by Anton Schaff, is a full length figure mounted on a short pedestal. It is estimated that the cost of the memorial will be $75,000, which is being raised by popular subscription.

MORTGAGES PLACED.

$240,000 Loaned on Three Bronx Properties.

Jacob & Emil Leitner, Inc., have negotiated a first mortgage in the amount of $60,000, for 5 years, from Weinman & McGuiness, on a two-story garage on the east side of Jerome Avenue, 150 feet north of Bedford Park Boulevard.

They have also negotiated for the Nathan Construction Company a permanent loan in the amount of $125,000, 10 years, at 5½ per cent. interest, on the premises on the west side of Longfellow Avenue, 143.68 feet south of Westchester Avenue, on a plot 100 by 100 feet. For the Bram Realty Corporation a building and permanent loan in the amount of $55,000, on six two-story business buildings to be erected on the northeast corner of White Plains Avenue and Nereid Avenue.

OPERATOR IN THREE DEALS.

J. F. Benaim Buys Tenements in Manhattan.

J. F. Benaim, the operator, purchased from William Gunther the two five-story double flats at 134 and 136 West 103d Street, near Amsterdam Avenue, plot 53 by 100 feet. Hess & O'Brien were the brokers.

The same brokers sold to Mr. Benaim the five-story cold-water tenement at 237 East Fifty-sixth Street, near Third Avenue.

This operator also bought from Haggstrom & Callen 111 Morningside Avenue, adjoining the corner of 124th Street, a five-story double flat, 23 by 88 feet. This is the first sale of the house in twenty years.

HEIGHTS FLATS IN RESALE.

The Montauk and Holly Arms in New Ownership.

The Montauk and Holly Arms, two six-story apartment houses at 402 to 420 West 148th Street, have been resold by the Joreiss Construction Company, Joseph Reiss President, to Anna Herman and others. The structures occupy a plot 200 by 99.11 feet, adjoining the southwest corner of St. Nicholas Avenue.

The I. & M. Realty Company, I. Steingartz President, has sold to S. A. D. Realty Company 504 to 508 West 171st Street, three five-story apartment houses. The buildings accommodate sixty families and occupy a plot 90 by 131.3.

Y.W.C.A. STUDIO CLUB SOLD TO W. P. JOCKIN

TO BE ALTERED FOR A CLUB

William Pierre Jockin has bought for his Pierre Holding Corporation from the Young Women's Christian Association of the City of New York their five and one-half story studio club building on plot 40 by 102 feet at 35-37 East Sixty-second Street. This building was built for school purposes, and later improved for the use of the Studio Club of the Y. W. C. A., devoted to art, music and drama, which has now outgrown its present quarters. This artistic structure has a large restaurant with a 22-foot ceiling on the ground floor, assembly rooms on the second floor and about forty chambers with baths for the students on the upper floors, with a pergola and sun room on the roof, and, it is understood, will be used by a very select club, who are arranging with the Lido-Venice interests for the catering.

The property sold is directly opposite the Links Club, the Colony Club being on the Park Avenue corner of Sixty-second Street. Hamilton Iselin & Co. were the brokers who negotiated the sale. It will be remembered several years ago Mr. Jockin, as broker, leased for Arthur Brisbane the property at 35-37 East Fifty-third Street, and arranged with him to erect the building for the Lido-Venice Club, James E. Casale, architect, who made the plans for the alterations of the Studio Club for the Y. W. C. A., will be retained to do the architectural work for the proposed club.

Waneta Building Sold.

The 461 Fourth Avenue Corporation, W. F. Conners, President, sold to Trom Corporation, J. C. and M. G. Mayer, the northeast corner of Thirty-first Street and Fourth Avenue, a twelve-story mercantile office building having a frontage of 35 feet on Fourth Avenue by a depth of 100 feet on Thirty-first Street, with a 20-by-35-foot "L" containing two passenger elevators and one freight elevator, fully tenanted by various silk firms and known as the Waneta Building. The building is 100 per cent. sprinklered, has light on four sides, floor space free from columns and produces a rent roll of approximately $85,000. The change in ownership is the first since the building was erected, which was in 1913. Negotiations for the resale are pending. Tankoos, Smith & Co. were the brokers.

Apartment Hotel for Madison Av.

The W. A. Walsh Company, Inc., sold the two four-story and basement dwellings occupying a plot 50 by 100 feet, at 237 and 239 Madison Avenue, adjoining the National Democratic Club on the north and the new Allerton Fraternity House on the south. The purchasers are a syndicate of builders who will immediately erect a fifteen-story apartment hotel from plans already prepared by Andrew J. Thomas, architect.

The price reported paid was on a basis of $8,000 a front foot, a record in the Murray Hill section. Butler & Baldwin, Inc., were the brokers.

Duross Company have resold 34 West Eleventh Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, on lot 22 by 94.10 feet, for Angiola M. Biagi to a client. Mr. Biagi bought this property less than two weeks ago from George W. Parker through the same brokers. The purchaser is to remodel the property into a ten-apartment studio building, for which plans are now being prepared.

Schulte Co. Adding to Holdings.

The Control Realty Company, a subsidiary of the Schulte Cigar Store Company, is continuing its activities on First Avenue. Thus far they have purchased approximately fifteen parcels and their most recent addition is the property at 934 First Avenue and 407 East Fifty-first Street, forming an "L" around the corner of Fifty-first Street and First Avenue.

The property was held at $75,000. The transaction was an all cash one and the deal was consummated by Joseph Milner & Co. as brokers. The Schulte Real Estate Company purchased from Samuel Luria the property, 1,095 Second Avenue, immediately south of Fifty-eighth Street, 20 by 70 feet. The property was held at $38,000. The transaction was an all cash one and was negotiated by Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought Co.

George A. Bowman, in conjunction with John A. Carukin, sold for Mrs. Anna L. Fink to A. Schulte the property at 881 Sixth Avenue, comprising a five-story building on a lot 30 by 62 feet. This property is 50 feet south of the corner of Fiftieth Street at the foot of the Sixth Avenue "L" station. The property was held at $135,000.

Louis Becker Company resold for a client 506 West 134th Street, a five-story new law flat house, 40 by 99.11 feet, with two six-room and one five-room apartments on each floor. The building is 150 feet west of Amsterdam Avenue and the seller, only had title several weeks when he resold at a cash profit of $2,250. The price paid was $60,250. Herman Graf, the purchaser, will hold it for investment.

In Harlem J. K. Moors sold for Ida Solkoff the thirty-foot, five-story apartment at 108 West 115th Street to the 108 West 115th Street Corporation, with a resale pending.

Harry J. Schum and Son have sold for Louis Steinberg and Sam Hyman to Jacob Breen, 135 Ninth Avenue, a four-story tenement with store, on a lot 22 by 100 feet.

S. & R. Greene, Inc. sold for Rose Greenberg 162 East 100th Street, a five-story tenement renting for $4,200 and held at $28,000 to a client, and also 156 East 100th Street for Chasmore Construction Co., a five-story tenement renting for $4,900 and held at $30,000 to an investing client.

Bernard A. Ottenberg sold to Henry Davis, an investor, 298 Henry Street and 61 Mangin Street, two five-story buildings with stores, each 25 by 100 feet. William Braun was the broker.

Sheehan Denies Sale.

William F. Sheehan denies that he has sold 48 East Eighty-eighth Street to the Recony Corporation, through O'Reilly & Dahn. The properties sold were 50-52-54 East Eighty-eighth Street.

$6,000,000 SKYSCRAPER FOR TIMES SQUARE

Builders purchased a Times Square corner, yesterday, for improvement with a tall theatre and office building, representing on investment of $6,000,000.

As a site for the new structure, A. E. Lefcourt resold to the Fanden Realty Company the southwest corner of Broadway and Forty-eighth Street, a five-story building, with stores, adjoining the Strand Theatre, fronting 51 feet on Broadway, 128 feet on Forty-eighth Street and 140 feet on the side adjoining the Strand Theatre. William S. Sussman, Inc., were the brokers.

The Fanden Realty Company, who recently purchased, through William S. Sussman, Inc., the only large site of its kind available for improvement in the Pennsylvania zone, a plot 245 by 100 feet, on Thirty-first Street, between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, directly opposite the Pennsylvania Railroad Terminal, will improve the Broadway and Forty-eighth Street corner, upon the expiration of present leases, with a monumental twenty-five-story office and theatre building. The total cost of the operation will be $6,000,000.

CUP COMPANY LEASES BUSH TERMINAL SPACE

The Public Service Cup Company, manufacturers of the Lily Cup, have signed a lease for 96,898 square feet of space in the Bush Terminal Company buildings 19 and 20, South Brooklyn, according to an announcement made yesterday morning by the Bush Terminal Company, which states that 10,941 square feet is for new space and that 85,957 square feet is covered by a renewal of the company's old lease. The new contracts will run until the end of 1928. The Public Service Cup Company is one of the oldest tenants on the Bush Terminal Company property, having been on the premises thirteen years.

Other leases signed during the last week for space in the Bush Terminal Company lofts were with the Buckler Cork Company in building 3, the Arch-Bilt Corrugated Products Company in building 20 and the Wheeler Osgood Company for store 31.

A lease for space in the 1 Park Avenue Building, now under construction at Thirty-second Street and Park Avenue, has been made by the 1 Park Avenue Corporation to Nichi Bei Klito Kabushiki Kaisha, a Japanese silk house, for the location of their executive offices.

POLICEMAN NABS FIVE IN AUTO WITH PISTOLS

Five men riding through Boerum Street near Graham Avenue, Brooklyn, were arrested last night and locked up in the Stagg Street station on charges of assault and robbery and possession of pistols. Two said they live in White Plains, and the police, suspecting the band might have been implicated in the hold-up and murder of a car inspector and motorman in Mount Vernon recently, asked the Mount Vernon police to look them over.

The five men were Pasquale Olof of Lakeview Avenue, White Plains; Zenise Armesio of 58 Fulton Street, White Plains; Lorenzo Caruse of 1,328 Sixty-fifth Street, Louis Gervase of 1,329 Sixty-sixth Street, and Paul Callabro of 458 Henry Street, the latter three of Brooklyn. The police said they found a fully loaded pistol on each except Armesio. Olof was identified by Harry Kaufman as one of the robbers who on July 16 held him up in his wet wash laundry at 83 Harrison Avenue and robbed him of several hundred dollars. All were charged with that robbery.

Patrolman John Moore made the arrest. He was patrolling in a police car when he saw the five men acting suspiciously and ordered the driver to halt. As he did so, he said, the men in the back seat put their hands to their pockets as though to draw guns. The policeman made them throw up their hands, get out of the car and lined them against the wall of a house.

A large crowd gathered. The policeman, certain that the men had pistols, said he was unable to search them for fear he would be shot as soon as he lowered his own pistol. He called out to several men in the crowd to get the Stagg Street station on the telephone for reinforcements, but no one heeded his request. Moore stood covering the five men for twenty minutes, intermittently asking members of the crowd for assistance. At the end of that time, a man who had just joined the group called for aid.

Detectives and uniformed policemen arrived soon after and the prisoners were hustled to the station house.

8,500,000,000 FRANCS GAMBLED IN FRANCE

Profits of Casinos for Past Season Reach 85,000,000 Francs —State Tax Up 80 Per Cent.

PARIS, July 30.—During the past season more than 8,500,000,000 francs changed hands among gamblers at French casinos. This does not include Monte Carlo, where, of course, the largest amounts are staked, or Deauville.

As the establishments take a regular tax of 1 per cent. on all money staked, this shows the profits of casinos amounted to 85,000,000 francs from the gaming table alone, not counting side profits.

Cannes, just under 32,500,000 francs (representing stakes of 3,250,000,000); Nice, 26,250,000 francs; Biarritz, just under 5,000,000 francs; Aix en Province, 3,000,000 francs, and Menton, 2,500,000 francs. The rest is made up from smaller establishments such as the Pier Promenade Eldorado at Nice, &c.

The State tax on the casinos under the new Finance bill will be increased 80 per cent. for the larger establishments, so the French Treasury will collect a substantial amount.

WILL BAR 'INDECENT' MUSIC

But Washington Police Wonder What Sort of Music That May Be.

WASHINGTON, July 30 (AP).—The Washington police have found another "don't" in the official records, and are preparing to enforce it if they can agree on what it prohibits.

From a musty file of police regulations some one unearthed an order forbidding "indecent music." Evidently "indecent" music without words is meant. Some authorities say there is no such thing and those who take the contrary view are far apart in defining a standard of decency.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Hart holds that words are wholly unnecessary to make music indecent.

"You know what I mean," he said, "that hootchy-kootchy sort of intonation."

Mrs. Mina Van Winkle, head of the policewomen, has an entirely different definition.

"I refer," she said, "to that tom-tommy sort of Oriental music that makes men forget home and babies. The desert natives play that sort for dancing, but they have self-respect enough to dance by themselves. They would be shocked to see the way our boys and girls hug each other and vibrate to the tune of those compelling pieces."

Sergeant Phillips, police psychopathic expert, inclines to the belief that while there is a lot of "crazy" music, it would be difficult to prove that any of it is "indecent."

Recall of County Officers Asked.

AVALON, N. J., July 30 (AP).—A petition asking the recall of the three Borough Commissioners of Avalon and the selection of new officers at the primary on Aug. 25 has been filed here. Neglect of duty, inefficiency and unbusinesslike methods are the reasons given. Gilbert S. Smith, Mayor; F. T. Canfield, Director of Public Works, and W. S. Baron, Director of Finance, are the Commissioners. Mayor Smith said today that the charges were "trumped up" and represented "political trickery."

INDICT 4 IN $75,000 REAL ESTATE FRAUD

WIDESPREAD INQUIRY ON

Banton Acts to Drive Out All Concerns Which Use Trick to Snare Investors.

Following the indictment yesterday of four persons charged with having defrauded poor persons out of their life savings in a "free lot" realty scheme that netted the operators $75,000, District Attorney Banton ordered Owen W. Bohan, an Assistant District Attorney, to "put out of business every real estate concern in New York County which is operating the free lot proposition."

Two of the defendants, against each of whom the Grand Jury handed down six indictments, are Maxwell R. Slutzkin, a disbarred attorney, according to Mr. Bohan, and Richard Sloane. The two others indicted have not been apprehended and their names were not revealed. Slutzkin and Sloane were released, after arraignment, in $7,500 bail each.

The indictments, which allege grand larceny in the first degree, set forth that the defendants operated as The Empire State Improvement Company, The Excelsior Development Company and The Ex-Am-Ar Corporation and sought to sell property in Bay View Heights, Queens; Rosedale South Queens, and Plainfield, N. J.

The scheme was, Mr. Bohan said, to send out women solicitors who would tell other women that a limited number of lots would be given away free to certain lucky persons as an advertisement. Later a salesman would call and tell each of the women she had won a lot and would have to pay $10 down and $35 more later to cover the cost of recording fees. The "lucky" woman would then be taken out to see her lot only to find it undesirable. The woman was then allowed $500 toward the purchase of a more desirable lot and told she could pay the rest in instalments.

Soon, as Mr. Bohan tells the story, the woman was told some one wanted to buy the lot at a profit for her, but to sell it she would have to pay what she owed on it at once so a quick deed for the prospective purchaser could be made. The next step was to inform the victim the prospect could not wait. Then she found, Mr. Bohan continued, that her property was weighted down with mortgages.

Complainants named in the indictments are Michael Shea, a policeman of 71 West 102d Street, who said he lost $830; Lucy Cohalech of 289 Fifth Avenue, $1,500; Louis Werler of 326 East Seventy-seventh Street, $1,750; Mary Cohahan of 101 West Ninety-ninth Street, $1,400; Mary Goltz of 1,339 University Avenue, the Bronx, $1,400, and Mrs. Wilhelmina Marquardt of 184 East Ninety-fifth Street, $8,500.

The first lots the defendants are alleged to have tried to sell were undeveloped property called Bay View Heights in Queens. They were not free and clear, as the indictments allege they were represented, but were encumbered by a blanket mortgage of $72,000. The second piece of property in the free lot scheme was called Rosedale South, also in Queens. This was encumbered, Mr. Bohan said, by a first mortgage for $7,500, a second mortgage for $15,000 and a third for $7,500. Tax liens and judgments aggregated about $16,000.

"We have received hundreds of complaints," Mr. Bohan continued. "In most cases the complainants are hard-working people and, in fact, in all cases that have been called to our attention, the money paid for these lots represented the life savings of the victims. Most of the complainants paid out about $1,500, although some were victimized to the extent of nearly $9,000. Slutzkin, one of the defendants, was disbarred on his own consent in 1915."

SAY SAN LUIS POTOSI IS COMMUNIST CENTRE

MEXICO CITY, July 30.—Owners of urban properties in the State of San Luis Potosi, in a compiaint to Señor Valenzuela, Secretary of the Interior and Chief of the Cabinet, charge that Governor Manrique is backing a syndicate of rent payers which is openly spreading communistic propaganda. The Secretary of the league of property owners, Tirso Garcia, a lawyer, in an open letter to the press states the City of San Luis Potosi is the centre of the communistic propaganda which he says is being spread without effort at concealment in spite of efforts of General Saturnio Cedillo of the Federal Army to suppress it.

Summer School at Princeton.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., July 30.—More than 120 undergraduates are expected to return to Princeton to attend the Summer school of Princeton University which will open Monday. Classes will continue until Sept. 19. This anticipated enrollment is the largest the school has had since its inauguration three Summers ago to allow underclassmen with conditions to make up their deficiencies before the beginning of a new college year. Professor Charles Ranald MacInnes is in charge of the school.

NO RUSH BY EX-OFFICERS FOR DRY UNIT JOBS

War Department Has No Objection, but Points Out Obstacles in Way.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—No requests have been received by the War Department, either from General Lincoln C. Andrews of the Treasury Department or from retired army officers for permission to have such officers serve as prohibition enforcement agents, it was stated at the War Department today.

The Acting Secretary, however, intimated that there would certainly be no objection on the part of the War Department to retired officers serving in this capacity, though they could not be put on the active list for such service.

Another obstacle, it is pointed out, lies in the fact that the law prohibits a retired army officer from holding a public office where the compensation with his retired pay is more than $2,500 a year, except in the case of electoral offices, or offices filled by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate.

However, there are may army officers on the retired list below the rank of Major drawing less than $2,500 a year who are eligible for work in the prohibition unit, and it is from this class that General Andrews expects to draw a number who are believed to be especially fitted for this sort of service.

While serving with the prohibition unit the officers would be suspended from the retired list, but would be restored to it at the termination of their civil employment.

According to an announcement made at the Treasury today all persons who desire to practice before the prohibition unit as attorneys or agents will, after Sept. 1, be required to register as such in the office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

BISHOP ADAM MUST QUIT CHURCH TODAY

Warrants for Him and His Attorney Are Signed But Will Wait Until 11 A. M.

PRELATE SILENT ON PLANS

Some of His Followers Say He'll Leave the Cathedral, but Continue His Fight.

Warrants for the arrest of Bishop Adam Philippovsky, who contends he is head of the Russian Orthodox Church in America, and his attorney, Maurice B. Gluck, for contempt of court in the ousting of Archbishop Platon Rodzestvensky from the Russian Cathedral of St. Nicholas at 15 East Ninety-seventh Street were signed yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy.

But at the request of Gluck, who, during a hearing in Justice Levy's office yesterday morning, threw himself on the mercy of the court and promised to see that Bishop Adam and his followers withdrew from the Cathedral as had been ordered, Justice Levy ordered that the warrants should not be served before 11 o'clock this morning, and then only in the event that Bishop Adam and his constituents are still on the Cathedral premises.

Whether or not the Bishop will withdraw is still a matter of conjecture. In an interview late yesterday afternoon, he asserted that he would be guided by the advice of counsel. Late last night he reiterated this statement, but said that he had not yet heard from Gluck.

Gluck's humility at yesterday's hearing was in marked contrast to his defiance of a few days before. He told Justice Levy that the statements credited to him in the newspapers were all untrue and recalled that he had known the Justice during twenty-five years and had never had other than the highest esteem for him. But the Court suggested that that being the case, Gluck's offense was all the more inexcusable.

Gluck asserted that he had tried his best to persuade Bishop Adam to obey the court order and vacate the premises, but that the Bishop was bound by canonical laws to remain and would not heed his advice.

Followers of the bishop said last night that they expected him to withdraw from the premises before the appointed hour this morning. They made it plain that he had no idea of abandoning the property to Archbishop Platon without a fight, but said that he believed this fight could be made much more effectively through the court and without the disagreeable necessity of going to jail.

PLEADS FOR HUSBAND, DIES.

Woman Writes Note Asking Light Sentence, Then Turns on Gas.

Mrs. Cornelia Marks, 46 years of age, of 1,245 Union Street, Brooklyn, committed suicide yesterday with gas in the kitchen of her apartment. Beside her body was a note asking for leniency for her husband, Jacob Marks, a real estate operator, who is a prisoner in Raymond Street jail awaiting trial on a charge of grand larceny.

Policeman Edward Duncan of the Flatbush precinct, broke open the door of the apartment and summoned Dr. Busky, of the Swedish Hospital, who was unable to revive Mrs. Marks. The note she left was unaddressed and read:

"Excuse me for this act that I am about to do. I did not know the trial would take place so soon. Please make as light a sentence as you can on my dear Jack."

Marks was arrested on complaint of W. Dwight Teese, of the Transfer Tax office, who charges that he paid $1,500 to Marks on some Brooklyn property and that he later discovered Marks had sold the property to another person. The trial is set for early next month.

MAY BUILD SCOTT CASE ON LEOPOLD-LOEB LINES

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP).—Alienists who have examined Russell Scott this week in preparation for an insanity hearing before Judge Joseph B. David on Monday are laying their lines for a scientific case which may closely follow the testimony of the defense alienists in the Loepold-Loeb hearing before Judge Caverly last Summer.

Dr. Harold S. Hulbert, one of the alienists whose testimony saved the youthful murderers of Bobby Franks from the gallows, visited Scott in the County Jail yesterday with complete apparatus for gland tests, impulse measurements and mental and physical reactions. Today it was learned the examination was in many respects similar to that of Loeb, who was declared to have been the victim of a dream life.

Dr. Hulbert's conclusion was that Scott was suffering from glandular deficiencies, and was paranoiac. A tentative conclusion is that he has illusions of grandeur, believing himself to be a great financier, a famous actor, and a victim of an international conspiracy and persecution.

Dr. Clarence A. Neymann, Professor of Nervous and Mental Diseases in Northwestern University, is another of the defense alienists in the Leopold-Loeb case who has been retained by Scott's friends.

Dr. William O. Krohn, who has examined Scott for the State, believes him sane and normal in every respect. He was a State alienist in the Leopold-Loeb case.

Osborne Wood Won't Fight Divorce.

TAMPA, July 30 (AP).—Osborn C. Wood, former Army Lieutenant and a son of Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor General of the Philippines, today said that he did not intend to contest the divorce suit filed by his wife in Wilmington, Del.

Hotel Dieu

In the seventh century a huge undertaking was launched in Paris. It was the building of one of the earliest recognized public hospitals of the world—the Hotel Dieu. People of that day viewed the vast work with wonder and awe.

Yet how puny this would now appear could they see the 6 great modern hospitals, the homes for the aged and orphans, the community centers, and the many other institutions which are provided for the needy by the 91 affiliated charitable organizations of Federation.
